Allies and Germans Speed Dawes Plan Operation

REACH AGREEMENT ON DECLARATIONS ABOUT DEFAULTING

French and German Government Heads Meet in Private First Time Since 1870.

ECONOMIC EVACUATION IS ADVANCED TEN DAYS

French-Belgian Railway Control To Be Withdrawn From Ruhr December 1, 1924.

BY CHARLES M. M'CANN.

London, August 7.—For the first time since 1870, the heads of the governments of France and Germany have met in private conference.

With this hoped-for contact established, the chief delegates to the international conference came to complete agreement relative to declarations of default under the Dawes plan and brought application of the plan nearer by ten days.

Taking advantage of the auspicious prevalence of optimism, the 14 chief delegates to the conference advanced the dates on which the Dawes plan and its prerequisite conditions may be realized. Under the rearranged schedule, the formal proclamation putting the Dawes plan into effect will be made on October 5, instead of October 15.

Speed Up Evacuation.

At the request of Germany, the conferees agreed that the Franco-Belgian customs barriers, which inclose the Ruhr, be removed eight instead of twenty days after August 15, by which latter date the Reichstag is to have passed legislation necessary. Under the agreement, all dates specified in the economic evacuation of the occupied territories have been advanced by ten days.

The joint railway control of the Fr[illegible] and Belgian occupying forces, which has taken over the network of Ruhr railways, will be withdrawn December 1, 1924, the delegates agreed.

Amnesty for expelled and imprisoned Germans, who clashed with the invaders when France and Belgium went into the Ruhr, will be considered by a judicial committee. Chancellor Marx has made a major point of obtaining repatriation for the expelled men, women and children.

Yielding to French insistence, it is understood that the Germans have

Identify "Ghost" At New Orleans As Big Alligator

Big Saurian "Arrested" in Street After Chasing Frightened Negro Women.

New Orleans, August 7.—"The ghost" which for a month has haunted the vicinity of Baronne and Girod streets, in the center of New Orleans' retail business district, was laid early today by Patrolman Lee Halliday of the first precinct. Few seemed to have heard of it, but one negro porter reported to the police sometime ago that it has "hissed" at him from beneath a bookcase in an office he was sweeping, and another time a citizen asserted it had "hissed" at him from beneath a building as he was passing by.

The mystery was solved when [illegible]alliday heard a woman's frantic screams for help. As he turned toward the outcry, a stout negress fairly whizzed by him. "Hit's after me! Hit's after me! Help! Murder!" she yelled as she disappeared down the street. The officer drew his revolver and, crouching, began to work his way in the direction of which the woman had appeared.

Lumbering toward him down the sidewalk, lashing its tail to right and left, was the "ghost," an alligator more than four feet in length, which apparently had been prowling about that section of the city for weeks. The policeman, wise to the ways of saurians, "arrested" the 'gator and jailed him in a box. Later, he was presented to the zoo at Audubon park.

The 'gator is supposed to have entered the city from a nearby marsh by way of one of the numerous drainage canals that serve New Orleans.

RETAIL FOOD COST SHOWED DECREASE HERE LAST MONTH

Washington, August 7.—The retail cost of food in 14 of 19 cities in which surveys have just been completed by the labor department increased from 1 to 3 per cent last month.

The department's bureau of labor statistics announced today that a 3 per cent increase was noted in Boston and Indianapolis, 2 per cent in Dallas, Milwaukee, Portland, Oregon, and Providence, 1 per cent in Birmingham, Denver, New Haven Peoria and Scranton.

Five cities, Cincinnati, Atlanta, Norfolk, Fall River and Louisville, showed decreases of from 3 to less than 1 per cent.

NEW FLIGHT BASE IN ICELAND FOUND

Early Resumption of Homeward Tour of American Fliers Expected in Military Circles.

Washington, August 7.—An early resumption of the world flight by the two remaining planes, now at Reykjavik, Iceland, was expected in military circles today, following official information that the army advance party had located a safe substitute base for ice-locked Angmagvalik, which had been listed as the next terminal.

A dispatch from the cruiser Milwaukee relayed a report from the explorers declaring a satisfactory place had been found at Ekaluit, on the west coast of Greenland. Not only would this afford a secure landing place for the planes, the report said, but an open harbor was available for the Milwaukee and the facilities for hauling out the planes should moderate repairs be necessary.

The place did not appear even on maps of the general staff, and considerable search was necessary before army officers finally identified it as the old post listed on Danish charts as "Iluilek."

It is considerably further south than the proposed base which the army advance was unable to reach because of unprecedented ice fields. Ekaluit was said to enjoy longer periods of open water and has been so recorded in marine journals.

A distance of 750 miles is estimated to be comprised in the contemplated jump, well within the capcity of the planes.

BOSTON II PROCEEDS TO MEET LIEUT. WADE.

Keyport, N. J., August 7.—The Boston II, piloted by Lieutenant McDonald, which is being flown from Langley Field, Virginia, to Nova Scotia for the use of Lieutenant Wade, around-the-world flier, made its first stop here at 3:30 p. m. today, and after being refueled, was anchored on Raritan bay for the night.

Owing to the late departure from Langley Field, it was decided not to push on to Boston today, but to lay over here until the morning.

Tomorrow's program calls for leaving Keyport at 9 o'clock and arrival at Boston in approximately four hours. A short stop is to be made at the Boston flying field, after which, if favorable weather prevails, the craft will proceed to Bar Harbor, arriving there before night. Sufficient fuel will be taken on here to carry the hydroplane through to Bar Harbor.

FEAR ARGENTINE AVIATOR WAS FORCED TO LAND.

Calcutta, August 7.—(By the Associated Press.)—Major Zanni, Argentine aviator attempting a world flight, who left Allahabad for Calcutta this morning, was sighted flying over Gaya about 250 miles northwest of here, at 11:30 a. m., according to advices received from that city. Since then no further word has been received of the Argentine flier, and it is thought he may have made a forced landing in some district where communications were not available.

LOST PROPELLER BLADE SLACKENS LEVIATHAN SPEED

Washington, August 7.—Because of the loss at sea of an inboard propeller blade, the liner Leviathan is holding her speed to 20 knots and will not reach New York until Tuesday, a day behind schedule, advices to the shipping board today stated From New York the vessel will proceed to Boston for repairs, which are expected to be completed in time to permit her to leave New York on schedule for the next sailing.

Among the passengers are Representatives Davis, of Tennessee; Bankhead, of Alabama, and Lineberger, of California, members of the house shipping board investigating committee, and Commissioner Plummer, of the board, who have been conducting their inquiries in Europe.

STORM PARALYZES CARS AND LIGHTS; CAUSES ACCIDENTS

Transportation Service of City Street Railway Is Halted for More Than One Hour.

$2,000 DAMAGE CAUSED HOUSE BY LIGHTNING

Big Tree Is Split by Bolt. Four Persons Are Hurt in Auto Accidents During Storm.

One of the most intense electrical storms Atlanta has known in years swooped down on the city Thursday afternoon, causing great inconvenience by tying up the transportation and lighting systems at a time when thousands of people were trying to make their way home. The disturbance, however, did little property damage.

Four persons were hurt in automobile accidents caused by the storm, and several others were injured in other mishaps recorded during the day.

Street car service was interrupted one hour and 15 minutes, beginning at 4:42 o'clock, when the load of traffic is greatest.

The cause of this unusually long suspension of service lay in the simultaneous destruction of the big oil switches at both the Boulevard and Davis street substations of the company. These switches feed all street car lines in the city, and destruction of both at the same time forced a complete shut-down of all cars.

Property Damage Small.

Property damage suffered by the company was slight, no loss being suffered besides the burning of one oil switch at the Boulevard substation, and two oil switches and a number of insulators at the Davis street plant. The regulator which feeds the Biltmore hotel was also burned out, putting out all the lights in the big building for more than an hour.

Telephone service was not affected by the storm.

Lightning Strikes House.

Fire, caused when the house was struck by lightning while the storm was at its height, caused damage to the home of W. H. Lee, of 59 Killian street, estimated at $2,000. Thirteen-year-old Evelyn Lee was alone in the house with a maid at the time, but neither was injured. So great was the force of the bolt that Charles Griffin, seated on the porch of his home on the opposite side of the street, was knocked to the floor, but with the exception of slight bruises, was not hurt.

The entire roof of the Lee home was destroyed, and a large part of the furniture was damaged by smoke and water, although some furniture was saved by neighbors. Because of the fright of the child and maid, the fire had gained considerable head-

SHIELDS SECOND IN SENATE RACE

General Tyson Has Substantial Lead Over Incumbent in Tennessee Battle.

Memphis, Tenn., August 7.—Returns from 837 of the state's 2,118 voting precincts compiled late tonight gave General L. D Tyson, of Knoxville, a plurality of 7,831 votes over Senator John K. Shields, his nearest opponent for the democratic nomination for United States senator.

Judge Nathan L. Bachman, of Chattanooga, continued to trail the ticket, 7,376 votes behind Senator Shields.

The vote: Tyson, 33,289; Shields, 25,458; Bachman, 18,082.

Shortly after 11 o'clock a statement from Senator Shields' headquarters in Nashville expressed confidence of the success of his candidacy and predicted his nomination. Judge Bachman's headquarters an hour before had conceded defeat.

Tyson Claims 35,000 Majority.

At 11:30 o'clock tonight Tyson's

FAVOR BOND ISSUE FOR GEORGIA PORT

Senator Cason's Bill for Warehouse Terminals at Savannah Is Recommended by Committee.

The house committee on constitutional amendments Thursday afternoon voted to report favorably the bill by Senator Cason, of the first district, providing for a state bond issue of $15,000,000 to build a state-owned port and warehouse terminals at Savannah. The measure already has passed the senate.

Representative New, of Laurens, vigorously opposed the bill before the house committee, declaring that the state was in no financial condition to assume the obligations of a bond issue at this time.

On the final vote, the committee was tied, seven voting for the measure and seven against. Chairman W. R. Jones cast the deciding vote, making the result 8 to 7 in favor of the bill.

STATE FORESTRY BILL IS PASSED

Reconsideration of Electrocution Measure Rejected by Senate by Vote of 27 to 18.

With the last week-end of the present legislative session at hand, the Georgia senate's calendar is practically clear of all state-wide important legislation, and the upper house will probably devote the last four days of the session to work on local and minor bills of the house and senate.

The upper house, Thursday, voted 27 to 18 to refuse reconsideration of the Perkins electrocution measure, providing for substituting the electric chair for hanging as a means of executing the death sentence. The motion to reconsider was made by Senator Smith, of the 35th district.

The bill has been passed by the lower house and by the senate, with an amendment that persons now under the death sentence in Georgia will not be affected by the change. The amendment must now be concurred in by the house and the bill signed by the governor before it becomes a law.

Forestry Bill Passed.

The bill known as the "forestry contract act," designed to conserve timber lands in Georgia and develop forests on lands from which timber has been cut, was passed by the senate after a brief debate, in which advocates declared the measure to be the most important conservation bill before the legislature in years.

The bill provides for fixing the assessed value for a period of 15 to 40 years of forest land which shall be placed under contract of reforestation with the state board of forestry; to provide for a yield tax to be levied upon the value of the timber at the time of cutting, on such forest lands as may be placed under contract of reforestation with the state board of forestry. The measure was introduced

TOBACCO MARKET GAINS SLIGHTLY

Approximately 2,000,000 Pounds of "Weed" Sold on Second Day in Georgia Coastal Section.

Tobacco sales for the second day of the Georgia market Thursday showed a decline in the quantity of the product handled, but a marked improvement in the quality of the "weed," experts representing large manufacturing firms stated tonight. A slightly better average price was indicated. It was estimated that about 2,000,000 pounds were sold Thursday in comparison with approximately 3,500,000 Wednesday.

Markets continued to be crowded, and the decline in quantity was attributed to the fact that many of the buyers of Wednesday's products were unable to clear the floors in order that other tobacco could be placed. There was no indication of a lack of the product.

Auctioneers declared that there was yet enough tobacco in curing houses in the Georgia belt to sell a million pounds a day for the next 25 or 30 days and predicted that good prices would continue on account of the good grade grown generally in the state.

Buyers from all parts of the United States and foreign countries are at the sales, and the bidding continued to be brisk. The estimate that the crop would bring $6,250,000 to Georgia is conservative, according to those in close touch with the market.

Sales and average prices paid follow:

Market—	Sales	Average Price
Vidalia	58,000	28 cents
Fitzgerald	50,000	26½ cents
Douglas	200,000	22.8 cents
Valdosta	100,000	23 cents

FITZGERALD AVERAGES 26.8 CENTS A POUND.

Fitzgerald, Ga., August 7.—(Special.)—The second day's sales at the local tobacco market were quiet, only 50,000 pounds being sold here at an average price of $26.81 a hundred pounds. The highest price paid was 52 cents a pound. M. E. Munn re-

N. Y. RESERVE BANK CUTS REDISCOUNT RATE TO 3 PER CENT

New York, August 7.—The Federal Reserve Bank of New York today announced that it had lowered the rediscount rate from 3 1-2 to 3 per cent, effective August 8. This the third change to be made this year.

The cut in the rediscount rate of the New York Federal Reserve bank was not unexpected, but has been talked for several weeks in financial and banking circles. This latest cut, the third to be made by the New York bank this season, shows, according to advices from federal reserve officials, the existence of a large amount of idle money in the particular region served by the New York bank.

Although Atlanta federal reserve directors meet Friday, there is no thought of following the lead set Thursday in New York, say officials. The opinion was also expressed that other reserve banks in the country were not likely at the present time to order a further reduction in their rediscount rates.

EX-SWEETHEART OF RICHARD LOEB GIVES HIM SUCCOR

Miss Lorraine Nathan Bares Embers of Burned-Out Love To Help Save Slayers.

PROSECUTOR CHARGES GIRL WITH PERJURY

State Claims Complete Rout of First Lay Witnesses Offered by Defense Attorneys.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Chicago, August 7.—The prosecution tonight claimed a rout of five witnesses called by the defense today to testify in furtherance of its plea for mitigation when Judge John R. Caverly sentences Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb for kidnaping and murdering young Robert Franks.

Four college and fraternity chums of the two and a former sweetheart of Loeb, paraded to the witness stand, gave evidence closely following the trail demarcated by three famous mental pathologists, who testified the youths were "mentally sick," and then encountered a grilling cross-examination by Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney.

Loeb's Actions "Infantile."

Reading from transcripts of statements previously made in his office, the prosecutor was able to show in some instances that stories of today's witnesses' observations and conclusions regarding Loeb and Leopold were at variance with their sworn testimony.

Miss Lorraine Nathan, pretty little 18-year-old brunette, identified herself as a "school-day friend" of Loeb since 1921 and testified that since June, 1923, she had noted a "complete change in him," that at times he acted "rather idiotically" and that she came to regard him as "irrational, irresponsible and infantile."

Immediately upon receiving the witness for cross-examination, State's Attorney Crowe relentlessly pounced upon her testimony. He read repidly a record of what he said was Miss Nathan's original statement to him that Loeb was "perfectly sane and rational" and "manly," a gentleman and all that she expected in an ideal," and with voice gradually rising over protests by Clarence S. Darrow, chief counsel for the defense, crescendoed to a shouted demand of the court:

Perjury Is Charged.

"Have we got to where the state's attorney is not permitted to show that a witness is a deliberate perjurer?"

In Arnold Maremont, University of Chicago law student, Mr. Crowe caught a Tartar and did not succeed

BIENNIAL SESSION MEASURE SIGNED

Governor Walker Presents Senator Mundy With Pen He Used in Approving Solons' Action.

Governor Clifford Walker on Thursday signed the biennial sessions bill, which passed the house Tuesday mornby a vote of 150 to 45, after it had been passed by the senate last summer.

The bill, which is a constitutional amendment providing that the general assembly shall meet only once every two years for a 60-day term instead of holding annual sessions of 50 days each as at present, will have to be ratified by the voters at the November election before it becomes part of the law of the state. Should the November vote support the bill, however, it will mean that the legislature will meet for 60 days in 1925, and then not convene again in regular session until 1927.

Governor Walker signed the measure in the presence of Senator W. W. Mundy, of Polk county, who has waged an untiring fight for four years to see it enacted, and his leading ally in the senate, Senator Mason of Hart county. In recognition of Senator Mundy's efforts the governor presented him with the pen used in affixing the signature.

BORDER PATROL TO KEEP CATTLE OUTSIDE STATE

By a substitute measure approved Thursday by the senate special judiciary committee, $25,000 will be appropriated by the state to pay expenses of a border patrol, whose duty it will be to keep tick-infested cattle from crossing the Florida border line and reinfesting the tick-free counties of Georgia. The substitute further provides that plans will be drawn for erection of a fence along the border line to keep out tick-infested catttle.

The substitute was drawn by a subcommittee after the committee had postponed action on a house measure providing that the state take over the expenses of tick eradication work in the various counties.

BATTLE FOR VOTE OF LABOR RACES

Wilson Flays Gompers in Note Declaring Davis Has Clean Bill as Friend of Labor.

BY THOMAS L. STOKES.

Washington, August 7.—The lines have been drawn by democrats and independents for a heated battle over the labor vote in the "doubtful" states, where organized workers are numerous and cast a heavy ballot. The democrats must capture some of these states if they expect to beat Coolidge, and the labor vote is one of the decisive factors as far as their chances are concerned.

There are five "doubtful" states where a large labor vote is polled: New York, New Jersey, Michigan, Indiana and Ohio. The total electoral vote in these states is 113, which is destined, perhaps, to be the margin of victory. The swing of the labor vote will count strongly as far as democratic hopes go. Republicans do not figure much on it in their plans and estimates.

Wilson-Gompers Row Not Ended.

Both democrats and independents have seen the significance of the swing of the labor vote, in the "doubtful" states particularly. Each has thrown down the gage of battle to the other. That is the real meaning of the correspondence between Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, and William B. Wilson, secretary of labor under President Wilson, which brought into the open the fight which was simmering under the surface.

This is not the last of the warfare of words. Wilson has answered the letter of Gompers, criticizing the record of Davis, in another letter, made public here Thursday night by the democratic national committee, dated August 7. Is expected to bring forth a retort from the other side, provoking a continuous barrage during the campaign.

Differ on Placing of Credits.

Stating that there is no difference between him and Gompers on the general policies of the American Federation of Labor, Wilson says that "the point upon which we have not yet had a meeting of minds is as to where the credits are due in carrying out the policies that we both believe in."

"So far as Senator La Follette's labor record dealing with domestic affairs is concerned he is entitled to a clean bill of health at the hands of the American labor movement but as you point out in your own statement

Captain T. J. Denmark was named by the Georgia prison commission Thursday to succeed the late Goodloe H. Yancey as secretary.

Previous to taking up his work with the prison commission Captain Denmark served for four years as clerk of the court in Bulloch county and prior to that was an auditor with the state banking department for three years.

No successor to Captain Denmark as bookkeeper has been named.

W. R. L. MORGAN FATALLY WOUNDS WOMAN HE LOVED

52-Year-Old Insurance Solicitor Shoots Self, Falling Dead at Mrs. Fannie Briscoe's Feet.

WOMAN'S END COMES AT GRADY HOSPITAL

Victim Had Been Married Twice and Had Never Received Divorce From Her Second Husband.

Disregarding the pleas of Mrs. Fannie Briscoe, 36, the woman he loved, that he spare her life, W. R. L. Morgan, 52-year-old life insurance solicitor, Thursday afternoon shot her down, inflicting a fatal wound, and then sent a bullet crashing through his own head, dying at the feet of his victim. The woman died two hours later at Grady hospital.

The shooting, which was the outgrowth of jealousy, it is said, occurred at the store of J. W. Biggers, 125 Edgewood avenue, where Mrs. Briscoe has been employed as a saleswoman and collector for about seven years. It was witnessed, so far as police have been able to learn, by only one man—Albert Lovinger, retail grocery merchant at 354 Sims street.

Blames the Woman.

Morgan, who had been employed since last June by the United States National Life and Casualty company, of Chicago, Ill., with offices at 707 Austell building, left a note in which he blamed the double tragedy upon the woman, but failed to give his reasons.

"Fannie Briscoe is the cause of it all. I can't stand the way she has done me," read a portion of one of the notes Morgan wrote before the shooting.

Morgan had made his home in the rooming house of Mrs. Della Wolpert, 266 Woodward avenue, until about six months ago when he left to live in the same home with the woman he killed, Captain A. J. Holcombe, in charge of the plainclothes department, was told. The two are reported to have parted a short time ago after a quarrel, at which time Morgan returned to Mrs. Wolpert's home.

Living With Cousin.

Mrs. Briscoe had been living since that time with her cousin, Mrs. W. E. Jacobs, in the St. Francis apartment, 97 1-2 Garnett street. She had been married twice, having divorced her first husband, L. C. Briscoe, who lives at Winder, Ga. Her second husband, according to the police, is B. H. Morton, who is said to live on Ivy street. They are separated but have never been divorced, it is said. She has been known at her place of business, however, as Mrs. Briscoe.

"She was Mrs. Briscoe when I first knew her and she chose to continue to use the name of her first husband, who is a fine man," J. W. Biggers, Mrs. Briscoe's employer, stated to a Constitution reporter.

Mrs. Briscoe is survived by a 17-year-old son by her first marriage, Emmett Briscoe, who is living with his father. Before her marriage to Briscoe, she was Miss Fannie Brooks. Robert Brooks, a brother, lives with her second husband at the Ivy street address, it is said.

Mrs. Briscoe also has two sisters—Mrs. W. T. Byrd, of Griffin, and Mrs. R. B. Cawn, of Tucker.

Story of Witness.

According to the story that Albert Lovinger told Captain Holcombe, he was engaged in repairing his automobile in front of the store where the shooting occurred when his attention was attracted by the loud conversation of Morgan and Mrs. Briscoe, who were inside the store.

"Suddenly the woman commenced begging and pleading with the man not to shoot," he told police. "I then moved where I could get a better view into the store. At that time I heard two shots and the woman screamed. Two more shots were fired in rapid succession and the man crumpled to the floor across the feet of the woman. He appeared to have been holding the muzzle of the pistol on the top of his head so the bullet would range downward through the skull," Lovinger said.

One shot entered Mrs. Briscoe's cheek, ranging upward through the brain, and another entered her breast. After one shot had been fired into his own head the gun again was discharged, but the bullet went wild.

The series of notes left by Morgan, and which show that he had deliberately planned to kill Mrs. Briscoe and himself, read as follows:

Series of Notes.

Good-by, Mother Wolpert and Mrs. Kennedy. I am sorry to leave you. I want to be buried in the country at Corinth church. My niece will tell you all about it. Farewell.

Call Ed Matthews company, 23 East Alabama street, Main 0027. J. N. Hirsch, on Marietta street, holds a $1,000 bank stock of mine. G. C. Ray knows all about it.

I am tired of life. The world has gone back on me. Call J. S. Mitchell, works for the R. & P. company. Call Victor Harden, works for Thomas Cusacks company. Call my nephew at Buchanan, Ga. W. E. Morgan. I am at 266 Woodward avenue, and if I don't ever see you any more, God bless and save you.

Send my book to 707 Austell building. I hope God will take my soul. I have stood this as long as I can. Fannie Briscoe is the cause of it all. I can't stand the way she has done me. That's all. Good-by to all.

Accounts in Shape.

S. Y. Ford, assistant manager of the local office of the insurance company that Morgan worked for, stated that the dead man's accounts were in excellent shape. "He was a good worker and seemed to be conscientious in all he did," Mr. Ford said.

Morgan was born at Buchanan, Ga., coming to Atlanta 15 years ago. He first operated a restaurant and soft drink stand, later engaging in the life insurance business. Giving up his insurance work, he was employed by a local furniture establishment as salesman and collector until last June when he again entered the insurance field.

Mrs. Briscoe was born at Monroe, Ga. She had been living in Atlanta 8 years, 7 of which she was in the employ of Mr. Biggers. "She was a fine woman and a splendid worker," Mr. Biggers stated.

In Despondent Mood.

Mrs. Wolpert and roomers at her home said that Morgan had been in a despondent mood for the past week; that only a few days ago he got his pistol out, oiled and cleaned it and spoke to them of ending his own life, but smiled immediately afterward and he was not taken seriously by those who heard the threat.

Before leaving his room Thursday morning, Mrs. Wolpert stated, Morgan gave her a card bearing the names and telephone numbers of two nieces—Elsie Mitchell and Willie Hallar—and asked that they be notified if anything happened to him. He had planned to eat supper at Elsie Mitchell's home Thursday night, and told Mrs. Wolpert that he might not be home until late.

"Mr. Morgan had lived here on and off for about two years," Mrs. Wolpert said, "and never worried or was downcast until the last few weeks. Since that time, though, he had been drinking steadily, and while he never came home drunk, he was drinking every day."

His Room in Order.

Morgan's room was in perfect order, and all personal effects were found in his trunk. Although he had turned in no money at the insurance office this week, more than the amount collected during that time was found in his pockets.

Relatives of Mrs. Briscoe claim that the woman had been warned by friends that Morgan had made threats against her, but discounted the warning, saying, "Mr. Morgan is too much of a gentleman to do anything like that."

It also was stated that while Morgan and Mrs. Briscoe had quarreled a short time ago, at which time Mrs. Briscoe told Morgan that she never would be able to marry him, the couple had been together several times recently.

Watched From Poolroom.

Morgan is reported to have spent much time during the last several days loitering about the pool room located directly across Edgewood avenue from the place where Mrs. Briscoe was employed. He appeared to be depressed, according to acquaintances.

Records at police station show that Mrs. Briscoe resided at 82 East Baker street May 12 of this year, when she was arrested by Call Officers W. A. Goode and W. F. Bullard under a charge of being drunk. The police say she was seated in a cut-down auto when arrested.

On February 12 of this year, Morgan also was arrested under a charge of being drunk and disorderly, police records show. He was taken into custody by Officers Lassiter and Corley.

Barclay & Brandon have charge of Mrs. Briscoe's body, while the body of Morgan was turned over to Hunter & Blanchard Co.

NELSON AND BAKER MISSOURI NOMINEES

St. Louis, Mo., August 7.—Their leads increased by belated returns from the rural districts, Arthur W. Nelson, democrat, of Bunceton, and Sam A. Baker, republican, of Jefferson City, successful candidates for nomination for governor in Tuesday's primary, appear to be nominated by pluralities of 50,000.

Lieutenant Governor Hiram Lloyd, republican candidate, of St. Louis went into second place upon reports from all but 873 precints of the state's 4,000. He led Victor J. Miller, of St. Louis, by 493.

In the democratic race, with 3,431 precincts in, the count stood: Nelson, 152,782; Jacobs, 85,894; Priest, 46,248; Moore, 44,495; Loftin, 3,029.

The lead of Mrs. Kate Morrow, democratic candidate for secretary of state over her two men opponents, continued to grow, and with 3,248 precincts in, she held a plurality of 25,989.

HUSBAND BOUND OVER ON CHARGES OF WIFE

Hubert Cunningham, 234 North Moreland avenue, Thursday was bound over to the grand jury on a charge of wife beating, and his bond fixed by the recorder at $100. He was arrested Wednesday on a warrant issued by his wife, Mrs. Mae Cunningham, of Woodward avenue, who claimed that he beat her after hearing stories reflecting on her character.

Eugene Dickey Announces as Candidate for the Legislature

In announcing for the legislature I feel that it would not be out of place to say something concerning myself and candidacy in order that the citizens of Fulton County who are not acquainted with me personally may decide as to whether or not they will favor me with their support.

I was born and raised in Atlanta, attended the public schools here, studied law at Mercer University, and have practiced law in Atlanta for the past seventeen years.

If I am fortunate enough to be elected I shall strive to lower taxes by advocating an economical administration of the State's affairs, and by the abolishment of all public offices that are more political than necessary.

I have no personal interests to further in case I am elected, neither am I obligated to any class or clique of people to promote their interest, but I shall endeavor to represent the entire people as a whole, and use my best efforts in that direction.

I am in favor of the salary system for public officers of Fulton County, and if elected will undertake to formulate laws to make it successful.

I will heartily appreciate your vote and influence.

Respectfully,
EUGENE DICKEY.

'HOUSEHOLD GOODS' PROVES TO BE CAR OF GRAIN ALCOHOL

Ashland, Va., August 7.—A carload of grain alcohol, billed as "household goods," was seized by officers here tonight and four men who sought to move the shipment were placed under arrest.

The men arrested were taken into custody after they had loaded five boxes from the freight car into a large moving van, in which they arrived here. When arrested, they claimed not to know the contents of the boxes which they were moving, and said that they were employed by a baggage transfer company of Richmond. They were held in bail of $1,000 each and will be given a hearing Saturday afternoon.

Sergeant Smeeman, who made the seizure, said tonight that a similar experience, some months ago, with a car labeled "vinegar," led him to suspect that the shipment was something besides "household goods."

ELECTRIC STORM PARALYZES SERVICE

way before the department was notified by neighbors.

Lightning struck a big poplar tree in the yard of F. M. Loveless, at 25 St. Charles avenue, splitting the entire length of the trunk, and throwing limbs for hundreds of feet, but no damage was done.

The sudden storm and shower sent the temperature hurtling down from the maximum of 89 degrees it had reached at 4 o'clock, and cooler weather resulted during the night.

More showers are predicted for this afternoon by C. F. von Herrmann, local meteorologist, indicating that the heat wave has at least temporarily been broken.

Driver Blinded by Rain.

Amon Lewis, 47, of 40 North Howard street, Kirkwood, was injured, perhaps fatally, when the automobile in which he was riding crashed into the rear of a heavy truck operated by B. T. Hagan when Lewis, blinded by the driving rain, was unable to see the truck, which was parked in Boulevard place.

Three children, Joe and Florine Lewis, aged 10 and 8, respectively, and Arthur Pollock, 10, who were riding in the Lewis machine at the time, escaped uninjured, although the automobile was practically demolished. Lewis, who was treated at Grady hospital, suffered a badly bruised chest, severe lacerations about the face and head, and an injured leg, with the possibility of internal injuries.

According to the report made to Call Officers Cartright and Johnson, who investigated, the truck was parked while repairs on a wheel were being made, and Hagan, failing to see it, crashed into the rear end. Hagan claimed that there was no light or other warning sign displayed.

Taxi and Truck in Smash.

S. Banks, local taxicab driver, and a man whose identity is undetermined suffered minor injuries Thursday afternoon when the taxi collided with a motor truck driven by John Wise, negro, at Moreland street and North avenue. Slippery streets were said to have been responsible for the accident.

Earl Bartlett, 15, of 475 East Fair street, suffered a broken leg late Thursday when knocked from his bicycle by an automobile driven by J. H. Fuller, of Chamblee, Ga., at East Hunter and Moore streets.

Fuller, after taking the boy to Grady hospital, reported the accident to police headquarters, stating that he was turning from Hunter into Moore street when the rear wheel of his machine struck young Bartlett's bicycle. He declared thae he did not see the boy until, stopping after the smash, he saw him lying on the ground. No case was made.

27 Motorists Fined.

Two boys—Carl Swanger, 15, of 133 Lovejoy street, and Marvin Moon, 16, of Center Hill, Ga., were treated at Grady hospital Thursday night for injuries received in auto accidents, but no reports of the mishaps were made to police. Swanger suffered a fractured knee and injured back, while Moon escaped with minor cuts and bruises.

Twenty-seven drivers fined in recorder's court during the day paid fines totaling $339, 19 being fined for violating traffic ordinances, seven for speeding and one for reckless driving.

NEW FRUIT SERVICE OPERATES TO MOBILE

Mobile, Ala., August 7.—The Honduras Fruit and Transportation company, a new fruit service, began operating into Mobile today from Central American fruit ports. The first steamer of the service, the Venator, arrived here today with a cargo of bananas. The officers of the company arrived here today from New Orleans to take charge of the business.

Compulsory cultivation of food crops has been ordered throughout several departments by the Peruvian government, in view of the persistent drought in that country. The haciendas and farms of the department of Inca and the provinces of Chancay, Lima, Calloa and Canete are required without exception to devote a minimum of 5 per cent of their cultivated lands to the exclusive sowing of articles of food.

Because rosin producers have been restricted to German forests instead of being allowed to use those in Russian and Polish territory, as they were during the war, the rosin production there has decreased and the country may have to get its supply from the United States.

In Canada there are fields of soft coal lignite, estimated at 57,000,000,000 tons, which would last 140,000 years at the present rate of consumption.

WALTON WINNER OVER KLAN FOES

Oklahoma City, Okla., August 7.—"Iron Jack" Walton, who as governor, defied the Ku Klux Klan in Oklahoma last year and fought it until he was impeached by the state legislature, is back in politics up to his neck.

With almost complete returns in from Tuesday's primary, Walton is being acclaimed as the winner in his spectacular fight for the democratic senatorial nomination. Walton is leading Congressman E. B. Howard, his nearest opponent, who was backed by the klan, by about 6,000 votes. Former Senator Thomas P. Gore ran a poor third and has returned to his law practice in Washington.

Reviving his charges of "invisible government," which he first raised in his dramatic attempt to drive the klan from the state, Walton made the klan question the sole issue of his vigorous campaign for a comeback. With a jazz band and a squad of the few faithful lieutenants who stood by him when klan leaders thought they had definitely put him out of Oklahoma politics last year, Walton stumped the whole state, denouncing the hooded order, which he claimed was trying to dictate the primaries of both parties.

Walton's republican opponent will be W. B. Pine, who has the indorsement of the klan. Consequently, his many enemies in the democratic party will be forced either to vote for Walton or else bolt the party ticket and vote for Pine.

BREWSTER WINNER IN MAINE PRIMARY.

Portland, Maine, August 7.—State Senator Ralph O. Brewster, who ran with Ku Klux Klan support, was declared by the governor and council today to have been nominated for governor by the republicans at the June primary. The official returns, giving a majority of 320 to Frank G. Farrington, president of the state senate, were changed by a recount to a majority of 581 for Brewster.

The final vote was given as: Brewster 47,284, Farrington 46,703.

Governor Baxter, at the conclusion of the recount, said that fraud in the balloting in ward four of Portland had been shown, that 501 fraudulent ballots had been cast in this ward, which gave Farrington 718 votes to 153 for Brewster. After a hearing for voters in this ward held on advice of the state supreme court the governor and council announced the accepted vote of the ward as Brewster 111, Farrington 52.

The governor said that the evidence developed at the hearing would be turned over to the authorities for investigation.

REED CONCEDES VICTORY TO PAULEN.

Parsons, Kans., August 7.—Clyde M. Reed, candidate for the republican nomination for governor in the statewide primary Tuesday, today conceded the nomination of Ben S. Paulen, of Fredonia. "The progress of the returns leave no doubt of your nomination. I offer my congratulations," Mr. Reed wired Mr. Paulen.

San—Oriental Fox Trot / I Can't Get the One I Want—Fox Trot — Paul Whiteman and His Orchestra — 19381 — .75

June Night—Fox Trot — Waring's Pennsylvanians / Only You—Fox Trot (from "I'll Say She Is") with vocal refrain — International Novelty Orchestra — 19380 — .75

Melodious fox trots. "June Night" has some polka-like rhythms. "Only You" has a tender vocal refrain. For dancing or for listening, these are admirable records.

M'DONALD FIGHTS FOR RUSSIAN PACT

London, August 7.—(By the Associated Press.)—The proposal of Prime Minister MacDonald to sign forthwith the treaty between Great Britain and soviet Russia, which was drawn up by the Anglo-Russian conference yesterday, drew a vigorous atack from the opposition when debate on the question was resumed in the house of commons today.

The premier refused to yield one inch to the onslaught and finally scored a victory when an amendment proposing adjournment of the house until tomorrow for further discussion of the question was defeated by 157 to 77.

Atacked by Lloyd George.

This is a fake—a contract in which every essential figure is left blank, exclaimed former Premier Lloyd George in the house of commons last evening in the course of a sharp criticism of the proposed agreement with soviet Russia. His phrase is indorsed by the majority of the morning newspapers which fullly share in the amazement with which the conservatives and most of the liberals received the announcement by Arthur Ponsonby, undersecretary for foreign affairs, that a commercial treaty and a general treaty had been arranged with the soviets.

There is some favorable comment, the Daily Herald, labor organ, naturally welcoming the "happy result" with "greatest satisfaction." The Daily News, liberal, thinks that "to have arrived at any agreement with the soviet delegation is a very considerable achievement, for which praise is due," but it withholds definite opinion of the merits and possibilities of the treaties pending fuller explanation of their terms.

The Westminster Gazette, liberal, without condemning the agreement, says the terms will need to be carefully scrutinized. The other newspapers are either scornful or angry or both. The Times doubts that parliament will ever agree to the proposals.

"Main Issues Undecided."

"The arrangement," it says, "not only leaves the main issues practically undecided, but, by raising false expectations which cannot be fulfilled, it endangers any slight prospect there might be of improved relations with the soviet. . . . Parliament will not sanction a loan on any terms to a defaulting government."

The Daily Mail expresses indignation and recalls that Mr. Ponsonby on May 20 announced that it was out of the question for the government to guarantee a loan. The Daily Chronicle, supporter of Lloyd George, cannot recall "any government ever treating parliament worse in a great issue of foreign affairs."

The astonishing and sudden change from an announced breakdown of negotiations to the reaching of an agreement is attributed to the special efforts of Premier MacDonald and the trades unions.

BATTLE FOR VOTE OF LABOR RAGES

that does not apply to his attitude on foreign relations," Wilson wrote.

"The record maintained by the American Federation of Labor shows that during Mr. Davis' congressional career he never voted in a single instance unfavorable to labor. Consequently I have felt that he also was entitled to a clean bill of health in the matter of domestic policies, and as his attitude concerning foreign relations is in accord with that of the American Federation of Labor Mr. Davis is entitled to the indorsement of labor on that question also."

Cites Ten Measures.

Of ten measures advocated by the American Federation of Labor when it inaugurated its present political policy in 1906, five were secured by democratic congresses, two through the action of a democratic house of representatives, and one by a republican congress, Wilson said. He declared that he challenged "the history of the world to produce an equal labor achievement" with what was accomplished by the democrats in the sixty-third, sixty-fourth and sixty-fifth congresses, and said that labor enumerated among its victories thirty measures passed by the sixty-second congress when the house was democratic.

Wilson said he is not "unmindful" of the part played by Senator La Follette in the enactment of the seamen's bill, but said that the same bill had been whipped into shape by Congressmen Alexander, Hardy and himself, and had passed both houses, during the sixty-second congress, but was given a pocket veto by President Taft.

Court Leak Did It.

He reiterated his previous claim that Davis had taken a part in framing the Clayton anti-trust law. In answer to Gompers' statement that a commission had settled the impending railway strike in 1917, Wilson said this was true, but that the commission made little headway until it leaked out on Saturday that the supreme court was going to hand down a decision on Monday sustaining the constitutionality of the eight-hour law, which Davis had defended before the highest tribunal.

Wilson, as a result of his activity, has been chosen by the democrats as their champion of Davis as far as the labor vote is concerned. Formerly international secretary of the United Mine Workers, and for long prominent in the labor movement, he is regarded as an ideal man to lead in this phase of the campaign.

In each of the five "doubtful" states listed the fight will be hard, perhaps bitter.. In addition to these, the influence of the labor vote, combined with the farmer vote, is expected to react, on the other hand, against the republicans in two of their strongholds, Pennsylvania and Illinois, where the La Follette leaders are predicting unexpected strength.

There were two developments Thursday which may react in time upon the political situation from the republican standpoint. One unfavorably, the other favorably. The department of agriculture announced that the wheat crop this year will be 28,000,000 bushels more than had been predicted July 1, which may cut down the rise in price which has been regarded as a hopeful sign by the administration.

A step toward closer participation in European affairs has been taken by the administration, it was learned, Ambassador Kellogg informing the allied conference in London that the United States desires representation at the meeting later which will discuss allocation of reparations payments. This is regarded as aiding the administration further in countering attacks of the democrats.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS VIEWS ENTITLE DAVIS TO LABOR.

Washington, August 7.—Assertion that John W. Davis, the democratic presidential nominee, was entitled to the indorsement of organized labor on his attitude concerning foreign relations alone, and outside of his record of service in behalf of labor, was made by William B. Wilson, former secretary of labor, in a letter today to Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor. The letter, made public here by the democratic national committee, was in reply to one from Mr. Gompers setting forth the grounds actuating the labor federation in indorsing the La Follette-Wheeler ticket.

In connection with the suggestion made in his previous letter to Mr. Gompers that the executive council of the federation defer action in the matter of indorsing candidates, Mr. Wilson said he had purposely used the plural in speaking of "letters of acceptance" to suggest that the council first hear the acceptance of President Coolidge, as the republican nominee, as well as that of Mr. Davis. Mr. Gompers said in his reply that he could not recommend to the council that it send a delegation to hear only the acceptance of Mr. Davis.

Mr. Wilson said he could not "suggest the attendance of any representative at President Coolidge's notification, bacause it was not in a position to know whether or not that would be acceptable to the management of the republican party."

Both Mr. La Follette and Mr. Davis are entitled to a "clean bill of health" from labor as to their record in domestic affairs, Mr. Wilson said, in again reviewing at length the record of both in connection with the organized labor movement. But the latter, he said, is entitled to the labor indorsement "for his attitude on foreign relations alone."

ST. LOUIS LABOR LEADERS QUIZ GOMPERS ON DAVIS.

St. Louis, August 7.—Local labor leaders, influential in democratic circles, tonight sent a telegram to Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, to ascertain directly whether the report regarding the opposition to John W. Davis, presidential nominee, were true.

While these leaders would not say what stand they would take in this matter, they indicated surprise that the decision to oppose Mr. Davis and been taken in what they termed an unprecedented manner, in that Mr. Davis was not given an opportunity to express his views and his attitude toward labor before the executive council reached a final decision.

COUNTY BOARD VOTES FOR PAVING PROJECTS

Paving of a number of county thoroughfares was voted Wednesday afternoon at the regular monthly meeting of the Fulton county commissioners. The board agreed to pay one-third of the cost of resurfacing North avenue between Peachtree and Myrtle streets, and to pave Peachtree street, Lexie avenue, Grand View avenue and Lookout place.

It also was voted to pave the Walla Walla road between the old Roswell road and Dunwoody road, and Parsons street between West avenue and Adair avenue. Peyton road from Cascade to Adamsville roads, and Beechwood drive, between Pace's Ferry and Nancy's creek, will be widened and graded.

A request from Greene county, asking an appropriation to apply on the cost of constructing the Atlanta-Augusta highway for 10 miles through Greene county was declined, while petitions of the city of Atlanta asking paving of Flat Shoals avenue from Wylie to South Moreland, and for repairing of Gary road from the Atlanta Gun club to Hollywood road, were referred to the public works committee.

The board voted to pay $250 to Mrs. C. C. Cowan, of Hapeville, who accidentally was shot in the leg by Policeman West, of the county police, as he was chasing a liquor car on Sylvan road January 14.

A petition asking reimbursement for expenses of Officer Joe Wiley to Fort Wayne, Ind., to bring back a prisoner, was declined on the ground that the trip was not authorized by the commissioners. The request for payment was made by the Maryland Casualty company.

DAVIS HOMECOMING PLANS ARE ANNOUNCED

Clarksburg, W. Va., August 7.—Plans for the combined home-coming celebration and notification to John W. Davis of his nomination to the presidency by the democratic party were outlined today to the Davis home-coming committee by Lewis A. Johnson, chairman of the local notification committee.

The home-coming celebration will begin when Mr. Davis steps from a Baltimore & Ohio train Saturday at 9:15 o'clock. Two bands will play at the station and will head a procession to the Davis home on Lee avenue.

SEEK GEORGIA AUTO IN MURDER MYSTERY

Leesburg, Fla., August 7.—Lake and Sumter county authorities, together with private detectives, renewed their efforts today to solve the mysterious murders of C. M. Adams, of Leesburg, and Gadsden Douglas, of Bushnell, Saturday night.

A son of Douglas is declared by friends to have located the "murder car" into which he believes his father was lured by bootlegger enemies. The younger Douglas firmly believes that bootleggers killed his father because "he knew too much."

A description of an automobile, bearing a Georgia license, which was seen in Leesburg on the night of the Adams murder, has been broadcast over the state, together with a meager description of the three men who shot down Adams. Two of the three men are said to be between 40 and 45 years old, and the third about 25 years.

Seale, Ala., August 7.—Alonza and Porter Mayhand, negro cousins, will die together on the gallows here tomorrow, the two to pay the penalty for the murder of Sophie Ingram, negress last fall.

Last minute efforts to save the negroes from hanging failed when Governor Brandon denied appeals for executive clemency.

agreed to some extension of the provisions of the Versailles treaty, which compel the delivery of reparations payments in kind until 1930. The agreement does not affect all the materials now involved in the payments.

With the agreement between Germany and the allies relative to defaults, one of the major debatable points apparently has been dealt with, though the agreement has not yet received plenary session blessing. The troublesome problem of sanctions appears to have been solved.

The report relative to defaults, which was agreed upon by the delegates in committee, provides that appeal may be taken to a board of arbitration upon which the United States would be represented in the event of dissatisfaction with the findings of the reparations commission.

Evacuation Is Big Problem.

An extra-conferential question having to do with the military evacuation of the Ruhr is the chief business now to be considered. It is probable the fourteen representatives of the seven participating powers informally will discuss the matter Friday. The conference is bound to remain within the limits of the Dawes plan and its application in its formal discussions.

It is predicted the French will agree to evacuate the Ruhr before Christmas of this year.

The private meetings between Chancellor Marx and Premier Herriot were brought about after considerable gumshoeing on the part of minor attaches of the two delegations. The affair was carefully stage-managed. First, unofficial feelers were extended to both Herriot and Marx. Then a semi-official flavor was stirred into the situation by the appearance of go-betweens who were more than mere observers.

Pay Ten-Minute Calls.

Finally, Marx was informed that Herriot would be pleased to see him. Forthwith the German chancellor called upon the French premier and remained for ten minutes. Herriot soon afterward repaid the courtesy by visiting the Germans at the Ritz hotel for a similar period.

These meetings were merely courtesy calls, but from them will grow the intimate discussions which actually will decide the matter of military evacuation and the fate of the conference.

EX-SWEETHEART GIVES LOEB SUCCOR

in materially shaking his testimony, which had dealt chiefly with Leopold's philosophy of a superman and egotistic right to "do anything as long as it gave him pleasure."

John Abt, young graduate of the University of Chicago, who knows both Loeb and Leopold, and Max Schrayer and Edwin Meiss, fraternity brothers of Loeb before he was graduated from the University of Michigan, were the other witnesses.

Childishness Apparent.

All three testified that they had observed childish tendencies in Loeb, the last two saying Loeb, although a senior, did not share all the privileges of a fourth-year man at school, drank heavily, for which he was disciplined, and was regarded as argumentative and rather a bore.

The corps of four state's attorneys, fighting for a hanging decision, were elated at having, they said, forced a new maneuver by the defense in the calling of lay witnesses instead of proceeding with testimony of the two or three remaining psychiatrists.

The defense, expressing itself as satisfied with the trend of the case, said tonight it would continue with lay witnesses, young men and women of an age with Leopold and Loeb. In the list, said Mr. Darrow, were Miss Germaine K. Reinhardt, nicknamed "Patches," who has visited Loeb frequently in jail.

Defene Offers Suggestion.

At the opening of court the defense obtained a 30-minute recess for a conference with the state, which, it was announced, might save two to five days in the hearing. Mr. Crowe and Mr. Darrow refused to say what had been suggested, but it was understood that Leopold and Loeb had requested that the calling of friends of better days be avoided, and that Mr. Darrow had proposed presenting a blanket statement of what their testimony would be if the state agreed to dispense with the calling of lay witnesses. Mr. Crowe said the state's reply was a "blanket no."

After the state's refusal to agree to the abbreviating process, Miss Nathan, a demure miss in black and white, nervously mounted to the witness box. Loeb craned his neck around the huge frame of Mr. Darrow for a look at his former sweetheart. She avoided his glance until she left the stand at the noon recess with Mr. Crowe's cry of perjury ringing in her ears. Then she brushed past Leopold and Loeb, hesitated, turned and impulsively placed both hands on Loeb's arm. She greeted Leopold and was whispering hurriedly and inaudibly to Loeb when a bailiff jerked the young man nearly off his feet and hurried him toward the elevator for a return to his jail cell.

Guaranteed 100% PURE PENNSYLVANIA OIL

The highest Grade Oil in the world and be sure of getting 100% pure Pennsylvania

AUTOMOBILE manufacturers, engineers and reputable dealers are constantly warning the public today that more damage is done to automobile motors through the use of inferior oil than from any other cause.

The lubricating value of a motor oil depends directly on the quality of the crude oil from which the motor oil is refined.

Lubricants refined from 100% pure Pennsylvania are the standard of quality by which all other oils are judged. The difference between pure Pennsylvania oil and inferior oils is often the difference between no repair bills and high repair bills, between a strong motor and a weak one, between a car that lasts for years and a car that wears out prematurely.

2 APPROPRIATION BILLS ARE PASSED

Two more appropriation bills were passed by the house of representatives Thursday afternoon, after extended debate and some opposition to each measure.

One provided the annual appropriation to the state library commission should be increased from $6,000 to $10,000, the increase, however, not to become effective until January 1, 1926.

The other appropriated a total of $55,500 to the State College of Agriculture—$27,500 as a maintenance deficiency fund, and $28,000 to meet requirements of the Smith-Lever fund for the employment of men and women county agents. The maintenance portion of the appropriation is to be divided $15,000 for the balance of this year, and $12,500 for the first six months of 1925. The $28,000 for county agents is to cover the balance of 1925 likewise.

Rules Committee Steers.

Thursday—the beginning of the final six days of the session, which ends next Wednesday—the house rules committee took over its duties as a steering committee and, in this capacity, will fix the calendar of measures to be acted upon each day.

Indications that the income tax measure, which was taken from the table Wednesday, after lying there ever since the 1923 special session, will possibly be used as the foundation for a filibuster movement, were seen in the action of the house Thursday in exempting all constitutional amendment bills from two rules adopted to limit debate. One of these rules limited committee chairmen and minority report leaders to 10 minutes of speaking time after the previous question had been called, and the other limited individual members to five-minute speeches with the exception of authors of bills and substitutes.

May Introduce Substitute.

While the income tax measure was not mentioned in connection with this action, it, with all other constitutional amendment bills, would be affected and it was the consensus of opinion that this action was taken with that measure in view.

Following a caucus of supporters of the income tax movement, held Wednesday night, it was understood that a substitute for the senate measure by Senator Lankford, which was the bill taken from the table, will be introduced when the matter comes up for debate. It is claimed by sponsors of the income tax idea that a bill can be drawn which will meet objections of the various factions on the qeustion which, if true, makes its chances of passage excellent should it reach the floor in time.

The substitute bill proposed, it is understood, will merely provide that a state income tax may be levied; that it will include the word "net;" limit the tax rate, probably at 4 or 5 per cent, and provide for a reduction in the ad valorem rate to two and a half mills.

Table Auto Registration Bill.

The house Thursday morning tabled the bill by Representative Milner, of Dodge county, requiring registration of title to all automobiles. The bill was designed to reduce the number of automobile thefts by making it difficult to dispose of a stolen car, but when it was seen that a light attendance endangered passage of the measure, it was tabled by a vote of 68 to 52.

A bill providing for the appointment of a schoolbook commission was passed. This commission is to appoint a state schoolbook board which will investigate the textbooks used in Georgia schools, prepare an approved list and ask bids for their supply. It is also to make estimates of the cost of printing the books and furnish the governor with a report on this feature as soon as possible. An appropriation of $1,500 is carried in the bill and members of the commission are to be paid $7 per day for actual working time. The commission is composed of the chief justice of the supreme court, the presiding judge of the court of appeals, the state school superintendent, the chancellor of the University of Georgia, the president of Georgia Tech, the president of the State College of Agriculture and the president of the State College for Women.

Knight Bill Beaten.

A bill providing for transfer to the state sanitarium of men who become insane while serving prison sentences, by Representative Knight, of Berrien, was defeated, 61 to 59.

Speaker Neill appealed, at the close of the morning session, that members be in their places promptly when the house convenes at 9 o'clock each morning, and also asked for a full attendance Friday and Saturday afternoons, in order that appropriation bills may be disposed of, and urged every member to assist in every way possible in expediting the work of the house.

SUMTER'S FIRST BALE IS SOLD FOR 35 CENTS

Americus, Ga., August 7.—(Special.)—Americus' first bale of cotton for the 1924 season was received here today, being brought in by Will and Ed Morgan, farmers, living together on the Rylander road, near here. The bale, classed middling, weighed 460 pounds, and was sold through the Commercial warehouse to Sam W. Coney for 35 cents a pound.

The first bale was brought in last year by Clyde Griffin, several days later than this year's first bale. Cotton is now opening rapidly in fields in Americus territory, and it is expected that movement will develop rapidly.

FIRST COTTON BALE SOLD AT MONTGOMERY

Montgomery, Ala., August 7.—The first bale of new cotton grown in Montgomery county during the present season was sold today at 30 cents a pound. It was graded above middling by the warehouse purchasing it.

The cotton was grown by John C. Carter, of Chisholm, veteran first-baler, who stated that the cotton was picked from the early-growing patches and had outgrown on a pet patch.

Prep School Youth Makes Bicycle Trip to New York

COBB EDWARDS AND HIS BIKE.

Cobb Edwards Enjoys Original Summer Vacation—Travels 115 Miles Each Day on Way North.

Cobb Edwards, who was the best drilled cadet and an honor graduate at Tech High school in June, is back home at 257 Lee street after the most original vacation trip taken by a local prep school graduate this summer.

He pedaled a bicycle from Atlanta to New York in nine days, kicking off 115 miles each day between daybreak and 10 o'clock, and after a whirl along the Great White Way he loafed back on a steamship by way of Savannah to get the ache out of his calves and the kinks out of his sunburned neck.

Begins Trip Over Protests.

Young Edwards, who is only 17, began his extraordinary vacation trip at 4 o'clock on the morning of July 21, over tentative protests of his family, and reached Gotham, tired, dusty, but triumphant on the afternoon of July 30, just two days ahead of the schedule he had arranged for himself.

He made the tour with his baggage strapped in a 30-pound pack on his sturdy young shoulders.

The jaunt had been planned for two summers ago but his elders coaxed him out of the idea last year with a camping trip in Colorado. This year, the lure of the open road proved more impelling even than a return to the wild west with his grandfather, Cobb Lampkin, of Athens.

Visits Grandparents.

Young Edwards ended the first lap of the trip at Athens, where he spent the afternoon and night of July 21 with his grandfather. Richmond, Washington, Baltimore and Philadelphia were the other principal stopover places along the route. The schedule was to get away at 4 o'clock each morning, tear off 115 to 120 miles in six hours to the next stopping place and to spend the afternoon and night sightseeing. Cobb asserted on his return that pedaling a bicycle under a 30-pound pack for 115 miles a day was only a little more strenuous than drilling two hours a day with the Tech cadet corps, of which he was the prize soldier.

managers claimed his nomination by a plurality of about 35,000 votes over Senator Shields.

The compilation showed Governor Austin Peay leading John R. Neal with a plurality of 33,000 in the contest for the gubernatorial nomination. The governor increased his lead steadily during the night until the last tabulation, including returns from 805 precincts, gave him a lead of more than four to one. The vote was Peay, 43,841, and Neal, 10,204.

In the contest for railroad commissioner, Harvey Hannah, incumbent, continued to lead his opponent, Sam E. Hill, by a plurality of more than 10,000. At 11:30 o'clock the vote from 801 precincts gave Hannah 26,367, and Hill 15,497.

Peck Leads G. O. P. Ticket.

T. F. Peck maintained his majority of more than two to one over both his opponents for the republican gubernatorial nomination on the basis of meager returns from scattered precincts. Returns from only 69 precincts had been reported at 11:30 o'clock. These gave Peck 2,839; Thach, 1,291, and Beasley, 605.

The democratic contest in the seventh congressional district developed a spirited race between W. C. Salmon, incumbent, Clarence W. Turner and E. E. Eslick, with Eslick leading by a plurality of 1,247 votes over Salmon on the face of returns from 98 precincts out of a total of 213 in the district. The compilation of returns from these precincts gave Salmon 2,717; Turner, 2,657; Eslick, 3,964; Hall, 963.

Meager returns from the republican contest in the first district indicated a neck-and-neck race between Congressman B. Carroll Reece and W. E. Jones. Fifteen precincts out of a total of 224 in the district gave Reece 1,968 and Jones 1,778.

No Contests in Eight Districts.

There were no contests for the congressional nominations in the other eight districts of the state, and the incumbents in these districts were declared the nominees of their respective parties. The uncontested posts are held by the following:

Second district: J. Will Taylor, republican, LaFollette; third district: Sam D. McReynolds, democrat, Chattanooga; fourth district: Cordell Hull, democrat, Carthage; fifth district: Ewin L. Davis, democrat, Tullahoma; sixth district: Joseph W. Byrns, democrat, Nashville; eighth district: Gordon Browning, democrat, Huntington; ninth district: Finis J. Garrett, democrat, Dresden; tenth district: Hubert F. Fisher, democrat, Memphis.

Chief Interest in Senate Race.

Chief interest in the democratic primary centered in the three-cornered race for the senatorial nomination.

Despite the tenseness of the senatorial contest and the added attraction of numerous close fights for county offices, however, the vote appeared to have been very light throughout the state. Generally fair and hot weather prevailed in most sections of west and middle Tennessee, but rains fell in a number of the east Tennessee counties.

WITH SPEECH FINISHED, COOLIDGE TAKES REST

Washington, August 7.—Politics reached the dormant stage in Washington today with leaders devoting their attention to the physical necessities incident to arranging for the formal notification of President Coolidge here a week from today of his nomination as the republican candidate for president.

Mr. Coolidge finished and sent to the printers his address and aside from attending to a few routine government matters, spent most of the day, one of the hottest in the history of the city, in resting. He has worked studiously every day for about two weeks on the address and this, coupled with government business, has kept him close to his desk.

Despite the intense heat of this week and the heavy work indulged in by Mr. Coolidge, he is described by friends as in splendid physical condition.

Representative Clague, of Minnesota, called on the president today and brought a report that the situation for the republicans in the northwest, and especially in Minnesota, was much more encouraging than a month ago. Rise in the prices of farm products, he said, would work to the advantage of President Coolidge's candidacy. He urged the opening of regional headquarters in Minneapolis to direct work in the northwest.

Former Representative Ralph Cole, of Ohio, and Major-General Farsworth called to outline plans for the reunion of the 37th division at Findlay, Ohio, on August 30. Those handling the arrangements want both the president and General Pershing to attend.

Honest Government Called Main Issue Of Battle by Davis

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., August 7.—John W. Davis, democratic presidential candidate, opened his campaign in New York state tonight at a rally of democrats in the republican stronghold of Dutchess county.

Called on to speak unexpectedly after Governor Alfred E. Smith had vigorously assailed the republican party on its record in this state and the nation, Mr. Davis told a cheering crowd that he believed "the great issue of this campaign is honesty in government."

"A democrat," he said, "is one who wants the record of his party revealed and a republican is one who wants it forgotten. I join with Governor Smith in urging that you see that they are not of failing memory in that direction."

Governor Smith attacked the republican party in connection with the oil scandals and on what he said had been a gross failure to make good on pre-election promises of government reorganization and many other issues. The governor declared that the republicans had not had time to make good their promises for "feeding at the trough."

"You know they had been away from the public trough for eight years and they proceeded to make it all up in four years," he said.

Referring to the division within the republican ranks and the differences between President Coolidge and congress, he said the republicans could not "knock the brains out of Coolidge's policies down in Washington as they have done, and then hold him up as their candidate for president."

"The party did not agree with the president in a single instance," the speaker added, in detailing subjects on which congress and the executive differed.

Klan Issue Mentioned.

The Ku Klux Klan issue was referred to by Governor Smith and Lieutenant Governor Lunn and also by Franklin D. Roosevelt, in whose honor the rally was held. The rally was held at the riding park near here, where a klan demonstration took place recently. In referring to that meeting, Mr. Roosevelt said he was afraid he had a partiality to the kind of Americanism exhibited by the gathering tonight. Mr. Lunn declared amid vigorous cheering that the principle of religious freedom would never die and that to uphold that principle was to exhibit "100 per cent Americanism."

Mr. Davis came here today to attend the rally and left tonight for New York. Making the trip here by rail, he broke the monotony of the 76-mile run by riding nearly half the way in the cab of the electric locomotive. With the engineer, George Trainor, directing him, he ran the train from the Grand Central to the 125th Street station in New York.

AMNESIA VICTIM HELD BY POLICE, RELATIVES SOUGHT

Clad only in night clothes, a woman, apparently about 22 years old, and whose name and address could not be learned by police, was found shortly before midnight Thursday by Patrolmen Buchanan and Caldwell. She was standing on the car tracks on the Old Soldiers' Home car line in East Atlanta.

The woman was unable to give any explanation of why she was standing on the tracks, and insisted that she did not know her name or address. Her mind is thought to be affected, and she was held in the matron's ward at police headquarters Thursday night, while every attempt is being made to locate relatives.

World's Largest Bible Soon Ready To Be Inspected

Portland, Maine, August 7.—The world's largest Bible, every page of which was handwritten by a different person, will be ready for inspection by the public this week, the Maine Bible Society announces.

Produced to attract wider attention to the Scriptures, the volume represents the combined efforts of 1,607 individual contributors during the past year.

Pages were inscribed by a woman past 91, a child of 6, a millionaire, a bankrupt, a college president, a man who had no schooling, the governor of Maine, and a life prisoner in the penitentiary.

Protestants, Catholics, Greek orthodox church members, and Jewish rabbis aided in the work.

Every page of the Book of Ruth was written by a girl of that name, and where possible, the same idea was followed in compiling other books.

The total weight of the handwritten Bible is 88 1-2 pounds, it's pages measure 29x23 inches, and the volume is 4 1-2 inches thick.

DAWES IS ATTACKED AS UNION LABOR FOE

Atlantic City, August 7.—(By the Associated Press.)—Suspending the regular order of business, the executive council of the American Federation of Labor today attacked the recently published "industrial review" of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.

"American trade unionists," said a statement authorized by the labor council and issued by Matthew Woll, vice-president, spokesman for Samuel Gompers, president, "will regard the report of the Federal Council of Churches as a wholly unwarranted and presumptuous attempt to promote the waning fortunes of socialism in America."

Before issuing this statement, the council announced that it did not want the impression created—because of the correspondence made public yesterday in which appeared the name of John W. Davis, democratic presidential nominee—that the council of the American Federation of Labor, in the 1924 campaign, "would express itself in only one direction."

Then the council issued a formal attack upon Charles G. Dawes, republican vice-presidential nominee. They called him champion of "the divine right of judges to do as they please with union men."

Mr. Dawes was quoted as having said: "Samuel Gompers and other trade union officials are more concerned about the right of union men to assault and murder peaceful citizens than about upholding the law of the land."

The comment of the 1924 council upon this question was, "No one has made a more vicious or unwarranted declaration than that."

Fear To Flay Bobbed Hair

BY HAROLD ANDREWS.

Chicago, August 7.—James Montgomery Flagg, the father of several hundred appetizing young things on the magazine covers, who has come out flatly against the practice of young women bobbing their hair, may be expressing the attitude of a million other men, but he is probably the only one of them who has the courage of his convictions.

Of a dozen preachers and feminists and one "fearless young modern author" interviewed on the subject, men who ordinarily act on the assumption that opportunity is synonymous with the tap of the newspaper reporter on the front door, not one of them was willing to rush into print on the subject of bobbed hair.

Of 46 young men selected at random from State and Madison streets, the busiest place in all the world, not one of them was willing to come out in public supporting the view of James Montgomery Flagg, although the honest ones could barely conceal the fact that they considered bobbed hair the scourge of the earth.

It was Mr. Flagg who dropped into Omaha, Neb., the other day and delivered himself of the statement that "when a woman bobs her hair, it does something to her brain—makes her giddy." And then, whispering in a voice several octaves above a yell, declared that "bobbed hair is one of the chief menaces threatening the peace and comfort of society."

"It seems to me," said the fearless young author, who has startled the world with epigrams that range from Freud to the Franks case, "that Mr. Flagg is departing from the esthetic dictum, that beauty and brains are distinct and separate, but don't quote me. What I mean is that as an artist, Mr. Flagg ought not to complain because a woman loses her brains when she bobs her hair. Brains have nothing to do with beauty and it is beauty, I fancy, that Mr. Flagg is predominately interested in.

"I don't understand what he means when he says that bobbed hair menaces the peace of the individual," continued the fierce seeker after epigrams. "Personally, I should say that the gentleman whose inamorata affects clipped hair is saved a lot of time that might otherwise be spent downstairs waiting while she fusses with a comb."

"There is no object in starting a controversy over the matter," stated the clergyman on the North side. "Bobbed hair has come to stay. Some young men like bobbed hair. Other young men do not like bobbed hair. It is perfectly obvious that the way to settle the matter is for those young men who do not like bobbed hair, and for those young men who do like it, to select a nice bob. And there you are. Simple, isn't it, but don't quote me."

"Whose business is it, anyway?" asked the bobbed haired cutie in the third chair as she ordered "a shingle bob this time, please."

Theodore Roosevelt Prevented Big War, Dennett Declares

Williamson, Mass., Aug. 7.—Dr. Tyler Dennett, of Washington, speaking here today at an open conference, declared that President Roosevelt was perhaps the first American statesman to perceive clearly that the far east question is largely a phase of European politics and that the weight of his influence in a warning to France and Germany quite possibly prevented a European conflict of world magnitude.

Dr. Dennett also stated that there existed in 1905 "an agreed memorandum," of which a photostat was in his possession, the effect of which was to place the United States, during the Roosevelt administration, as almost an unsigned member of the second Anglo-Japanese alliance.

"This document was approved by President Roosevelt less than two weeks before the formal publication of the terms of the second Anglo-Japanese alliance, and just before the opening of the Portsmouth peace conference. This action of President Roosevelt did not stand alone. At the outbreak of the Russo-Japanese war 18 months before President Roosevelt had been so impressed with the possibility that France or Germany, or both, might go to the support of Russia against Japan, that according to his own statement, in a brief letter which I have seen, he warned both Germany and France that if they went to the support of Russia he would go to the support of Japan and 'take whatever steps necessary for her protection.'

"It will be recalled that in the first Anglo-Japaneses alliance signed in 1902 this was the obligation which had been assumed by England. We may, therefore, say that this warning which came personally from President Roosevelt to France and Germany had only the value which attaches to the personal declaration of the president of the United States, nevertheless, the effect of it was to make the United States assume substantially the same responsibility toward Japan which England had assumed in the first alliance.

"At the beginning of 1904, as is clearly revealed in the private papers of President Roosevelt, as well as in the contemporary literature of the time, Europe was dangerously close to the brink of a world war. France was allied to Russia, England was allied to Japan. Four powers were paired. Germany had urged Russia into the war with Japan and her policy was then a matter of doubt and grave concern.

"When President Roosevelt threw in the weight of his influence by his warning to France and Germany, he localized the conflict to the far east and quite possibly prevented the outbreak of European conflict. The situation in the summer of 1905 was such as to make it seem quite plausible that if President Roosevelt had not made this engagement with Japan and England, it would have been far more difficult and perhaps impossible for him to initiate the peace of Portsmouth a month later."

TOBACCO MARKET GAINS SLIGHTLY

ceived the $10 premium paid by the chamber of commerce for the best 200 pounds of tobacco sold today.

Unofficial reports from Camilla, Hazlehurst, Hahira and Tifton indicated that approximately 1,350,000 pounds had been sold there at a price slightly over 22 cents a pound.

Ben Hill's first bale of cotton was sold here yesterday at 30 cents a pound. It was raised by Aubrey Peterson, who also brought in the second bale of the season today.

HIGH-GRADE PRODUCT ON VALDOSTA MARKET.

Valdosta, Ga., August 7.—(Special.)—A better feeling prevailed among the buyers and sellers on the tobacco market here today as better grades were encountered on the floors of the warehouses owing to the fact that much of the tobacco placed on sale yesterday was not closed out for want of time, and for that reason delayed placing for today's sales. The tonnage of total sales for the day was thus reduced.

More high-grade tobacco was offered today than yesterday, two or three lots selling for 50 and 60 cents a pound, and some others at 40 and 45 cents a pound. A total of approximately 100,000 pounds was sold at the three houses here today at an average price of 23 cents.

VIDALIA MARKETS 58,000 POUNDS AT 28.

Vidalia, Ga., August 7.—Considerable lugs and scraps were mixed with a high grade tobacco in today's break at the local warehouse for the sale of loose leaf tobacco which sold at reasonable prices, but good common sold at a slight increase over yesterday's market.

The offerings of this type making up the bulk of today's sale and bringing from 25 to 30 cents, total volume 58,000 pounds, at an average price of 28 cents.

200,000 POUNDS SOLD AT DOUGLAS.

Douglas, Ga., August 7.—At the Douglas tobacco market today 200,000 pounds of first pickings of bright leaf tobacco were sold. Official figures on the morning sales today showed a general average price of 22.8 cents a pound, but the warehousemen estimate that the afternoon sales will run slightly higher, but figures were not available at 6 o'clock.

Today W. G. Harper sold 260 pounds at 25 cents and another grower sold 400 pounds at 52 cents, but the general run of prices ranged from 7 to 52 cents.

The grades on sale today were mostly sand lugs. There remained on the floors here 100,000 pounds unsold and tomorrow's sales will begin with 300,000 pounds on the floor.

Market conditions were slightly better today and building was strong among the buyers. Official figures on yesterday's sales computed late last night showed general average prices on the morning sales of 21.8 and afternoon sales 22.8 cents a pond.

BLACKSHEAR GETS 22.5 FOR LUGS.

Blackshear, Ga., August 7.—Sales here of the two warehouses combined today totaled 352,000 pounds, which netted near $70,000 to the growers. When the Farmers' warehouse and the Planters' cleared their floors there was plenty of tobacco waiting to fill them to capacity again.

The Farmers' warehouse was unable to finish with the sale yesterday, and completed this morning. Morgan's warehouse also started its sale promptly at 9 o'clock and finished at 5 o'clock this afternoon. Two hundred and fifty pounds were sold at this place at an average of around 20 cents. High prices were paid for the good grades of tobacco, but there was some inferior quality in the offerings which reduced the average price.

The poorest that the farmers had to offer brought them an average price of 22 1-2 cents.. It is thought this average will equal any in the state for sand lug offerings. The Grady county farmers are highly pleased.

STATE FORESTRY BILL IS PASSED

by Senator Mundy, of the 38th district, at the request of the state forestry board.

There are two separate forestry bills in the legislature, the "forestry contract act" passed Thursday being one and the other being the Rountree-Haddock bill, which has been introduced in the house and is now pending.

By a vote of 36 to 7, the senate passed a bill by Senator Pace, of the 13th district, proposing to submit to the people the question of amending the constitution so as to authorize the general assembly to prescribe by general law the manner and procedure whereby all matters and questions of local nature or affecting only people of one county or municipality may be determined by a vote of the people of such county or municipality without the necessity of the general assembly enacting local or special bills.

Has Special Value.

The bill will be of particular value, according to its friends, in view of the action of the legislature in voting for biennial sessions. Without it, it was pointed out, hundreds of local bills would clog the calendar and delay the work of the two legislative branches.

After a debate of an hour and a half on the bill of Senators Mason, Smith, Johns and Kennon, providing for recording contracts of cooperative associations, the measure was defeated, the senate refusing by a vote of 22 to 16 to adopt the favorable report of the finance committee.

NIGHT RIDERS BLAMED FOR DESTROYING CROPS

Glasgow, Ky., August 7.—Night riders are blamed for destruction of seven acres of tobacco, cutting of wire fences and injury to cornfields when stock were turned in them as a result of latest depredations in Hart county Tuesday night. Many farmers in northern Barren county, adjoining Hart, established patrols last night to protect their crops.

"Dad" Vaughan, owner of the tobacco which was pulled from the ground, lives only a few miles from a section where farmers are organizing a law and order league. Peace officers have been invited to join the order.

HONDURAN REPUBLIC AGAIN IN CIVIL WAR

Washington, August 7.—The Honduran republic is again involved in civil war, despite efforts of the United States and the other Central American countries to restore order.

A dispatch today from Minister Franklin E. Morales at Tegucigalpa, the Honduran capital, said that General Ferrera, minister of war under the provisional government, left the capital yesterday with 500 fully armed men, each soldier carrying three extra rifles. The force was bound presumably for Comayagua, the message said, adding:

"The country is again at civil war and termination of hostilities cannot be expected for some time."

The dispatch indicated that the liberal party in Honduras was held responsible for the new outbreak, as it asserted that the authorities had arrested "all the principal leaders of the liberal party."

What action, if any, the Washington government contemplates taking has not been disclosed. There are the American light cruisers either in Canal zone or Mexican waters, however, and it would be possible to dispatch any of these to Honduran ports with little delay, if protection of American lives and properties required it.

There was no indication either at the state or navy departments that orders had been issued as yet for a warship to proceed to Honduras.

200 PERSONS MISSING IN JAPANESE FLOODS

Tokyo, August 7.—(By the Associated Press.)—Two hundred persons are missing and many are believed dead as a result of floods along the Tamsui river, in northern Formosa, according to dispatches received by the Japanese newspapers here.

Railway traffic has been stopped and the city of Taihoku is practically isolated, these dispatches say. They add that thousands of houses in Taihoku have been inundated.

Ann Luther Learned To Love

AFFECTION WAS BORN "ONE DAY OUT OF CHICAGO"

Jack White on Train Journey

Los Angeles, August 7.—Love affairs of Ann Luther and her alleged connection with scandals among theatrical folk of the east furnished the foundation for an attack upon her late Thursday by attorneys for Jack F. White, millionaire, who is being sued by her for $100,000 for alleged breach of contract to feature her in motion pictures.

In succession, the names of Jack Clifford, Evelyn Nesbit Thaw and Buster Johnson were hurled at Miss Luther in an attempt to secure admissions of misconduct.

"Weren't you mentioned with Juanita Hansen as corespondent in Evelyn Nesbit Thaw's reply to a divorce suit brought by her husband, Jack Clifford?" Miss Luther was asked. She admitted she was.

"Didn't you get columns of publicity in New York papers because of an alleged affair with Mr. Clifford?" Attorney Schenck demanded.

"The papers did mention my name," Ann replied.

"Weren't you at 'Camp Jack' in the Adirondacks when Buster Johnson shot himself because of you? Weren't you in his room when it happened?"

"No, sir, I was not."

"Isn't it true that New York papers carried the intimation that Johnson shot himself because of you?"

Miss Luther denied this.

Swinging back to the case of White, Schenck asked the actress if she had been in love with him.

"I was."

"When did this love arise?"

"Well, when we were on our trip to California."

"So your love was not born until that trip?"

"Yes. A few days out."

"How many days?"

"Well, about one day out of Chicago."

"Did not a single word of affection pass between you and White before that trip?"

"No. It was only business before that."

Schenck then produced two pictures of Miss Luther, with fervent inscriptions in her handwriting. The jury of eleven women and one man read:

"To my adorable divine love, forever and ever, all my love. Ann."

The other was inscribed as follows:

"To my own beloved darling, the only real love in my life. God bless you. All my love. Ann."

POLICE HOLD TEXAN FOR MURDER OF WIFE

Beaumont, Texas, August 7.—J. E. Bishop, 51, is held by police for investigation following discovery of the charred body of his wife in their home here with a bullet hole at the base of the skull. The body was found by firemen early today when a fire alarm was sent in by neighbors who saw the home in flames.

Oil had been sprinkled over the floors, firemen said.

Both Bishop and his wife had been previously married. The woman's former husband was Dr. A. L. Carlton, of Blewett, La.

POLITICAL CHANGES EXPECTED IN SPAIN

Madrid, August 7.—Premier Primo Rivera today received the generals of the directorate and then presided over a meeting of the council of the directorate after which he visited the king for a consultation.

The purpose of the meeting and of the call of the premier upon the king was unknown, but it was recalled that General Primo Rivera, in an address at Tetuan, Morocco, late last month asserted that the directorate was prepared to hand over its powers to civilians who will complete the work.

FOUR BOLSHEVIK BANDS IN RAIDS ON POLAND

Warsaw, August 7.—(By the Associated Press)—General Smigly, who was sent to the border to investigate the recent bolshevik raid on the town of Stolpce, reports that the attacking force consisted of four groups of 25 men each, one of which escaped to Russia while three are still in Polish territory.

His investigation is said to have revealed that one of the raiding units remained for several months in the regular army barracks at Minsk, near the Polish border, where they received training under the bolshevik officers.

Simultaneously with the attack on Stolpce the Warsaw police uncovered a spy organization which it is alleged six members of the soviet legislation here personally directed for military purposes. This organization, the Polish authorities declare, was helped by several Russian emigrants, of which, some were officers in the former Czarist army and also employed Polish communist agents. Following the seizure of the band's documents the government deported all the Soviet diplomats involved and arrested the other members of the organization.

WOMAN'S SKELETON IS MURDER CLUE

Norfolk, Va., August 7.—The skeleton of a woman with a bullet hole through the skull was unearthed by laborers on Granby street, near La Fayette park, today. The bones were only about eighteen inches underground and were in such a position to indicate the body had been doubled over and crammed down into the shallow hole. The grave was beneath a recently razed house, and is believed to have been there for a number of years, though the house was built not more than ten years ago.

The police are searching back into the records of unsolved murders in an effort to obtain a possible clue to the identity of the woman.

AGREED ON REPARATIONS.

The news from London that the plan of reparation settlement agreed upon by the allies will meet the approval of Germany is the most important development since the surrender of the German armies.

The effect of this event is far reaching, not only in the matter of reparations settlement alone, but it will materially influence the internal political situations in France and England.

It will leave a stamp on future international diplomacy that cannot be gauged at this moment.

The agreement of the allies stands as a supreme vindication of the theories of Woodrow Wilson, considered impractical idealist in his life time by certain groups. Now the theory of open conferences openly arrived at has triumphed.

All the underhand secret intriguing of the old school lies discredited and blasted. The principles of true democracy emerged victorious in a question that had taxed the most astute minds of the world, a question which holds within itself the solution of Europe's ills.

M. Poincare may well shout of "Black Sunday" when he refers to the day when Herriot and the bloc des gauches won the elections. Herriot has achieved something which Poincare could not accomplish, despite the fact that he had a solid senate and chamber of deputies at his back.

To MacDonald's shrewd businesslike handling of the situation, to Herriot's conciliatory attitude, to his willingness to bring the negotiations to a successful conclusion, the world owes the announcement of the allies.

Will the words "agreed on reparations" not mark the beginning of a new era in democracy, not theoretical democracy, but practical in every sense, working towards the good of all?

A middle-European observer of the international political situation predicted that unless there would be a speedy settlement of the reparations question a last chance to restore the peace of Europe would be lost.

The light is on the horizon. It is not dawn, it is morning. The night is past. The sentiments which animate Herriot of France, VanderVelde of Belgium and MacDonald of England, who hold that agreements must be accepted and not enforced, will bring the Germans in line on the acceptance of the reparation payment plans.

The effect of this on the United States will be tremendous. New York bankers and industrialists predict a period of prosperity for the United States that will eclipse any previous boom.

And not only for the United States, but for Germany and France and England, Belgium, Holland, Italy, the Scandinavian countries and for the whole world.

It's only a question of time.

When that prosperity comes let us remember that it was brought about by democrats and liberals, not by the die-hard reactionary forces, who in the main were responsible for the world war and its subsequent economic and international deadlock.

SOULE'S GREAT WORK.

The Journal of Education of Boston—the oldest nationwide educational periodical in America, pays a striking tribute to Dr. Andrew M. Soule, president of the Georgia Agricultural college. What makes the tribute even more forceful is the fact that the editorial was written and signed by Dr. A. S. Winship, the veteran editor-in-chief, who is nationally famous as an educator, having long served in university class rooms, and as a writer on, and analyst of educational problems and situations.

This tribute is reprinted on this page of The Constitution.

To say that no agricultural college—embracing one or more in each of the 48 states—has more notable achievements to its credit than the state agricultural college at Athens, of which Dr. Soule is president, is a broad statement, covering a wide territory, but coming from so eminent an authority as Dr. Winship, it cannot be challenged.

And to those of us who know the small and indifferent support that the state of Georgia has given to this, its own institution—a lack of state support indeed, that has been little less than disgraceful—the achievements of Dr. Soule stand out with even more astounding prominence. The fact is he has accomplished so much without state aid that the legislature possibly has taken the very unprogressive and reactionary position that "Let Soule do it" is sufficient. It is not sufficient, for the very circumstances that have brought about an agricultural reconstruction in Georgia now demand, at this moment, as never before, the most loyal, practical, patriotic, helpful cooperation that a state can give. It is imperative, for on the work of intelligent, scientific training in Georgia in the next few years will hinge the material, economic and personal comfort and welfare of the whole people in the future. There is no mistaking the facts, and there must be no dodging the issue.

Dr. Winship speaks of the particularly outstanding work of the college among the club boys and girls of Georgia at "Camp Wilkins," a new summer training camp established by Dr. Soule through the generosity of friends of the work.

This camp is proving now its almost incalculable worth to Georgia in health and recreation, as well as in agricultural and domestic science training. It has a capacity of 250 with weekly relays, alternating with boys and girls, and it is filled to over-capacity each week. In addition to all of the summer recreations of bathing, boating, field sports, etc., to which specific hours are allotted, the boys and girls are taught by a corps of instructors every practical worth-while thing that comes up in farm and rural life, and in addition are taught hygiene, calesthenics and the higher ideals of clean, moral living.

The Constitution for Georgia appreciates this wonderful tribute of Dr. Winship, which it heartily indorses, with an appeal to the legislature to give this institution the support it so richly deserves. It is an economic question entirely. An investment in practical, vocational education will pay the greatest dividends in the future happiness and prosperity of the people.

AGRICULTURAL CHARTS.

The soil improvement committee of the Southern Fertilizer association, of which Dr. J. N. Harper is director, and Dr. David D. Long, soil specialist, has prepared a most interesting and helpful booklet of agricultural charts covering each of the cotton states in the eastern belt.

The authors have undertaken to visualize the agricultural statistics of the 14th census so that the reader may see at a glance and easily grasp the significance of important facts.

Improved acreage, soil regions, average consumption of fertilizers per county, average returns by counties of all crops, expenditures for fertilizers, crop acreage and crop values, crop distribution, and each treated in turn.

It is a work of great detail in the interest of a better understanding as to the statistical position of each locality of each state, thereby giving the farmer a comprehensive compendium of valuable and most useful information for his operations.

Drs. Harper and Long deserve great credit for this album of charts.

"Persia will pay." But it remains to be seen if she'll be "at home" when the bill collector calls.

Evidently the "fire of spring" that didn't show up at the right time is helping summer to blaze.

Hear very little now about "favorite sons" and quite a lot about favorite daughters.

Robins have been known to get drunk, and now a London scientist tells us that butterflies are great boozers!

This time, the man who generally predicts a killing frost in August seems to have melted away.

Walk Right In.

"Gettin' ready for the good times," That's what they say,
But we're always ready for 'em
And the latch-string's thrown away!

Walk right in!
Here's the place
For sayin' grace—
Walk right in!

The table's set an' waitin'
For the long-expected guest;
We're in our Sunday fixings—
A-lookin' at our best.

Walk in, walk in!
Wealth and joy we'll win!
You show the way
To break o' day,—
Walk right in!

Solomon Wise, the enlightened one of the Independence Examiner, who carries the foot of a graveyard rabbit in his left-hand vest pocket, for certain good luck, has been interviewing the moon, with this result—

"If you are contemplating building a house here is another thing to remember: A foundation should always be laid in the dark of the moon and a shingle roof should always be put on in the light of the moon. Here is what happens. A foundation laid in the dark of the moon, if placed with ordinary care, will not settle and the walls will not crack. If laid in the light of the moon, no matter how carefully the work is done, the setting will always crack the walls and pull the windows out of shape. A shingle roof laid in the dark of the moon will curl up and pull out the nails; laid in the light of the moon shingles will lay flat and remain in place, make a tight roof and give much longer service."

Says Mrs. Tom Thompson, in her Howard Courant column—

"Edwin Markham is being boosted for official poet-laureate of America. He doesn't get our vote. We think his sentiment expressed in the famous 'Man with the Hoe' is rubbish. We do not think it necessary because a man must use a hoe that his gaze should always be on the ground, nor that his face should register 'the emptiness of ages.' We can't seem to notice the burden of the world on his back—lots of the men with hoes rent forever and never pay taxes. On the other hand, some of the smartest people we know can swing a hoe to beat the band and if it were but intimated to them that they were 'Stolid and stunned, a brother to the ox,' they would take the hoe and whang you over the head with it, and serve you right!"

What They Forget.

Today's Talk

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

REVENGE.

The cruelest and at the same time the most foolish of all action is that of revenge.

The person who thinks that he is going to gain anything by revenge is in the first place very unintelligent.

Revenge never brought anything but the deepest regret and unhappiness to its giver.

There are enough losses in this world without those that come about through revenge.

Wrong never has been known to right wrong.

"Father, forgive them for they know not what they do," was the teaching from the cross. And down the centuries nothing nobler has ever been taught.

I remember a beautiful sentence that came to me from somewhere when a boy: "To sin is human; to forgive is divine."

We must learn to overlook. We must learn to understand. And when we cannot understand, we must keep silent until we do.

When President McKinley was shot down in Buffalo, New York, many years ago, the first words he uttered were: "Don't hurt him!"

The time is coming when the state will not ask a life for a life.

There is quite a deal of God in every heart that throbs. The thing that must be learned is that there is a way to find that hidden God and then to make it illuminate the man.

Revenge is always the instrument of a shrunken life, an unthinking mind and an unhealthy soul.

If you have only revenge to give, give nothing.

Just In Passing

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMON

The Georgia legislature is making progress. The passage of conservative bills, such as that reorganizing our game and fish laws, is progress of the highest order. Conservatism is the most important word confronting an individual or a people.

This legislature now surely will not adjourn without defining a constructive forest policy in the interest of the conservation of Georgia's greatest national resource.

There is no more constructive measure before the legislature of Georgia at this time than the Rountree-Haddock forestry bill.

This bill may not be perfect. It deals with a vitally important matter—a matter which has been too long neglected in Georgia—and a big subject like this cannot be covered properly by a short bill unless such a bill is inclined to be too broad in its provisions.

One of the points raised against the measure is the fact that "the bill is a long one."

Another point made by the opponents is the fact that the revenue feature of the bill raises new taxes from industries that are now tax-free. Of course, the section which covers the revenue feature is a little long, but in order to cover the forest products industries with a moderate schedule of privilege taxes it is only fair and just that this be distributed over as wide a field as possible so as to distribute the revenue.

The schedule is extremely light and the very fact that it is well distributed makes the bill a longer one than if a direct appropriation from the general treasury was called for.

What does this Rountree-Haddock bill provide for?

First, it provides for real work of cooperation and encouragement by the state to all land-owning citizens; this work to be under the supervision of the state board of forestry with no interference with any fee simple rights of our citizens whatever.

The state forestry service will be ready to serve all citizens within this state in the matter of expert advice in the handling of timber lands; the making of management plans where desired by the private owner, and the protection of property rights through state aid, and in the all-important matter of forest fire prevention and control.

This bill has a revenue feature which will make it self-sustaining, for the special privilege taxes on forest products industries would be used entirely for forestry work and the renewal and protection of timber lands within Georgia.

To this could be added the federal aid funds that Georgia would be entitled to, and, as 29 other states in the union are receiving aid through their forestry departments, it is gratifying to know that Georgia could get $20,000 from the government for the year 1925 if the Rountree-Haddock forestry bill is passed now. It is estimated that this bill would raise about $22,000 yearly, and, therefore, Georgia would be supplied with sufficient funds for maintaining a splendid forestry service here in our own state which would save our naval stores and lumbering industries from probable extermination within the next 10 years.

This bill which may not be perfect, will surely give our forests a chance to come back, and that is the reason that the far-sighted naval-stores people and lumbermen are supporting this measure so strongly at this time.

The good Lord knows we need to give our forests this chance in order that our children may have sufficient supplies of Georgia timber, grown on the most favored soil in the world, right here within our own state. The need for forestry is not confined to future generations, however, for if Georgia will begin today to put her stamp of disapproval on the wild fires which destroy young timber before it has a chance to produce values to our citizens and for our state, then our unsurpassed climate and long growing seasons will quickly rebuild our lumbering and naval stores industries and within 10 years will develop a pulp and paper industry through the growing of pines on present idle lands.

It is unfortunate, indeed, that this constructive measure has received such adverse treatment to this time, but there is yet a chance for the house of representatives to pass this Rountree-Haddock bill in time for the senate to act on it next week.

The senate will undoubtedly concur in the favorable action by the house, and as the governor has given his whole-hearted endorsement of this measure, the Constitution sincerely hopes that Georgia will be given this law without further delay.

The rules committee placed this measure on the house calendar several days ago, along with the most important bills before the house, but a fight was made on this by the opponents who mustered their full strength at a time when many of the friends of forestry were absent and the necessary two-thirds vote was not received for keeping the measure on the calendar at that time. The opposition has been weakening since that vote was taken, however, and the friends of the forestry measure are glad to learn of much new support since serious thought has materially changed the situation in the house of representatives within the past week. A petition, signed by more than a majority of the house membership, has been submitted to the rules committee which more than justifies this committee in its former action and its constant desire to help Georgia renew and perpetuate her forest resources.

In addition to the approval and support of the naval stores industry, the woodworking industry, and the far-sighted lumbermen who want to remain permanently in the sawmill and lumber business—this measure has the support of all civic organizations in Georgia, and the unanimous approval of the Georgia Press association, as well as all thinking citizens who have come to realize the needs of our state along this line.

The friends of the measure do not claim that privilege taxes on the forest products industries will be the best method of financing this forestry work by the state, but this seems to be the only practical way for this relief measure to safeguard our young timber crops at this time. It must be remembered, and forcibly remembered, that this bill also safeguards this kind of revenue so that it can do these industries the greatest good possible, for if these privilege taxes were producing revenue for the general treasury these industries would be getting no direct benefit from the same. Now is the time to let forestry work in Georgia pay for itself through the enactment of the Rountree-Haddock forestry act.

A Bond Issue Economic Solution of Road Problem

Editor Constitution: With much interest I have read the editorial comment in your paper and the numerous communications published relative to future road construction in the state of Georgia. Some of these very aptly state that it would take considerable money to build a system of good roads and if the money is provided by a bond issue of say $75,000,000, that in order to meet the annual interest and the annual reduction of the original indebtedness it would require a considerable sum annually to meet this obligation—possibly in the neighborhood of $5,000,000 a year for interest and for a sinking fund to retire the bonds.

I notice that the writers ask "Where is this money coming from?" and they answer that the only method is to provide this annual fixed charge of, say $5,000,000, and it must come from the tax payers, and that the tax payers of Georgia are already burdened with taxes.

Does repair cost money? And who pays for it? The taxpayers of Georgia! If the amount of money spent annually by the state and counties for repairs of the present existing bad roads were computed it would amount in my opinion to several times the annual interest charge and the necessary amount for a sinking fund to pay off the proposed bond issue.

The amount of money as now spent for repairs mean only repairs lasting on the roads from one rain to the next rain. We all know as soon as it rains the roads have to be worked, scraped, culverts cleaned, washes repaired and a lot of other things done. This condition prevails in the summer time. In the winter time we have practically no roads at all in Georgia.

Is the state of North Carolina at the point of bankruptcy because that state has invested $76,000,000 in a system of good roads?

What would better advertise the state of Georgia to the outside world, to bring more citizens, more factories, most business, more vacationists, more tourists and more everything than a network permeating the entire state with good and permanent roads? It is the best and cheapest investment in advertising a state can have.

I am also informed by experts that the extra cost of operating an automobile over bad roads is 12 1-2 cents per mile for gas and oil and other necessities against operating the same cars on good roads. Since Georgia has approximately two hundred thousand automobiles and estimating that each car will be operated 10,000 miles, or a total of 2,000,000,000 miles, the annual cost to citizens of Georgia for bad roads is approximately $50,000,000. This enormous amount would be saved by a system of good roads.

To sum up we find that the total amount actually spent, and mostly because there is no permanency in our roads, amounts to more than seventy million dollars, whereas a bond issue of $75,000,000 or more for good roads in Georgia would only amount for interest and sinking fund purposes to $5,000,000 a year and will come out from the gas and tag taxes.

It is up to the citizens of Georgia to decide which figures they prefer and what kind of a system of roads they wish. Temporary bad roads always under repair as they now exist or a permanent system of roads that mean comfort, prosperity and good advertising for Georgia. Each citizen should ask his representative to vote a state bond soon for good roads.

Nation-Famous Educator Pays Soule Great Tribute

(By Dr. A. E. Winship, in Journal of Education, Boston.)

Andrew M. Soule, Agricultural college, Athens, Ga., has many exceptional achievements to his credit. No agricultural college has more. Every new college building, and there are several, one costing $100,000, Dr. Soule has built out of the profits of the college farm.

The college is less than thirty years old, but it is one of the most creative of the agricultural colleges. It has established a dairy industry in the state with several creameries and cheese factories, but The Journal's interest is chiefly in the work with boys and girls. The Farm Boys' clubs were created in Georgia and they are still more abundant and more productive than in any other state. Last year the boys and girls in these clubs won $30,000 in cash prizes. The boys' club work is organized and conducted by the county agents under the leadership of the state leader and in cooperation with the school forces of the state. Bulletins issued by the college are used as a basis of study with the club demonstrations as object lessons.

Dr. Soule's unparalleled achievement with work with boys and girls is through "Camp Wilkins," the only equipment of the kind in the world. A public-spirited citizen of Athens gave a building for boys' and girls' clubs. It is a really wonderful building, 42x200 feet, two stories. The second story is for sleeping quarters; 250 boys or girls can sleep there with every conceivable comfort, abundant modern indoor toilets, ventilation that is practically outdoor life. The main floor is equipped with a combination of club, study life and dining room. There are two relays of girls, a week each, and four relays of boys. Boys the first week in July, then girls for a week, then boys for a week, then girls, then boys for two weeks. The building is a forest as true to nature as though it were in the wilds of Canada, and yet within 300 yards is a created lake for bathing, swimming and boating. These boys and girls have the use of the clubhouse free, and the college gives each of them $5, which pays for the feeding, about $2.50, with as much more for training or other expenses. All this Dr. Soule's vision materialized.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

Would Be Good News To the Coal Dealers.

Professor Kamerlink Onnes, of Leyden university, says that the sun is cooling off so rapidly that the effects will soon become noticeable on the earth. The process, he says, marks the return of a glacial period, which will slowly embrace part of the kosmos in its chilly embrace. Camille Flammarion, years ago, foresaw such a calamity to the world. In hideous detail he pictured the sufferings of the last members of the human race, dying away in utter darkness, in a temperature where not even the greatest fires could keep the last men warm enough. Still in another book his imaginative mind created a remedy, where he suggests the erection of immense glass domes to cover the earth, under which heat would be stored, light would be supplied artificially and plants and vegetables grown by electricity. For our own consolation it must be added that when the learned Dutch savant of Leyden mentions the word "soon" he informs us that it has a relative meaning. It must be conceived as applying to a period of evolution where ten thousand years are like a watch in the night. There is little cause to worry for the present. We'll all be gone when that winter comes.

"Gone to Tell The King."

Primo Rivera, Signor Mussolini's understudy in Spain, has announced his intention of withdrawing Spanish forces from Morocco after a last "grand military demonstration." The demonstration consisted in bombing several Moorish villages. Airplane observers reported that the bombs they dropped were very effective, though there were no men in the villages at the time of the air raids. But there were women. Rivera wanted this to be the last of his campaign, but some of his officers do not agree with him and defy his orders. They want to continue the campaign. It must be a sort of comfortable war in so far as the Spanish officers are concerned. If they had any real fighting, something like Verdun or St. Mihiel or Ypres, they would not talk of wanting to stay. They would "want to go home," as the Tommies sang. Rebellions in the Spanish armies have been frequent in history. Alva, Don Juan, Parma and Requesens had to deal with them during the campaigns in France and the Netherlands. De Rivera has gone to report to King Alfonso. Alva and Don Juan took a different course. They first massacred the officers and then reported to the king.

Back to the Night.

Some members of the legislature of the state of Georgia have introduced a bill to prohibit the teaching of evolution in the schools. Notions on the subject of evolution are denounced as "rotten" and on a par with sacrilege. No pretense has ever been made in Georgia of teaching evolution, but even a rudimentary approach to the riddle of the universe must be prevented. The proposed measure would place a premium on ignorance and imbecility. There have always been people who prefer the night to the day. There have always been people who dare not trust the validity of their own beliefs and therefore with a ukase, with a stroke of the pen would bar independent investigation and thought. To think was forbidden in the dark ages. A learned astronomer was burned at the stake because he dared announce that the earth was round. People had their tongues ripped out or were flayed alive because they dared to hold the opinion that a woman was a human being. The Bible is to be the only basis for education in Georgia, we are told. When will men begin to understand that the collection of Jewish books, known as the Bible, is not a textbook on biology or natural science.

What Has World Gained By War?

The American Legion Weekly in its latest number publishes answers it received to the question "What has the world gained by the world war?" From John Maynard Keynes, the expert on European affairs, it received a laconic: "I don't know." From Norman Angell a dissertation on the interrelation of nations. Most of the prominent international figures, such as the president of France, allied generals and Maximilian Harden, able editor of Die Zukunft, are of the opinion that the world has gained in knowledge. And indeed the war would not have been fought in vain if the conviction had been universally established that wars really settle nothing and that differences between nations are possible of adjustment by means of conferences and round table talks, and that agreements between nations must be based on consent and acceptance rather than on violent imposition. The former German emperor was also included in the list of persons who received the legion's query. From him came a curt: "What has the world gained? Nothing. It has lost everything." Not quite everything, perhaps, but one thing it certainly did lose, that was the last man who believed that he reigned by the grace of God.

Who Are the Jews?

The debate on the Palestine budget in the British house of commons produced an interesting theory on the origin of the Jews. Colonel Beauchamp Williams said that the present day Jews were not the descendants of the Biblical "children of Israel," but that they were descendants of the Chazars, a Mongolian people, who once had a large and powerful state of their own in south Russia. They became converted to Judaism in the ninth century, but were conquered by Rurik, the first rulers of Muscovy. In other words there are no Israelites left on this earth and the Jews are kinsmen to the Chinese and other Mongolian races. It's an interesting theory, that of Colonel Williams, but the rabbis will have something to say on the subject. Ever since the Jews became wanderers on the earth they have never neglected to keep their chronicles and geneology intact and up to date. Few other peoples can boast of such painstaking and careful historical work. In the vilest ghettos of Europe there always were and there are at present rabbinical scholars, whose minds are among the keenest intellects in the world, because of generations of oppression that drove them to philosophy and metaphysics. Records and histories also have been written as the ages progressed. The only Jewish state outside of the new Palestine is a dream of Leon Trotsky, who wants to establish a Jewish soviet republic on the Crimean peninsula.

BITS OF NEW YORK LIFE

BY O. O. M'INTYRE

New York, August 7.—Thoughts while strolling around New York: Well, I'll be dogged! A Broadway cafe named "The Cave of the Fallen Angels." Edgar Selwyn, admiring a silk house robe, Jerome Kern and P. G. Wodehouse. A new French book shop.

A former prize fighter begging. Booze and a blonde. Wonder where I left my umbrella. The passing flow of celebrities. Seasonal crazes. Actors. Artists. And astute charlatans. A pagan generation. Uttering barbaric yawps. There goes a millionaire florist.

A flock of midgets. Living a squirrel-in-the-cage existence. The weekend hegira for the country. Give me heat and the city rather than the open space of mosquitoes. Noon-day lecturers espousing a hundred causes along the curbs.

The tenements of Tenth avenue. The smell of a thousand washings. Patient women submerged in the humdrum depths of dull domesticity. A voodoo doctor. And by perverse irony named Professor Slick. Hell's Kitchen. Hard-boiled eggs and hard-boiled yeggs.

Isaac Marcosson with a dazzling new checkered shirt. What's he doing way over here? The ripple of the Hudson. And the pungent odor of mud flat and marsh. A pack of hunting dogs. I don't see how anyone can kill any kind of an animal.

Sturdy rivermen wreathed in pipe smoke. Snorting locomotives making Riverside drive hideous. The loaded silence about the Schwab mansion. Amelia Bingham still has the statues out front. At least 20 mammoth apartment houses have gone up since last I was here.

The spic and span upper Broadway section. The nearest to small town atmosphere anywhere in New York. Mothers patrolling the sidewalks with baby carriages. Older women knitting in chairs along the curb. The screech and shout of youth at play.

Miss Anne Morgan, daughter of the late J. P. Morgan, lost a $2,500 platinum cigarette case in a theater one night recently. A doorman found it and restored it to the owner. He received a check large enough to lift a mortgage on his home.

Eddie Cantor was elected mayor of Broadway in an election held by a newspaper. For years Chinatown has had a mayor. So has Second avenue and Essex street has its duke, but this is the first time Broadway has ever had a mayor.

Hundreds of women in New York make a good living as professional shoppers. They do the shopping for visitors free and have the purchased articles charged to their own account. They make their pay by receiving 10 per cent discount from big stores and shops. There are several professional shoppers who average $10,000 a year. In many instances they do not have to do the shopping. The customers merely have the articles charged to their account and in this way they collect the discount without any labor whatsoever.

New York theaters are open Sunday nights for "sacred concerts." They are in reality mere vaudeville shows which somehow manage to get around the law. Costuming is barred to a great extent and the performers appear in their street clothes. Still, most actors' street clohes are costumes.

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

DESSERT FOR THE FAT.

This is glad news I bring to what seems, at any rate, a growing majority of readers. Although few would believe it, I am always delighted when I can give a little good news here. So much of my stuff appears to be bad news, particularly for this expanding majority I refer to. I am forever telling them that if they would keep any control over the bulgings and the billows they have got to do two things which fat folk just naturally hate to do, fast and work. Well, let's smile a bit. It is not a habit I would urge upon the overnourished multitude, smiling, but perhaps an occasional smile will do no great harm—like the famous occasional glass of beer which is most eloquently extolled by the chap who has about a dozen of 'em under his oversize belt.

No less an authority than Dr. James S. McLester, of Birmingham, an urban community of 178,487 people and 319 doctors down in Alabama, would allow fat folks their dessert even when they are on a reduction regimen. For, as has been shown by Kestner, asserts Dr. McLester, a dessert taken at the end of the meal will greatly enhance its satiety value. Not only are simple sweets, when credited with their proper caloric value, of no harm, Dr. McLester assures us, but when taken at the proper time they will permit the patient to rest satisfied with a smaller quantity of food. If we would hold the patient down to a minimal intake and at the same time satisfy him, we should add always to the heavy meal a little dessert.

So there you are, plump people. Have a little strawberry shortcake.

Too well nourished individuals should carefully discriminate between the satiety value of the dessert and its society value. The popular custom of indulging in food as a sociable pastime is to blame for a good many tons of slacker flesh. Next to social drinking social eatnig must be listed as a factor of impaired health and efficiency.

I have suggested in a former talk a "homeopathic" way to reduce—the practice of nibbling on a bit of very sweet candy within the hour before regular meal time. The satiety value of sugar, you see, tends to encourage leaving the table before you've quite cleaned up everything in sight.

If you are too well nourished—and for health's sake allow yourself a generous 8 per cent leeway in poundage if you are still young—and disposed to take this suggestion seriously, remember that the excessive amount of carbohydrate in the average dietary is responsible for most of the obesity that disfigures the land, or at any rate the scenery. Carbohydrate, as everybody knows, includes all the starches and sugars that go to make up most things that are good to eat. So count the calories before you call for dessert. I don't mean to say one must count every calory that happens to stray into a dish of dessert, but just remember to figure the nutritive value of the dessert in your day's total intake. A bit of dessert adds appreciably to the total calories consumed, but it keeps one more contented with the restricted rations and that state of mind conduces to success in the long run.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Let the Boy Toddle.

Is there not some advantage in allowing a 13-months-old boy to toddle about the house in his bare feet? He rarely wears shoes unless in his perambulator. (Mrs. B. A. K.)

Answer—Yes, it is better for his development.

Sunburn.

Can you recommend anything to prevent sunburn? I burn repeatedly, never becoming tanned. Would it be of any use to stain the skin, as a protection against the actinic rays, in lieu of pigment of sufficient amount? (M. J. M.)

Answer—Yes, a staining or dyeing of the skin to a brownish tint would give considerable protection, provided the dye used is harmless, but such an expedient would scarcely be advisable in this climate. Exposure to the sunlight in gradually lengthening periods daily is the best preventative, as a rule, for that effects tanning of the skin in most persons. When prolonged exposure is unavoidable, cover the exposed skin with a thick application of grease, paint and powder or with zinc oxide ointment.

Folliculitis.

I am annoyed by ingrowing hairs on my neck and chin. What treatment would you advise? They cause pimples containing pus? Is the plucking out of the hairs advisable or helpful? (A. G. A.)

Answer—Two skin diseases are commonly mistaken for "ingrowing hairs"—a thing which never happens. The first is one form of barber's itch (not ringworm). In sycosis barbae there is an inflammation of the hair root or follicle (folliculitis) and more or less suppuration, and often some benefit is obtained by plucking out loosened hairs, not the firmly rooted hairs. More likely your trouble is a simple folliculitis, in which plucking the hair is not advisable. Better let the hair grow long, expose the skin to sunlight, avoid handling and friction of clothing, and make free use of a borated talcum powder for a few weeks.

Beauty Clays.

Can you give me the ingredients of the beauty clays and tell me whether they are injurious to the skin? (Mrs. G. N. S.)

Answer—The main ingredient is a high grade of American hokum. They are mostly harmless. They were described in a recent number of Hygeia which is regularly found on the magazine stands.

ANTI-FEE MEASURE SLATED FOR TODAY

Although another day was lost in having the senate pass on the Fulton county anti-fee bill, advocates of the measure expressed themselves Thursday as still hopeful that the bill would pass despite the fact that the legislature adjourns next week. The bill provides for abolishing the fee system of paying county officials of Fulton county, placing them instead on a salary basis.

Senator Ernest Smith, of the thirty-fifth (Atlanta) district, has announced that he will seek to amend the bill so as to eliminate the provision authorizing the grand jury to approve officials' salaries as fixed by the county commissioners, declaring that he would not wish to see the officials left "high and dry" in case the grand jury did not approve the commissioners' recommendations.

The bill was scheduled for final consideration Thursday, but lengthy debate on other measures occupied most of the day's session and it did not come up. However, it is ready for a third reading this morning.

Mrs. Norman Sharp, president of the Atlanta Woman's club, who, with other members of the organization, has been active in support of the bill to abolish the fee system, stated Thursday that Senator Smith had given her assurance that the measure would be brought up for consideration today. Members of the Fulton county delegation in the lower house, Mrs. Sharp stated, had also given her full assurancec that should the bill come back to the house amended, that they would do all in their power to have the amendment acted on as soon as possible.

Advocates of the bill are fearful that should it be amended and sent back to the house of representatives it might be lost in the shuffle during the last days of the session.

Auto Fee Bills Read.

Two measures abolishing the fee system for the solicitor general of the Fulton superior court and the solicitor of the Atlanta criminal court, and placing these officials on the salary basis, were read for the first time in the senate Thursday. The former's salary, under the bill, would be $12,000 annually, while the latter's would be $10,000. Both bills were reported favorably by the general judiciary committee and already have passed the house.

The rules committee was asked Thursday morning to place the Atlanta viaduct bill on the calendar for concurrence by the house in an amendment to the measure, but action was deferred on the request, which was made by Representative Smith, of the Fulton delegation.

The Atlanta omnibus charter bill, passed by both houses, will be submitted to the governor for his signature when engrossed.

Have You Piles?

Then You Have Something to Learn.

Thousands who have piles have not learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither cutting nor any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove the cause.

Bad circulation causes piles. There is a complete stagnation of blood in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was first to find the remedy. His prescription, HEMROID, is now sold by all druggists. Dr. Leonhardt tried it in 1,000 cases with the marvelous record of success in 98 per cent, and then decided it should be sold under a rigid money-back guarantee.

OLD WOMEN'S HOME EXERCISES SUNDAY

With Atlanta Lodge, No. 78, B. P. O. E., in charge of ceremonies, and representatives of leading civic organizations and women's clubs of the city in attendance, ground will be broken next Sunday afternoon for the new Home for Old Women at 61 West End avenue. Judge L. F. McClelland, head of the Atlanta Elks, will be master of ceremonies.

Mrs. J. R. Wakefield and Mrs. W. C. Robinson are chairman and vice chairman, respectively, of the committee in charge of arrangements. Refreshments are to be served by ladies of the West End Woman's club, and music will be furnished by the celebrated Elks' band.

Actual construction on the new home will begin immediately, it was announced Thursday, with Charles W. Bernhardt, wel-known local contractor, in charge of the work, offering his services free. Plans, which have been approved, call for a structure of brick and reinforced concrete with a capacity of a hundred inmates, to take the place of the present frame building, which the organization has outgrown. The new building will cost about $125,000.

Members of the board of managers, who are arranging plans for the ceremony Sunday, are: Mrs. F. W. Farley, president; Mrs. R. V. Haslett, vice president; Mrs. E. B. Wood, recording secretary; Mrs. E. H. Cox, corresponding secretary; Mrs. B. M. Boykin, Mrs. A. Moyer, Mrs. J. R. Wakefield and Mrs. W. C. Robinson.

WILL MODERNIZE REPAIR SHOP HERE AT $750,000 COST

Plans to remodel and modernize the Southern railway system's locomotive repair shop in this city were made known Thursday by R. B. Pegram, vice president. An expenditure of approximately $750,000 is contemplated, it was learned through the Foundation company, contractors for the work.

"The Southern railway announces that it has arranged to remodel and modernize its locomotive repair shop in Atlanta on the existing site," Mr. Pegram said. Complete details of the changes were not disclosed by Mr. Pegram, although officials of the contracting firm outlined plans for the work, which is expected to get under way at an early date. Actual construction will take about six months, it was announced.

The main building, which is to take the place of the present structure, will be about 300 feet square, with twenty repair pits and facilities for overhauling and repairing the largest locomotives on the Southern lines in this section. The latest types of machinery will be installed, making the plant one of the best equipped in the country, officials stated.

The new plant is to be devoted exclusively to repairing locomotives. The passenger and freight repairing facilities will be moved to some other part of the city, probably Inman yards.

LEGION MEMBERS WILL ENTERTAIN CITY POLICEMEN

Argonne Post No. 1, American Legion, will be host to the Atlanta police force at a smoker at 8 o'clock tonight in the Chamber of Commerce building, it was announced Thursday by J. B. Conyers, commander of the local post. This function will take the place of the regular monthly meeting, and all members of the Legion are invited to attend.

Chief Jett and all members of the police department off duty at the time have signified their intention to be present.

Asa Warren Candler, national executive committeeman of the American Legion from Georgia, will be principal speaker.

SWIMMING EXHIBITION WILL BE HELD TONIGHT

The boys' department of the colored branch of the Y. M. C. A. will give a swimming exhibition to the public at 8 o'clock tonight. John Cook, an expert swimmer, will give a diving demonstration.

President John Hope will address the boys' meeting at 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The speaker has recently returned from an extended trip abroad.

Athens Is Opposed As Site for Cotton Dusting Experiment

Following announcement that Athens had been chosen for the site of the first demonstration of the application of calcium arsenate by airplane, several members of organizations interested in the pioneer project Thursday afternoon registered vigorous objection against tentative plans made earlier in the week and offered several towns and counties in the northern part of the state for consideration as alternates. Indications at the close of the meeting in the Kimball house pointed toward a long fight among committee members, who were still divided as to selection of the location.

Plans made public Wednesday named Athens and Clark county, tentatively, as the section in which the first demonstration would be made. Dr. B. R. Coad, in charge of the delta laboratories at the government experimental station at Tallulah, La., famous nationally for his fight against the boll weevil, will be present at the time of the demonstration.

Doubt Athens as Site.

Although members of the committee said that there would be no change in the date of the demonstration (August 26), they expressed themselves as doubtful that Athens would be named.

Three large airplanes will be used in the demonstrations under the direction of G. B. Post, representative of Dr. Coad, and also of Huff-Daland and company, of Ogdenburg, N. Y.

Frank Holden, representative in the house of representatives from Clark county, and a candidate for congress from that district, championed the selection of Athens as the most logical city in the state for the demonstration and engaged in long debate with members who suggested Athens be no longer considered.

Confident of No Change.

Mr. Holden, with David D. Long, representing the state college of agriculture, declared that he would continue to urge that Athens be selected and the tentative plans be adopted. They expressed confidence that there would be no change and said they intended to work vigorously for Clark county.

Elaborate entertainment plans for the thousands of persons expected at the demonstration are already under way, and will include a mammoth barbecue arranged for 5,000 persons.

Those present at the meeting Thursday were: W. R. Tucker, of the A., B. & A. railroad; T. E. Fleming, G. W. McCarty, representing fertilizer manufacturers; Frank Holden, legislator from Clark county; David D. Long, representing the State College of Agriculture, and Brooks Morgan, representing the business interests of the state.

MANY ATLANTANS GUARDING SELVES AGAINST TYPHOID

Many Atlantans are availing themselves of the city health department's offer of free immunity from typhoid during their vacation trips to the country and other cities where the water supply is not so pure as that of Atlanta.

Dr. J. P. Kennedy, city health officer, Thursday advised all prospective vacationists to visit the city health office about two weeks before the date set for departure in order that treatments, which are administered in three successive "shots," might be completed in time not to interfere with holiday diversions.

WELDON IN CLASH WITH W. H. ABBOTT OVER FEE SYSTEM

Argument over the bill pending in legislature to abolish the fee system payment basis for Fulton county officials resulted Wednesday in a personal encounter between Frank Weldon, secertary of the Taxpayers' league, and W. H. Abbott, Fulton county tax receiver. The trouble took place in a downtown restaurant.

Only one blow was passed, Weldon hitting Abbott. Then the two were separated, witnesses started. No case was made against either participant.

Weldon is said to have accused Abbott of attempting to defeat the bill and to have threatened to place an independent candidate in the field in opposition to the nominee in the regular county election in November.

Pupils below the seventh grade who attended Hill street last year have been reassigned to Slaton, Grant Park and Crew street schools. New portable buildings to house overflow attendance at all schools and prevent need for double sessions are under construction, 20 units for Hill street, four at Slaton, two at Grant Park and two at Crew street.

Man Struck on Head By Piece of Timber Tossed Off Viaduct

Hugh Murray, 35, employee of the Westinghouse Electric company, Thursday morning narrowly escaped death when he was struck on the head by a piece of timber which someone had thrown from the Forsyth street viaduct into the alleyway in the rear of the Brown building, which fronts on Marietta street.

He was carried to Grady hospital and allowed to return home when X-ray examinations failed to show any evidence of a fractured skull.

WATER POWER BOOKLET NOW BEING DISTRIBUTED

"Water Power Developments in North eGorgia, 1924," is the title of an interesting and profusely illustrated booklet, a second and augmented edition having been just issued by the Georgia Railway & Power company. Copies are being distributed by the public relations department and may be had on request at the company's office.

JOHN CRANDELL PAYS ATLANTA SHORT VISIT

John Bradshaw Crandell, one of America's best-known artists, is in Atlanta this week on a combined business and pleasure trip. Although only 28 years old, he has achieved a wide reputation as a pastel painter, his work being featured on covers of leading magazines of the country.

Mr. Crandell is one of the few artists operating his own reproducing plant, finding this necessary, he says, to get the best reproduction of his work. He also has his own advertising service, which markets much of his work, William F. Deutsch being the southern manager, and Curry Moon, Atlanta representative.

CHARLES B. HARRIS, JR., DEAD OF APPENDICITIS

News has been received in Atlanta of the sudden death Thursday of Charles B. Harris, Jr., 16-year-old son of Mrs. Charles B. Harris and the late Mr. Harris, who was a former well-known resident of Atlanta.

Young Harris' death followed an acute attack of appendicitis. He was a nephew of Mrs. G. G. Glower and Miss Lucie Harris, who reside at 1107 Highland avenue. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Charles B. Harris; a sister, Miss Dorothy Harris, and two brothers, Howard and Frank Harris.

Turkish Women Demand Abolition of Polygamy

(Beatrice Hill Ogilvie, Journalist, in August Current History Magazine.)

The supreme proof of the rapid improvement in the status of Turkish women lies in their demand that polygamy be abolished. "Polygamy is horrible," declared the chief among these women. "It must go because it is the arch enemy to stability in family life and, therefore, to the health and progress of our nation."

It is admitted that the abolition of polygamy may reduce the birth rate, but it is declared that this will be more than compensated for by a reduction in the neglect of children. "It is not how many children are born but how many are survive that counts," said this feminist leader. "It is true that Turkey is depopulated, but as we increase our numbers we must multiply their opportunities. That is the vital issue."

The abolition of polygamy naturally necessitates greater restrictions in divorce and more equal distribution of this power. Otherwise, the men of Turkey are likely to substitute a process of progressive marriages for that of plural wives. In order to prevent this succession of marriages and to supplement divorce control, the reformers propose to limit the number of marriages to three. Heretofore, man has practically owned the divorce right.

Cavalry Advance Guard To Leave For Camp Today

The advance detachment of the first squadron, 108th cavalry, national guard of Georgia, will leave early today for Camp McClellan, Ala., where it will assume charge of plans for the annual encampment of the cavalry outfit which leaves later on. The advance detachment, composed of 21 men, is headed by First Lieutenant W. M. Crawford, adjutant; Second Lieutenant Stephen Mitchell, assistant adjutant, and Second Lieutenant W. V. Barlow, supply officer.

The detachment will leave early today by the Southern railway and upon arrival at camp will draw supplies, prepare camp area and install squadron headquarters, proper. Other units of the squadron will leave at later dates.

Captain A. L. Henderson, commanding officer of the Georgia Hussars, has arranged an elaborate athletic program which calls for many polo contests. The squadron boasts the only polo team in a national guard organization in the fourth corps area, and a number of matches have been arranged between organization teams and independent teams.

The annual competitive drill will be held on Friday, August 2, when the winning outfit will be awarded the handsome Seaman trophy cup. Liberty Independents have won the cup for the last two successive years and a strong bid will be made this year by the governor's horse guards.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR MRS. V. BAILEY TO BE HELD TODAY

Final tribute to Mrs. Virginia E. Bailey, pioneer Atlanta woman, who died Wednesday night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Nathan Siegel, of 576 Virginia avenue, will be held at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon from the chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son, with Rev. F. W. Burr officiating. Interment will be in Hollywood cemetery.

Mrs. Bailey, who was 75 years old, was born in Campbell county, and moved to Atlanta when a small child. Her father was M. T. Walker, who served under General Stonewall Jackson during the Civil war, and she was the widow of Jesse B. Bailey, also a Confederate veteran.

Mrs. Bailey was active in hospital work during the war, and also in improving conditions during the reconstruction period following the close of hostilities. She was a member of the Presbyterian church.

She leaves two sons, E. W. Bailey, of Detroit, and A. H. Bailey, of Miami; a daughter, Mrs. Siegel, and a sister, Mrs. T. J. Simmons.

ELECTRIC CHAIR DEATHS TO SAVE GEORGIA MONEY

The state of Georgia may shock a man to death at two cents a shock if Governor Clifford Walker signs the electric-chair bill sent to him by the general assembly, it was estimated Thursday by Atlanta City Electrician Robert C. Turner, original advocate of substituting the chair for the noose.

Although a high voltage, more than 1,200, is customarily employed in electric executions, it does not require a great deal of current to produce death, Mr. Turner said.

The first cost of establishing an electric chair will be greater than for building a gallows, it was admitted, but the upkeep will be less. Electricity will cost less than new hempen ropes, Mr. Turner said.

CENTRAL BAPTIST CHURCH IS QUIET AFTER HOT FIGHT

Affairs of the Central Baptist church will remain unchanged for the present, it was announced Thursday, and no further action is contemplated to remove Rev. W. L. Hambrick, the pastor, or to take action against the six deacons and thirty-six members who sponsored the motion to oust the preacher.

Efforts to remove Mr. Hambrick were made Wednesday night at a mass meeting of the congregation. After hot debate the motion was defeated by twenty-three votes.

Following this action, Rev. Hambrick declared that since the majority of the congregation had rallied to his support he felt it was the duty of those who had voted against him to leave. This suggestion was met with disapproval and was not put to a vote.

STREET RAILWAY EARNINGS DROP

Street railway earnings of the Georgia Railway and Power company showed a decrease for July, 1924, compared to July, 1923, of $38,779.39, or a drop at the rate of nearly $1,300 a day, according to figures in a statement of the earnings of the company made public on Thursday.

Out of the 24 city street car lines operated by the company, 19 showed substantial decreases for the same month, and July, 1923, the company states, was a month far below normal.

Jitneys Blamed.

The reason for the drop in earnings is attributed by the company "to the increase in unregulated jitneys," and, it is added, if the loss continues, it will result in "the inevitable disruption of Atlanta's transportation system."

"The street railway," the report states, "which last year failed by more than $565,000 to earn a reasonable return on the public service commission's minimum valuation of the property, cannot continue to bear the burden of such increased losses."

"The facts about the transportation situation," it continues, "are being put before the people of Atlanta in the expectation that, in their own interests, they will see that the alarming condition is speedily remedied."

Decreases for Month.

The decreases by lines were as follows:

Decatur-Marietta-Inman Yards, a decrease of $869.95 from July, 1923; Ponce de Leon-West View, $2,499.80; Boulevard-West Hunter, $5,673.23; Inman Park-Georgia Avenue, $2,811.23; Highland Avenue-Federal Prison line, $2,633.38; Forrest Avenue-Capitol Avenue, $342.53; West Peachtree-East Hunter, $1,048.01; East Fair-Marietta-Howell Mill road, $2,756.92; Courtland-Central Avenue, $2,062.64; Peachtree-Whitehall, $5,066.52; Luckie Street-Woodward Avenue, $9,447.64; Irwin Street-W. Fair Street, $1,290.79; Pine Street, $10,903.45; Main Decatur line, $826.01; South Decatur-East Lake, $87.27; River, $344.62; College Park-Hapeville-East Point, $2,887.84; Stewart Avenue, $2,555.46; English Avenue-Soldiers' Home, $572.42.

Increased earnings were shown on only five lines, as follows:

Cooper-Richardson-Pine street, an increase of $4,166.03 over July, 1923; Orme Street-Magnolia, $664.09; Piedmont Avenue-Washington Street, $6,191.53; Buckhead-Oglethorpe, $188.26; McDaniel Street, $4,690.41.

JOHN W. DAVIS LAUDED BY SENATOR HARRIS

Declaring that he thinks John W. Davis, democratic candidate for president, "the most distinguished and most capable man in public life today," Senator William J. Harris gave a series of intimate sketches of the three presidential candidates in an address Thursday at the regular weekly luncheon of the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The talk, while informal, was based on personal acquaintance during his long service in Washington as a federal official and as senator. He described President Coolidge as "honest and capable," but added that "without any partisan prejudice, Mr. Davis is an abler statesman."

Senator Harris also described the organization and functioning of the United States senate, paying particular attention to the history and work of the farm bloc. "This group of about 25, made up of southern democrats and western republicans who represent the two great agricultural areas of the country, occupies such a strategic position in the senate that it shapes practically all the legislation enacted by congress," the speaker declared.

He also expressed strong approval of the immigration bill passed by the last congress, saying it is "undoubtedly the greatest piece of legislation passed in the last 30 years." The Japanese exclusion clause should cause little trouble, he said, calling attention to a similar restriction which Japan imposed against immigration from Asiatic countries.

Award of prizes to winners of the recent junior chamber tennis tournament featured the business of the meeting, a beautiful loving cup going to J. C. Chambers, winner of the singles matches. Trophies also were presented to J. C. Shelor and L. P. Newman, doubles winners; P. A. Clark and B. C. Bangs, runners-up, and Harry Galt, runner-up in the singles.

Miss Madalina Hauff, local operatic star, rendered several solos, and was accompanied by her father, Dr. Hauff. Smythe Gambrell, chairman of the program committee, presided.

No More Asthma and Hay Fever

"I want every Asthma sufferer in this city to try my treatment entirely at my risk," Dr. Schiffmann announces. "Go to your druggist and get a package of my Asthmador and, should it fail to give instant relief, the druggist will cheerfully refund your money without any question whatever." The doctor says, further: "No matter how violent the attack, how obstinate the case, or what else has failed, my Asthmador or Asthmador Cigarettes will give instant relief, usually in 10 seconds, but always within 15 minutes. Hundreds of unsolicited testimonials abundantly prove what my remedy has done, and I know it will do the same for others. I am so positively certain that it will produce instant relief and will be found the best remedy ever used that I have no fears of authorizing these druggists to give this guarantee, or of their being called upon for the refunding of money."

No risk whatever is run in buying this remedy under this positive guarantee, and such a personal trial will prove more conclusively than a "free sample" could possibly prove. R. Schiffmann Co., Proprs., 1734 N. Main, Los Angeles, Calif.—(adv.)

What your banker would say about roofs

YOUR banker knows investments. He looks for lasting quality in a building. He lends on good buildings that stay good.

He would say to put on your house a roof that will never curl or become unsightly. He'd say to you use "the shingle that never curls," because his common sense would dictate that only such a shingle could produce a permanently good roof.

Carey ASFALTSLATE SHINGLES

THE SHINGLE THAT NEVER CURLS

Make sure you have a permanently good roof by insisting upon the Carey Asfaltslate Shingle—"The Shingle that never Curls"—the shingle made by the Carey process.

Carey Asfaltslate Shingles come in three colors, Blue-black, also Red and Green.

"Captain Kidd, Jr."

(At the Lyric.)

With only three performances left for "Captain Kidd, Jr.," the regular patrons of the Lyric theater and hundreds of new ones are stampeding the box office to get a chance to see Wilfred Lytell do the part again that he created for Cohan and Harris in New York and the rest of the players in delightful parts in the funniest comedy of the summer. "Upstairs and Down," a comedy by the famous Fred and Fanny Hatton, opens with ladies' bargain performance Monday night.

Hodges Musical Comedy.

(At The Forsyth)

"Sally Lou," the musical comedy written by Jimmie Hodges, and being offered by him and members of his musical comedy company at the Forsyth theater this week, is one whirlpool of mirth and fun.

Beautiful costumes are a big feature of the show, as are the scenic effects, both obtained by Mr. Hodges on his recent trip to New York. Miss Irene Sarli wins new laurels in her rural rube role and Don Armand is pleasing in his song selections.

Orloff Troupe.

(At Loew's Grand.)

Only two more days remain in which Atlanta vaudeville fans have a chance to see the Orloff Troupe, undoubtedly one of the best European acts to come to Atlanta, and now headlining the bill of all-star vaudeville at Loew's Grand theater. In addition the well-known comedians and singers, Harrison and Moss, are on the same bill. Three other good acts, and the feature picture, "Wild Oranges," starring Frank Mayo and Virginia Valli, are included in the program this week.

"For Sale."

(At the Metropolitan.)

In "For Sale," Claire Windsor, in the role of Eleanor Bates, the daughter of the rich, attempts to take poison rather than marry a man she does not love. The scene is most spectacular and presents something really new in pictures. Hudson has written his story around modern society with the theme: "Should a daughter be placed on the matrimonial auction block, against the promptings of her heart, to save the family fortunes?"

"Changing Husbands."

(At the Rialto.)

We've seen "Changing Husbands" and rise to remark and inform the public in general that it's the greatest piece of comedy work we've seen on the screen to date. It's a story in which lovely Leatrice Joy is featured at the Rialto theater.

Paramount Theater.

(For Colored Only.)

Nita Naldi, Patsy Ruth Miller, George Fawcett and Matt Moore are the featured players in the new Paramount picture, "The Breaking Point," produced by Herbert Brenon from the novel and play of the same name by Mary Roberts Rinehart. Cyril Ring, Charles A. Stevenson, John Merkel, Julia Faye and Edythe Chapman play in support.

COMMISSION FIGHT LOOMS IN FLOYD

Constitution Bureau,
Masonic Temple Annex.
Phone 1069.

Rome, Ga., August 7.—(Special.) There probably will be three tickets in the race for commissioner when entries close in Floyd county August 15. At a meeting of Floyd county business men Wednesday, a committee was appointed to draft five men of good business ability as candidates for the board.

H. P. Meikleham, M. S. Lanier, S. A. Marshall, J. E. Smith and T. B. Owens, the committee appointed, are expected to make their report at the end of the week.

A ticket formed last week is composed of O. N. Richardson, G. A. Todd, A. C. Fincher, H. O. Littlejohn and C. E. Horton.

It is reported that a third ticket is being formed.

Rome Plant Changes Hands.

Rome, Ga., August 7.—(Special.) The Rome Stationery company, that has been in business here for 25 years, changed ownership a few days ago. A. E. Purviance sold the company to C. J. Wyatt and associates, according to an announcement made Wednesday. The business will be under the management of Carl F. Clark, who has had years of experience in this line.

Mr. Purviance and Simpson Penney have bought a similar business in Orlando, Fla., and have gone there to live.

Woman Sues Rome.

Rome, Ga., August 7.—(Special.) A damage suit for $3,000 was filed Wednesday in Floyd superior court by Mrs. Lethia Barber against the city of Rome. The petitioner states in her suit that she was injured May 21 when she struck her foot against a brick in the middle of a sidewalk, and stumbled and fell on her right side.

Her arm was fractured and she received other injuries, the petition avers.

Mrs. Barber explains that she has been employed as a housekeeper for several years and she will not be able to work again.

The plaintiff is represented by Henry Walker.

LA FOLLETTE TO SPEND AUGUST IN WASHINGTON

Washington, August 7.—Senator La Follette has given up the idea of going to his home in Madison, Wis., before the end of the month at least and probably will remain in Washington until he is ready to launch his speech-making campaign for the presidency.

Tentative plans called for the departure of the candidate for Madison by the middle of August, but it was said today that he believes he can best keep in touch with campaign developments by remaining here.

It probably will be a month before Senator La Follette does any speech-making, although he has received a number of invitations to launch his campaign at Labor day rallies, and may make use of the radio for an address or two in the next few weeks. After he takes the stump, it is likely the senator will make Madison, instead of Washington, his base for the remainder of the campaign, returning there between speech-making trips for a rest.

Wanted: People With Brains

If you saw that advertisement in a newspaper, could you qualify? If so, listen to this:

Every man admits that he should secure life and accident insurance for the protection of his wife and babies or those dependent upon him. And every man admits that the insurance that is most efficient and cheapest is the kind he wants.

All of which leads to the statement that Constitution insurance has supplied the needs of hundreds of wise and thoughtful men and women—and should supply yours.

Here's a case in point:

Mary Jane Warlick was injured in an automobile accident during the month of May, from which accident she was totally disabled for four weeks.

Miss Warlick was the holder of a $1,000 Constitution Travel and Pedestrian Accident Insurance policy, which cost her only $1 yearly in addition to the regular subscription rates on her Daily and Sunday Constitution. It provides payment of $1,000 in case of death resulting from certain specified accidents, varying sums for permanent injuries, and $10 weekly indemnity for disability.

Under the provisions of her policy, Miss Warlick was paid the sum of $40.

Another great protective opportunity presented Constitution readers lies in the $500 Group Reader Life Insurance policy—the only straight life offer made by an Atlanta newspaper—which costs only 15 or 20 cents per week (depending on the risk) in addition to the regular Constitution subscription rates. This policy provides payment of $500 in case of death from any cause, and it remains in force as long as payments on both the policy and The Constitution subscription are maintained.

If you have the welfare of your loved ones at heart, both these great offers should appeal to you. Think it over. Then visit, phone or write The Constitution's insurance department for full particulars.

JUNIOR GOLF TOURNEY SET FOR SEPT.

Julius Hughes, 13-year-old golfer, and son of Dr. Claude N. Hughes, will defend his title as junior golf champion of Atlanta the first part of September, in the second annual junior championship tournament at the Druid Hills Golf club. The probable dates of the tournament are September 1, 2 and 3.

Harry Stephens, professional at Druid Hills, is now busy sending out letters to professionals of the other clubs and the public courses in Atlanta asking them to assist by registering boys and taking their entrance fee of $1, to be turned over to him just before the tournament. The tournament will be open to every golfer in Atlanta who has not yet reached the age of 16 years, 6 months.

Unlike the first tournament of this kind, held last year, plays will be from scratch. This is in conformance with regular tournament play. Players will be grouped in flights according to their qualifying scores and trophies will be offered to winners and runners-up in all flights.

The championship play will include the title and one year's possession of the magnificent cup donated by G. F. Willis last year. In addition to holding the cup for one year, the champion will be awarded a smaller trophy to remain permanently in his possession.

Big Advance Sale For Gibbons Bout

London, August 7.—(By the Associated Press.)—An advance sale of some 60,000 seats testifies to the great interest that has been aroused over the 20-round bout Saturday between Tom Gibbons, the St. Paul light-heavyweight, and Jack Bloomfield, the British boxer. London this summer has an abnormally large influx of provincial visitors, attracted by the Wembley exhibition. The average daily attendance at the exhibition is in the neighborhood of 150,000, mounting on Saturday and holidays to more than 200,000; thus, should there be fine weather Saturday, the Wembley stadium may possibly be filled to its capacicy—127,000.

Brookes Loses To Snodgrass

Southampton, N. Y., August 7.—Harvey Snodgrass, of California, administered the first defeat suffered by Norman E. Brooks, of Australia, since his return to this country today, when he defeated him in the fourth round of the invitation tennis tournament at the Meadow club for the Southampton Bowl. The score was 6-1, 4-6, 6-4.

The victory put Snodgrass in the semi-final round. In the only other singles match, Howard Kinsey, of California, vanquished John F. Whitbeck, of Broxdale, N. Y., at 6-2, 6-4. Snodgrass meets Robert Kinsey tomorrow and Howard Kinsey will be opposed by B. I. C. Norton, of St. Louis, in the semi-final round.

CROUSE'S BONER GIVES SENATORS WIN.

Chicago, August 7.—Failure of Clyde Crouse to touch home plate on a force play paved the way to a three-run rally which gave Washington a 6 to 3 victory over Chicago in 10 innings. After Barrett's error had filled the bases with one out Bluege grounded to Barrett, who threw to Crouse. The catcher failed to touch the plate and Rice scored.

COLLEGIANS BUILD NEW COURSE

BY WALTER CAMP.

(Copyright, 1924, for The Constitution.)

New York, August 7.—Yale and Dartmouth students, attracted by opportunity for summer work, have been laboring on the new 18-hole golf course at New Haven, which was made possible for Yale through the generosity of the widow of the late Ray Tompkins.

The tract upon which the course is located has some rock ledges and it is here that the Yale and Dartmouth undergraduates, some 43 of them, have been working under the direction of contractors. Yale golfers this fall will be gladdened by the sight of what already begins to look like a real golf course.

Grid Star Refused.

It seems tough luck that the star quarterback of Carnegie Tech, Robertson, should have been turned down by the West Point authorities because of color-blindness after passing all other requirements.

Evidently all opponents look alike to this stellar product of Walter Steffens' coaching genius, whether blue or red or yellow their jerseys and stockings.

Golf instructors will tell you not to "slug" at the ball. But the only penalty they predict for failure to heed their warning is a topped or missed shot.

But Bert Smith, out in Aurora, Illinois, sufered much more severely, for upon making a mighty swipe at the ball he fell and broke his leg in two places.

TYGERS HOLD MACON.

Macon, Ga., August 7.—Augusta took the opening game of the series from Macon this afternoon 3 to 2. Smythe held the visitors to only five hits, but the errors were responsible for Augusta's runs.

On the other hand the Tygers played errorless ball and the Peaches could gather only two runs on a total of nine hits. A two-base hit by Thomas was the long hit of the game.

CHARLOTTE BEATS SPARTANS.

Charlotte, N. C., August 7.—Charlotte took the opening game from the Spartans today 12 to 8 in a slugfest from start to finish. The two clubs banged out 29 hits in the seven innings, many of them, in fact, practically all of them, were for extra bags. Free passes now and then and an error or two aided matters.

Eichrodt, Kelly and Noone had home runs, while Carlisle and Gardner had two three-baggers each. Neither Berli nor Wright was effective and Wright gave way to Brown in the sixth after two home runs in succession by Eichrodt and Kelly and after the Spartans made four runs with two men down. Brown held them without difficulty until a heavy rain storm stopped it in the eighth, with one out and two Spartans on bases.

ASHEVILLE BEATS GIBSON.

Asheville, N. C., August 7.—After Zinn Beck had tied the score in the first of the eighth with a home run over the right field screen, Ray Moore's hard grounder bounded off Henderson's glove in the last of the eighth, scoring McCrone from third, and Johnson's single to right scored another, giving the Tourists the opening game of the series from the Spinners here today, 6 to 4.

The Spinners got next to Sam Gibson in the second frame for three runs, and Llewellyn pitched invincible ball until the seventh, when the Tourists went one ahead when Leonard connected for the circuit with two men on. Haworth's fluke home run that went through the fence in right field scored the Spinners' three in the second inning.

No Post-Season Series in Florida

Tampa, Fla., August 7.—There will be no post-season series between the Lakeland and St. Petersburg clubs of the Florida State league, President Claire Henley, of the Lakeland club, declared this morning.

A re-check of the records of the Lakeland club last night showed that club had won 28 and lost 13 games, which gives them 16 points the advantage over St. Petersburg, with 30 victories and 15 defeats in the second half. Lakeland won the pennant in the first half.

Negotiations were opened last night between the Lakeland and St. Petersburg clubs for an independent series, but the matter was dropped because of the fact that several of the Lakeland players had secured positions elsewhere and were not available for such a series.

Efforts to learn from President Lang today whether the league players were considered free agents or under contract as long as their salaries had been paid, were unsuccessful, as he could not be located by telephone.

JAP TENNIS PLAYERS DEFEAT CANADIANS

Montreal, August 7.—Japan took a strong lead in the opening day of the second round of the American zone Davis cup tennis contests to determine the right to challenge the United States for the chief honor of the tennis world. The Japanese cracks won both games against the Canadian champions.

Sunao Okamoto defeated Jack Wright, 8-6, 7-5, but Zenzo Shimizu, the Japanese captain, had a much more strenuous task against Willard Crocker, winning by 4-6, 7-5, 6-4, 0-6, 6-1.

—The— Rules of Golf

BY INNIS BROWN.

PLAYING OPPONENT'S BALL.

After the balls have been put in play, a player loses the hole for playing his opponent's ball, unless the opponent then play the player's ball, or unless the mistake be due to misinformation given by the opponent. Application of this rule led to a rather interesting case that was referred to the rules committee. It was this: Suppose while waiting for a match ahead to get out of the way, both players of a match tee up their balls. When the time comes to play, the player having the honor, through mistake plays his opponent's ball. The question was, did this cause the player to lose the hole? The decision was in the negative. It was ruled that a ball put in play on the tee by a player is his ball for the playing of that hole. The opponent of course had the right to tee and play another ball.

Testing Sand Trap.

Knowing that the rules forbid him to touch the sand in a sand trap with his clubhead, a player in a rather prominent tournament last year tried out what he thought was a bit of smart strategy on finding his ball lying in a trap, and as a result brought up a point that was referred for a decision. What the player did was to step away from his ball a club length or more and stick the grip end of his club in the sand to test its consistency. His opponent in the match considered this an infraction of the rules and made a protest. The decision, of course, is that the protest was well-founded. The player had no right to touch the ground in the trap, and his action caused him to lose the hole. Partially, the rule is intended to prevent the player from determining in advance whether the sand is firm, or loose.

If any golf rules puzzle you, write Innis Brown, care of The Constitution sport editor, enclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope. He'll clear them for you.

FOR A BETTER SCORE.

A hurried stroke, which begins from the moment the club is started back, accounts for a very considerable part of the bad golf played, especially when a player is playing under a bit of a strain. It is the easiest thing in the world to start swishing the club back too rapidly. There are two good sound preventives for this trouble. One is to work on the matter of making the left hand do most of the work in starting the club until it becomes habitual. This, of course, requires long and persistent practice. The other is to grip lightly with the right hand. This amounts to about the same as the above, but for those who have never practiced making the left do the work of starting the club, a light grip with the right hand about compels it without further attention.

Standing too close to the ball is not an uncommon fault with high-handicap players in playing long iron shots. As a result, the swing is cramped and berfet of power, so that very poor distance is obtained. Furthermore, it forces the player to bend his arms too much at the elbows, and generally he lifts his club up too abruptly instead of swinging it more around, and he usually makes a chop at the ball, instead of swinging the club. If you are experiencing a feeling of lack of power and are failing to get distance on your iron shots, it may be advisable for you to tee the ball a bit further away.

Burke To Run Macon Peaches

Orlando, Fla., August 7.—Ernie Burke, manager of the Orlando Bulldogs of the Florida State league, is to manage the Macon club of the South Atlantic league for the remainder of the 1924 season and perhaps during 1925, it was announced here today. Burke is reporting to Macon immediately and will be accompanied by Walter Hunter, outfielder of the Orange loop for a number of years, and "Chili" Francis, catcher, who were until today property of the Orlando club. The pair became free lances with the rest of the Florida state league players following the close of the shortened season. Thompson, southpaw hurler, property of the Macon club, who was obtained by Orlando for the 1924 season, is to return to the Georgia club immediately.

Australia Wins From Mexico

Baltimore, Md., August 7.—Once more Australia proved successful in its Davis cup matches. Today on the Baltimore country club courts the team led by Gerald Patterson scored two victories in the singles over the representatives of Mexico.

Pat O'Hara Wood started the Australians on the path to victory in the first match against Ignacio Borbolla. He won in straight sets, 6-3, 6-0, 9-7.

Patterson then took the courts and defeated Manuel Llano, 6-0, 6-1, 6-2. Although Australia needs another win to clinch the match against Mexico, victory seemed certain after today's triumph. The Mexicans were outclassed. The doubles will be played tomorrow.

CRACKERS AND CHICKS DIVIDE DOUBLE-HEADER

Memphis Defeats Atlanta 6 to 0, in First; Loses Second by Score of 6 to 3

Memphis, Tenn., August 7.—(Special.)—The leading Chickasaws gave a full house of fans at Russwood park this afternoon a home victory and a thrill. The victory came when the Chicks defeated the Crackers 6 to 0 in the first game. The thrill came when the Chicks scored three runs and had two runners left on base in the seventh—the last inning—of the second game won by the Atlanta Crackers, 6 to 3.

By winning the first game the Chicks increased their lead over the Crackers to ten games, the biggest lead the Chicks have enjoyed since they occupied first place, on April 28. By halving the double-header the tribe retained their nine lead they had when play started.

Otto Merz, of the Chicks, pitched the prettiest game turned out in Red Elm hollow this season in the first affair. He allowed four singles and not a Cracker put a spike in second base. The only base on ball he issued, and one of the hits, were followed by double plays, and only thirty batters actually faced him in the nine innings. The Chicks batted George Dumont out of the box in the third inning. Up to that time they had scored five runs. They made one run in the six inning off Peter Peterson, late of Rochester, making his local debut as a Cracker.

"Mac" Pitches Well.

Hollis McLaughlin, the veteran Cracker "curver," started out as if he was going to pitch just as brilliant a game in the second as Merz did in the first, but weakened in the seventh. Up to the seventh McLaughlin had allowed but one hit. The Chicks got four hits off McLaughlin in the seventh.

Harry Kelley started for the Chicks and the Crackers started batting for themselves. The Crackers played it "two or nothing" against Kelley and secured four doubles and a pair of singles off him before he was relieved by Kenneth Jones in the third with one on and one out.

The Crackers had scored three off Kelley and scored two more before the inning ended. Jones allowed one run and two hits in the last four innings.

There was a similarity in the Chicks' and Crackers' victories. The Chicks scored five runs in the second and third innings of the first game and the Crackers scored five in the second and third of the second game.

The Chicks scored three runs in the second inning when a pair of wild heaves by Dumont aided them materially. Smith beat out a hit to short. He went to second on a wild pitch. Hillis booted Gleason's grounder and Smith went to third. He scored and Gleason went to second on a wild pitch. Kohlbecker, attempting to sacrifice, placed one between short and third that rolled into left field for a double and Gleason went to third. Anderson popped to Hillis. Merz grounded to Krehmeyer and Gleason scored, when the throw home was high and late. Kohlbecker scored and Lamotte forced Merz, who loafed to second, after Krehmeyer had booted Lamotte's roller and then recovered to get Merz. Barber popped to Brock.

Gleason Scores Couple.

Billy Gleason batted in a pair of runs in the third when he doubled after Prothro had singled. Carlyle walked, Smith sacrificed. Kohlbecker walked and that finished with Dumont. Anderson, first to face Peterson, flied out to left. Anderson singled when he beat out a grounder to Peterson. Merz's sacrifice and Lamotte's double gave the Chicks their other run in the sixth.

Three of the Cracker hits came after two were out. Zoellers singled with one out in the sixth and Hillis hit into a double play, Merz to Lamotte to Anderson. Zoellers walked to start in the ninth but Lamotte took a grounder by Hillis, stepped on second and then doubled Hillis at first.

The Crackers threatened against Kelley in the first inning of the second game and then started in the second inning. Good singled and Krehmeyer sacrificed. Niehoff doubled, scoring Good, and Autrey doubled, scoring Niehoff. McLaughlin struck out and Zoellers flied to left.

Hillis doubled to start the third, but was caught at third when Paschal grounded to Kelley. Paschal stole second and scored when Burrus doubled. Jones took up the task here and was greeted by a double by Good, scoring Burrus.

Krehmeyer grounded out. Niehoff singled to right and Good scored when Yaryan dropped the throw home by Carlyle, after he had tagged Good out. Autrey popped to third.

A base on balls to Krehmeyer, a sacrifice by Niehoff and Autrey's single gave the Crackers their other score in the sixth.

The Chicks threatened but once off McLaughlin before the seventh. Gleason doubled with one out in the fifth, for the first hit off McLaughlin, but Yaryan grounded out and Anderson flied to left.

Like a bolt out of the blue came the Chick rally in the seventh.

Prothro set it off with a single and Carlyle followed with a single, putting him on third. This didn't seem to worry McLaughlin a bit. But when Smith singled on a liner that took a bad bound for Niehoff and Prothro scored, the veteran Cracker appeared a bit perturbed. Gleason went out on a long drive to Good in center. Yaryan walked, filling the bases, and Warmoth went in to run for him. Anderson singled to left, scoring Carlyle. Smith followed home and Warmoth went to third, when Autrey let Paschal's throw get through him and roll to the stand. McLaughlin seemed a bit more perturbed and Peter Peterson, who had started warming up, took on more steam. Barber went in to bat for Jones and popped to Burrus. This seemed to relieved Mr. McLaughlin. Lamotte sent Zoellers far back to the right field for his fly and the next rally of the Chicks was around the showers.

The Chicks and Crackers left tonight for games at Atlanta today and tomorrow.

Coxe May Meet Owens in Finals

Asheville, N. C., August 7.—Tench Coxe, Jr., of Asheville, tomorrow afternoon will meet the winner of the semi-finals match between Frank C. "Hop" Owens, of Atlanta, Ga. and Ernest M. Sheldon, of Detroit, Mich., for the men's singles tennis championship of North Carolina, on the Asheville Country club courts.

Coxe today defeated R. G. Rhett, Jr., of Charleston, S. C., in a spectacular match, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3, while Owens and Sheldon each won his match. Rhett was a second favorite for the cup until Coxe's brilliant generalship smashed through his defense.

Gustav Feuer, Florida's boy tennis star, was eliminated this afternoon by "Hop" Owens in two straight sets, 6-1, 6-3. The Florida boy, although putting up a strong game, lost nerve before the former champion and favorite.

Sheldon won from W. B. Dunlap, of Rock Hill, S. C., today, in straight sets, 6-1, 6-2.

Greb and Flowers Bout Set Aug. 21

The muchly heralded Tiger Flowers-Harry Greb fight, to be held in Fremont, Ohio, will definitely be staged in that City on August 21, according to an announcement made last night by Walk Miller, Flowers' manager.

The fight, originally scheduled for August 14, was called off at first when Greb asked for a postponement of one week before meeting the dusky battler. The Ohio boxing commission decided to grant the request and Greb must meet Flowers on this date.

Flowers will fight in San Antonio on August 12 and leave there for Fremont.

ATLANTANS IN CRASH GIVEN MATCHES

Asheville, N. C., August 7.—Interest in the morning and afternoon rounds of the semi-final round today of the annual Biltmore Forest summer golf tournament will center largely around the effort of T. W. "Tubby" Palmer, of Miami, to come through to another Asheville championship. He will have an opponent worthy of his mettle in Clarence Camp, of Ocala, Fla., who has fought many a hard match over local fairways and greens.

The Miami golfer lost no time in climbing the first rung of the title ladder by disposing of the redoubtable Lyman Beecher in the morning flight by 3 and 2. He found stiffer going in the afternoon round, although his score of 4 and 3 might indicate otherwise. M. S. Popham, of Charleston, S. C., barred the way to an afternoon triumph. The Miamian ran down an eagle three on the 425-yard second hole, but the Palmetto state player squared the match on the third and stood 2 up at the turn. After Popham's eagle three on the difficult thirteenth, "Tubby" rallied and easily overcame his opponent's lead. Jack Heath, of Charlotte, will appear in the final round on Saturday if he can conquer F. C. Ford, of Charleston. Ford won from George Hancock, of Hickory, this afternoon by 4 and 3.

Chance played a singular trick in the outcome of two fourth flight matches this afternoon. Dan Kilcrease and John F. Satterlee, both of Atlanta, were motoring from Skyland to Biltmore Forest for their second round matches when their car collided with an Asheville-Hendersonville touring line car. Kilcrease was taken to the Biltmore hospital, where three stitches were taken in his upper lip. Satterlee, who received minor scratches and would not desert his friend until he had been taken care of, was over an hour late when he arrived at the clubhouse. E. F. Mayberry, of Charleston, S. C., courteously defaulted to the Georgian when he learned the circumstances of the case. Kilcrease, although he did not go near the golf links, learned that his opponent in the sixth consolation, M. Simond, had left the city, so that he also won his match by default.

Favorites Survive 2nd Round of Western Meet

Chicago, August 7.—While boating parties enjoyed themselves on the lake formed in the middle of the Onwentsia links by the overflow waters from Skokie creek, contestants in the women's western golf championship journeyed to the higher grounds of Shore Acres Country club and fought out the second match rounds, reducing the field to eight players.

Most of the favorites survived, including Miriam Burns, of Kansas City, who is defending her title, and Edith Cummings, of Chicago, national champion. Another former champion fell by the wayside today when Mrs. F. C. Letts, of Chicago, was eliminated by Dorothy Klotz in 19 holes, and the only surviving title-holder tonight is Mrs. Dave Gaut, of Memphis, who handily defeated Catherine Walsh, of Grand Beach, Mich., 5 and 4.

The other regional champions who outlived the second round were Mrs. H. D. Sterrett, of Hutchinson, Kansas, who defeated Mrs. J. W. Taylor, of Chicago, 1 up, and Mrs. Stewart Hanley, of Detroit, who eliminated Dorothy Higbee, of Chicago, 2 up. The Ohio champion, Louise Fordyce, although she played fine golf, under the trying circumstances, was put out of the running by Mrs. Lee Mida, of Chicago, 3 and 1, and the Wisconsin champion, Bernice Wall, of Oshkosh, after making a good fight for 9 holes, finally yielded to Virginia Wilson, of Chicago, 4 and 3.

In the third round tomorrow, which also will be played at Shore Acres, Miss Burns will play Miss Wilson and Miss Klotz will play Mrs. Sterrett in the upper bracket while in the lower half of the draw Miss Cummings will meet Mrs. Gaut and Mrs. Mida will measure mashies with Mrs. Hanley.

In the match between Miss Burns and Virginia Pep, of St. Louis, the present title-holder shot the best golf of the day, requiring only 41 strokes for the first nine, three under par, and being one under par for the six holes played on the second nine.

Mrs. Gaut started poorly in her match with Miss Walsh, dubbing every shot on the first hole and taking 8, but she squared the contest on the second hole with a par five, and became one up when she won the fourth hole with a mediocre six, Miss Walsh getting into trouble. Two birdies in a row gave the southern contender a lead of three up and par on the 7th made her four up. They halved the next two holes in perfect figures, Miss Gaut going out in 45, only two over par in spite of her 8 on the first hole. The Memphis star skipped again on the 10th hole, but with a string of four fours, finished the match on the fourteenth green 5 and 4.

Crackers Open Long Home Stay With Chicks Here Today

Nine games behind the league-leading Memphis Chicks, the Crackers will open a two-game series with the Tennessee outfit at Spiller's field this afternoon.

The contest today will also be the first of the longest home stay enjoyed by the Crackers this season, a feature that slightly favors the locals in their fight to overtake the Chicks. The Crackers will play on home soil until August 30 with the exception of Sunday games. They will journey to Chattanooga for one game this coming Sunday, but will be back in Atlanta bright and early Monday morning.

The locals have been on a road trip of thirteen games and come back with one more game won than lost on the invasion. The locals have won seven and lost six.

The locals broke even on series won and lost. The Vols were defeated the best two out of three, but the lowly Chattanooga Lookouts gave the locals a nice licking in a four-game series. The count was three and one. The Travelers were taken into camp with three games to the Crackers' credit, but the Chicks won two of three played there.

Including the series with the Chicks, starting today, the locals have five more games with the leaders. They will return on August 19, 20 and 21 for three more games.

During the long home stay the locals will play every team in the circuit with the exception of New Orleans and Chattanooga. The Pels have played the eleven games scheduled in this city, while Chattanooga will be the only team to appear here during September and will close the season for the Atlanta fans.

The Cracker lineup will be the same as when the team embarked on the road several days ago, with the exception of Red Smith, who is out with a broken finger. Just when he will be back in the lineup is not known.

Ray Francis, who had the most successful road trip of the pitching staff, will probably oppose the Chicks in the opening contest today.

Atlanta Golfers Qualify in Meet

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., August 7.—A. C. Ogburn, with a score of 77, was low man in the qualifying round of the Greenbrier summer golf championship here today. Because of ill health he will not be able to play through the tournament, so this will make Joseph W. Bailey, Jr., Washington, who followed with a score of 83, the medalist.

The draw for the first round of match play tomorrow follows: Championship flight—J. L. Lillenthal, New York, will play W. S. Penick; J. W. Grant, Jr., and R. M. Craig; S. B. Appleby and George Kahlo; R. H. Bewick and Joseph W. Bailey, Jr.; E. J. Kilduff and T. Jeffrey; M. Morgan, New York, and Kent Darling; E. D. Hotchkiss, Jr., Richmond, and W. P. May; W. H. Close, New York, and Thomas B. Paine, Atlanta.

Second flight—Dr. Douglas Vanderhoof and T. G. Janney; H. H. Hoffman and John Collins; Mr. Rankin and E. Roberts; M. Lankford and C. N. McDonald.

Elks, C. of C. Plan Benefit

BY M. D. GLEASON.

The Elks' baseball club will play the Junior Chamber of Commerce team at Spiller's park Labor day.

This game will be played for the benefit of the Elks' Christmas stocking fund and with the united efforts of both organizations it is expected that this will be the biggest benefit game ever played here.

When the Elks played the Federal Prison club last year they raised some $1,500, all of which went to make several hundred children feel that old Santa Claus was very much around here Christmas week.

Barney Bernard, who is chairman of the Elks' ball committee, which arranged the game with Junior Chamber of Commerce, told the Juniors to put up the strongest ball team they can. For the Elks, Jim La Fitte promised to put a big league outfit in the field.

SIMPSON IN FINALS OF TOURNEY

Birmingham, Ala., August 7.—Dan Murray of New Orleans, inter-collegiate tennis singles champion of the south, ranked as favorite for the Cotton States title as a result of his sensational victory today over Jack Mooney of Atlanta. The score was 3-6, 9-7, 6-0, 6-3.

L. A. Brookes, local star, was eliminated by Jack Simpson, of Atlanta, in the other singles semi-final, 4-6, 6-2, 6-3, 6-3.

Murray meets Simpson tomorrow at 2:30 o'clock.

Murray's fine condition and stronger physique played a large part in his victory. He was clearly outclassed in the first set, Murray's generalship being very brilliant. However, he outlasted the frail Atlantan and finally overthrew him.

William Bartlett and William Warren went through to the semi-finals when they defeated the local youngsters, Charles Allison and Drayton Nabers, 6-3, 6-4, after a hard fight. Both pairs are from Birmingham.

Mooney and Simpson had little trouble defeating W. S. McWane and Hewitt Smith in the other doubles match of the day, 6-3, 6-4.

Former Open Champ Shoots Course With Par 72 in 65 To Beat 67 He Made in '23

Newnan, Ga., August 7.—(Special.) Bobby Jones, of Atlanta, former national open golf champion, smashed the course record of the Newnan Country club today while playing in a foursome with Perry Adair, former southern amateur champion; Tess Bradshaw, of Atlanta, and Chick Ridley, also of Atlanta, and Georgia state champion.

Jones made the first nine holes in 34, the same score he made last year when he broke the course record, and the last nine holes in 31, which is five strokes below par for the distance. His total score was 65, which is seven strokes below par 72 for the course.

Last year Jones played the Newnan course in 67, which was the course record until his game today, which lowered this record by two strokes.

Adair, Ridley and Bradshaw all played splendid golf, making the course near par.

Makes Three Birdies.

The first round Bobby made three birdies, playing the remaining holes in par. The feature of this round was his long drive on the third hole. He drove the ball for 355 yards to within seven yards of the cup.

Many golfers from Atlanta and other sections of the state who had journeyed to Newnan to see this match, said that Bobby played the best golf on the second nine holes of the match that they had ever seen him play.

The first six holes on this round he played in par. The sixteenth he made in two. Par for this hole is three. The seventeenth he made in par four, and the eighteenth, which is the longest hole of the course, 517 yards, he made in an eagle three.

Off on Putting.

Bobby's putting for the first nine holes was not as good as it was last year when he played the course, but had he been as good in this department of the game as he was otherwise there is no telling how low his total score would have been.

A large gallery was present and several golfers from Atlanta, including Veazy Rainwater and Tom Prescott, played in foursomes.

Here is Bobby's card:

Bobby, out .... 343 444 354—34

Bobby, in .... 434 434 243—31—65

Firpo Bans Deadlier Sex At Saratoga Training Camp

White Sulphur Springs, Saratoga Lake, N. Y., August 7.—The society colony surrounding Luis Angelo Firpo's slab-sided summer villa on the shores of Saratoga lake was greatly excited Thursday over the revelation that Senor Firpo has imposed a regime of compulsory morality on the entire personnel of his camp.

Although Senor Firpo himself was recently involved in an immigration tangle at Ellis Island because of his association with Senorita Blanca Lourdes, a Cuban young woman, he has warned his staff that any one of them seen in public with any member of the deadlier sex will be detached from the pay-roll and ration roster and freighted back to Buenos Aires.

Mr. One-Eyed Connelly, the international gate-crasher, who claims to be a great moral leader himself, was shocked but gratified to hear about Luis Angelo's decision.

"I am indeed glad to hear that Senor Firpo has put the n. g. on the dames," Mr. Connelly said in an official statement. "The place for dames is at the washtub, and a training camp is no laundry."

Not Extravagant.

The rather garish young women residing in some of the cottages around the lake where denizens of the Saratoga race track are wont to visit at night probably will take the Firpo order with equanimity. The entertainment in these cottages consists largely of buying beer, and the Firpo retinue has never been notorious for its reckless extravagance.

Firpo himself has been going about wearing a moral sunbonnet since his admittance to the country. Two young women, by no means unpleasant to the masculine eye, called at the camp in a limousine and trailed him about for an hour, requesting permission to have their picture taken with him and endeavoring by more subtle wiles to break through his disinterest. Firpo, however, was distinctly courteous, suspecting perhaps that a big moral agency which is opposing the prize-fight business had sent them with instructions to lure him into a compromising situation, which could be exploited in the campaign to prevent the Wills-Firpo bout.

Suggestions that Luis Angelo is jealous and that this was the reason for demanding that all his employees abjure feminine companionship even on the hotel verandas in the day time, were not taken seriously by Mr. Connelly.

"It is not hard for me to believe that Mr. Firpo is moral," Mr. Connelly said. "I am a moral fellow myself and have always suspected that there must be two or three others like me in the world. I think Firpo is one of them. I am still looking for the others."

Luis Angelo raised the canvas wall around the training camp Thursday in preparation for the collection of gate receipts for his training exhibitions. Miguel Ferrara, who has a fine set of teeth, has been appointed to attend the admission gate and bite all four-bit pieces to detect counterfeits.

Bill Tate, the olive-drab negro heavyweight, arrived in camp C. O. D. and accepted employment as Firpo's sparring partner, which was taken to mean that Tate was just about broke.

"What time are meals?" Tate asked.

There was a riot in the beaneries of this county when Firpo announced that he was going on a training diet and would eat raw eggs. The hens, expecting to be grievously overworked, are demanding overtime pay.

The Lowbrow.

By Wallace M. Bayliss.

The lowbrow came, with rakish car,
And whisked the maiden off afar,
Sans chaperon, for he, as yet,
Had read no books on etiquette.

Before they knew it, midnight came,
And then this "bozo" took his "dame"
Into a white-tiled eating place
And told the girl to "feed her face."

For talking he would ne'er get hung—
He let his arm work for his tongue;
But what few words he used were wise,
Like "Girl, you're easy on the eyes."

A wee bit crumpled, to her door,
The maid returned at half-past four,
And as she tip-toed up the walk
She murmured, "How that man can talk!"

Although they swear they think it's rough,
How girls do love this low-brow stuff!

A Midnight Thriller.

In the deathly, silent, depths of night I awoke, made fully conscious by a call that was as vague as it was impelling.

Quietly I slipped from my bed, fearful lest I disturb my wife. No need to alarm her, poor, tired woman that she was.

I descended the stairs, slowly and softly, my heart in my mouth lest a board creak and shriek out my presence. To the end of the steps, through another door, I felt my uncertain way. At last I stood before a box, a case wherein lay the most valuable of plate. I knelt, I fumbled with the knobs, I reached in.

Thank heaven! It was still there! I just knew that the cold pork hadn't all been eaten.

"Can I interest you in the subject of accident insurance?"

"Go away. I'm carrying so much accident insurance now that it makes me jealous every time I hear of anybody being injured."

Triumph of Matter Over Mind.

Lady: "What's the matter, sonny, what are you crying about?"

Bobby: "M-m-my mother spanked me."

Lady: "Well, never mind."

Bobby: "Gee, that's what I got spanked for."

White Fang

BY JACK LONDON

In that moment White Fang was in upon him and out, in passing ripping his trimmed remnant of an ear. With a slight manifestation of anger, Cherokee took up the pursuit again, running on the inside of the circle White Fang was making, and striving to fasten his deadly grip on White Fang's throat. The bulldog missed by a hair's-breath, and cries of praise went up as White Fang doubled suddenly out of danger in the opposite direction.

The time went by. White Fang still danced on, dodging and doubling, leaping in and out, and ever inflicting damage. And still the bulldog, with grim certitude, toiled after him. Sooner or later he would accomplish his purpose, get the grip that would win the battle. In the meantime he accepted all the punishment the other could deal him. His tufts of ears had become tassels, his neck and shoulders were slashed in a score of places, and his very lips were cut and bleeding—all from those lightning snaps that were beyond his foreseeing and guarding.

Time and again White Fang had attempted to knock Cherokee off his feet; but the difference in their height was too great. Cherokee was too squat, too close to the ground. White Fang tried the trick once too often. The chance came in one of his quick doublings and countercirclings. He caught Cherokee with his head turned away as he whirled more slowly. His shoulder was exposed. White Fang drove in upon it; but his own shoulder was high above while he struck with such force that his momentum carried him on across over the other's body. For the first time in his fighting history, men saw White Fang lose his footing. His body turned a half-somersault in the air, and he would have landed on his back had he not twisted, catlike, still in the air, in the effort to bring his feet to the earth. As it was, he struck heavily on his side. The next instant he was on his feet, but in that instant Cherokee's teeth closed on his throat.

It was not a good grip, being too low down toward the chest, but Cherokee held on. White Fang sprang to his feet and tore wildly around, trying to shake off the bulldog's body. It made him frantic, this clinging, dragging weight. It bound his movements, restricted his freedom. It was like the trap, and all his instinct resented it and revolted against it. It was a mad revolt. For several minutes he was too all intents insane. The basic life that was in him took charge of him. The will to exist of his body surged over him. He was dominated by this mere flesh-love of life. All intelligence was gone. It was as though he had no brain. His reason was unseated by the blind yearning of the flesh to exist and move, at all hazards to move, to continue to move, for movement was the expression of its existence.

Round and round he went, whirling and turning and reversing, trying to shake off the fifty-pound weight that dragged at his throat. The bulldog did little but keep his grip. Sometimes, and rarely, he managed to get his feet to the earth and for a moment to brace himself against White Fang. But the next moment his footing would be lost and he would be dragging around in the whirl of one of White Fang's mad gyrations. Cherokee identified himself with his instinct. He knew that he was doing the right thing by holding on, and there came to him certain blissful thrills of satisfaction. At such moments he even closed his eyes and allowed his body to be hurled hither and thither, willy-nilly careless of any hurt that might thereby come to it. That did not count. The grip was the thing, and the grip he kept.

White Fang ceased only when he had tired himself out. He could do nothing, and he could not understand. Never, in all his fighting, had this thing happened. The dogs he had fought with did not fight that way. With them it was snap and slash and get away, snap and slash and get away. He lay partly on his side, panting for breath. Cherokee, still holding his grip, surged against him, trying to get him over entirely on his side. White Fang resisted, and he could feel the jaws shifting their grip, slightly relaxing and coming together again in a chewing movement. Each shift brought the grip closer in to his throat. The bulldog's method was to hold what he had, and when opportunity favored to work in for more. Opportunity favored when White Fang remained quiet. When White Fang struggled, Cherokee was content merely to hold on.

Mrs. Toler Attends Convention Of Women's Overseas League

Mrs. John Toler, who was one of the leaders attending the national convention of the Women's Overseas Service league held in San Francisco in July, and was formerly national vice president of the organization.

Atlanta was represented in San Francisco at the national conclave of the Women's Overseas Service Legion from July 14 to 17 by Mrs. John Toler, formerly vice president of the national organization, and Miss Marion Van Dyke. Mrs. Toler and Miss Van Dyke joined the national president, Miss Louise Wells, of Chicago, en route, a private car conveying the party from Kansas City to San Francisco.

Miss Louise Wells declared at the opening of the convention:

"The past year has been one of steady advancement in breadth of vision, in courage and in public recognition. Five units have been added to our roster and contacts made in many other localities.

Recognition Large.

"Recognition has been accorded to us out of all proportion to the size of our membership. This can not only be explained by our unique character as women veterans, but the character of the service which we are now rendering, and by the fact that we have demonstrated our spirit to be one not of self-seeking but of self-giving."

"Whenever I am in command of a citizens' training camp, I shall want an overseas woman to serve as hostess, because they understand." That was the message sent to the convention by Miss Blanche Wenner, at present serving as hostess at the California Citizen's Military Training camp at Monterey and a member of the organization. A message to the convention from General Pershing was read.

The work among the disabled ex-service women, which has been particularly stressed by the San Francisco unit and which has been under the direction of Mrs. Eugene K. Sturgis, of Berkeley, as chairman of the committee, has consisted largely of investigation.

Women in Need.

By means of a general questionnaire circulated throughout the country among the women who served in welfare organizations and are not entitled to hospitalization and medical service under government institutions, 240 women who wore uniforms in foreign lands are in immediate need of aid, it was reported. Of that number fifty have dependents. The figures were based upon replies from less than one-sixth of the queries.

By unanimous assent, the league pledged its units to a suffrage policy which would bring a realization of the duty of citizenhip and a 100 per cent registration at the polls for each election.

Following the convention Mrs. Toler and a group of delegates toured the Canadian Rockies, visiting Vancouver, Banff and Lake Louise. Mrs. Toler will visit Miss Louise Wells in Chicago on the return trip, spending a week as the feted guest of this Chicago society leader, and reaching Atlanta again the middle of August.

Bridge-Tea Given By Miss McGinty.

Miss Eleanor McGinty entertained at a bridge-tea Thursday afternoon at her home on Juniper street in compliment to Miss Breitenbucher and her guests, Miss Mary Lee Lamar and Miss Mamie Jones.

Miss McGinty received her guests wearing gray Georgette crepe.

Atlanta Federation To Gather In Honor of Miss Nannie Davis

"The missionary of the mountains," Miss Nannie Davis, principal of the Tallulah Falls school and mother of every family she comes in contact with in the Habersham hills, will be the guest of Atlanta Friday, at which time she is to tell the women of the city what her school has done and what it hopes to do when they have given her the money necessary to meet its needs.

Miss Davis will be the honor guest at a luncheon at the Biltmore hotel at 1 o'clock Friday—a luncheon to which all clubwomen of the city have been invited. It will be a subscription luncheon and reservations must be made by Friday morning. Mrs. W. B. Price-Smith or Mrs. Arthur Scott will make arrangements for those who wish to attend.

Besides the luncheon which looms as one of the principal social gatherings of the week there will be an exhibit of crafts and arts, the products of the children of the little "Light of the Mountain" school in Tallulah Falls. These products will be sold later to help swell the fund that is being raised in this city.

The following Atlanta women will serve on the luncheon committee: Mrs. W. B. Price-Smith, chairman; Mrs. Alfred Newell, Mrs. Robert Maddox, Mrs. Frances Block, Mrs. James Austin, Mrs. J. Bomar White, Mrs. W. A. Parker, Mrs. S. T. Maddox, Mrs. W. F. Dykes, Mrs. G. H. Brandon, Mrs. E. M. Helbig and Mrs. Arthur Scott.

More Than a Principal.

Miss Davis, the school's principal, has been at the mountain school for eight of the fifteen years of its existence. In that time she has been more than a teacher. She has been a mother to the girls and boys who come under her care. The families of the mountain began to look to her for guidance. She was a ministering angel through the hills. She watched over the sick and the dying, she gave comfort to the sorrowing, she made of her life on the mountains something that nothing can efface.

And she, imbued with the spirit of the school, a spirit that caused a mountain school of a few pupils and a tumble-down house grow into a real school with more than 100 pupils within fifteen years, and all without the aid of a center other than that supplied by the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, is going to tell of that school.

The Greater Tallulah campaign by which the trustees of the school hope to raise $20,000 in Atlanta in one week has been planned, and will be opened Monday under the direction of Mrs. T. T. Stevens, president of the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs and a staff of advisers and helpers.

Man's achievements need no longer be fashioned by hit-or-miss luck, which always carries with it the dispiriting quality of intermittency, for mental, physical and spiritual health is a possible attainment for every human being."

SAVANNAH IS CHOSEN FOR 1924 STATE FAIR

Griffin, Ga., August 7.—Meeting today in joint session, the Georgia State Agricultural society and the State Horticultural society considered a number of subjects, elected officers, chose Savannah as the site for the state fair this fall, in place of Macon, and closed the sessions late this afternoon.

Judge Peter Meldrim, of Savannah, was elected president of the agricultural organization, and George Gilmore, of Warren, was chosen as vice president. The horticultural body deferred its election until later, it was announced.

Resolutions of appreciation for the work done by various branches of horticultural and agricultural bodies throughout the state were adopted during the early hours of today's meeting.

Senator George Speaks.

A large number of delegates are in attendance, and the visitors were entertained by a number of social affairs.

The south "is headed toward an industrial expansion hitherto undreamed of," Senator Walter F. George, predicted in an address before a joint session today.

"The great mountain region, 150 miles wide, stretching down through Virginia, the Carolinas, into Georgia and Alabama; and that other territory, running through Missouri, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas to the Mexican border," he added, "is destined to become the industrial center not only of America, but of the world."

Choosing as the theme of his address the general condition of the farmer, Senator George declared that the government "must and can lead the way" to legislative relief to the grower, and that the remedy "is not so much to equalize the farm and farm values upward as it is to equalize general production cost and distribution cost downward."

Campbell Speaks.

Another thing rising as a barrier to the relief of the farmer, the senator told his audience, was the high tariff. "The tariff rates—the highest in the whole history of the government," he said, "must be readjusted and reduced. The mounting cost of government makes a free-trade policy impossible."

The agricultural outlook is more hopeful than it has been for years and with conditions as they are today one could be in no other than a happy frame of mind, J. Phil Campbell declared in a paper prepared for delivery.

"Three-fourths of the Georgia farmers are fighting the boll weevil with poison, and two-thirds of them are making an absolute success," Mr. Campbell pointed out in his discussion of "The Agricultural Outlook for Georgia."

"Farmers have adopted a sane program," he said. "Cotton now has its place in balanced farming. Only about one-third of the acreage is being devoted to this crop. We are probably growing too much of the acreage in corn and not giving quite enough attention to seed selection and better fertilization of the corn crop. Our peanut, tobacco, sweet potato and melon acreages are pretty well balanced in the program as a whole."

SLAMS AND SALAAMS

By Louise Dooly

"MY HUSBAND wants to buy a summer home in the mountains," remarked a busy woman in the verandah group. They were shopping early for Christmas by making pretty bags of gay wool garlanded with embroidered flowers; or scarfs or baby blankets or any of the novelties which ornament a woman's leisure and contribute as gifts to somebody's service.

(See how we have taken to heart "Constant Reader's" reprimand of last week!)

"My husband wants a summer home, but I put my foot down hard on any such suggestion. I have seen too much of what it means in the experience of my friends who find out very soon that a summer home at a resort is not a home but a free boarding house for the wife's relatives, the husband's relatives and the friends of both."

"My sentiments exactly," chimed in another. Me for a hotel when I leave town housekeeping. There is nobody that enjoys entertaining more than I do, but I like to choose the time and the guests. When I'm vacationing, the main idea is to get away from the routine of the rest of the year."

There was a chorus of agreement, and these followed tales of people even in city homes who have had to give up their homes and go to hotels to get a surcease from continuous streams of visitors. These are usually relatives who calmly write that they "will be in town for such and such a time and hope it will be convenient to stay with you. Tom and I and the children are so eager to see you and John and all the family," says the letter that is the shadow before the coming event.

"My relatives don't even take the trouble to write," said one woman. "They just drive up and walk in."

OWNING ONE'S OWN HOME.

THERE was one in the group who was silent until somebody addressed her directly.

"You have a summer cottage? Don't you find it an awful burden to be always having guests?"

"I don't find it so, and I have guests only when I want them," was the quiet answer.

"How do you manage it?"

"It's very simple. I consider that the privacy of my home is as much my property as the furniture in it, to be used or not as only my husband and I see fit.

"When I feel like having guests or feel that obligation calls for it, I invite the guests, even if they are my own or my husband's sisters, for a certain date and a certain time. If another date suits them better they tell me so, and if possible I change the time to accommodate them. If my servants fail me I wire them not to come. I am sure it would spoil their pleasure to see me on my vacation doing the work of missing servants, and certainly I should not wish that they should have to wait on themselves."

"But suppose they walk in on you?"

"They don't. They have learned better.

"My husband and I, when we visit their cities, go to a hotel and then see as much as is convenient and pleasant of the relatives, but we don't put up on them. All our relatives are fortunately quite as able from a financial point of view to do the same thing.

"When they write the first time to invite themselves to visit us, and it is not convenient to us, I tell them so and say that I shall be glad to make arrangements for them at a hotel.

"THEN when they come I give them a nice party—a dinner perhaps, with a particularly pretty centerpiece and much fol de rol as to decoration and food, and I invite somebody to meet them.

"They are much more flattered than if we merely allowed ourselves to be used as a kind of glorified roadhouse with the bill made complimentary.

"And they think a lot more of us than if I let them come when I was short of servants and looked hot and flustered with my husband ditto, because I must exert myself in the heat."

Some of the women raised their eyebrows and looked skeptical.

"My relatives would be hopelessly offended," said one, but—

"I think Mrs. Blank is perfectly right," said another. "It's really a matter of a woman's right to her own integrity. If she has got to break herself up to suit everybody's convenience what is left of her dignity as an individual? Mrs. Blank's attitude has strengthened my own backbone. Hereafter only royalty shall dictate to me whom I shall entertain."

"Why, has Lord Renfrew signified his intention of visiting you in your lodge in the mountains when he comes over for the tennis meet?" somebody bantered, and the discussion lost its seriousness.

WHY IS SPICA?

"DEAR MADAM: In a recent dissertation on the summer heavens at night, you wrote with alarming familiarity of Jupiter and Saturn and Venus and Mars and Antares, etc., about which notables the last time we looked at the star together you knew everything else but.

"Now I am making a map of the summer heavens with the aid of your outline" (really this is too flattering), "but I'm a bit confused on one point which leaves an awful gap in my calculations. It's too hot to consult a recognized authority (?) so, of your now profound knowledge of the heavens, will you kindly tell me is Spica a star or a mountain?"

(From the pinnacle of our astronomical erudition we are glad to call down to the inquirer: Spica is not a mountain).

SEE WHO'S HERE!

AND now Alexander Black philosophizes on "The Young Person."

Are there not signs, he questions in Harper's Magazine, that youth itself is beginning to find that there were things to recommend even its Victorian predecessor?

Reminiscing of post-war days, he says concerning Freudian "escapes" from old "deceits" like clothes:

"We were reminded that sensuality came in with clothes. The spiritual parallels are equally tenable. If inhibitions make for hypocrisy, and we hate hypocrisy, why have inhibitions? If complexes make trouble, why generate complexes in the sensitive years by saying 'Don't?' Nothing could be easier than such a plan of escape.

"However, there is something wrong with the plan . . . The thing it leaves out is the thing the hustling American business man most insistently looks for in his business: it leaves out the vital element of results."

"Of itself," says Mr. Black, "a lowered temperature is no proof of returning wisdom . . . But soon or late every excursionist into delirium must return to the real things—to beauty, babies, character and other fundamentals. I suspect that youth, like age, is capable of discovering that the North Star is quite where it used to be."

To return to "results." "The flapper herself, it is being indicated, found out that flapperism didn't pay. This is not to endow her with any special sagacity—I mean that in the end she felt the pressure which is the definite regulator of human conduct—the social pressure which has so many ways of making itself felt, in the schoolyard as in a jailyard, in a ballroom or a legislature."

Why certain conduct does not get desired results, youth does not philosophize about, but if there is no response, or when there is apathy or disgust, then the game palls.

In other words, youth shows a tendency even to a return to "hypocrisy" if that is necessary to get results.

In the flapper's case, says Mr. Black, "ordinary feminine shrewdness was bound to tell her after awhile that the lure had faded, that she might be picturesque, that she might be a good diversion, but that she had begun to look like a poor investment.

"Who can predict," he concludes, "that the flapper's successor may not find high satisfaction in the sheer art of being a young girl?"

OVERHEARD ON THE VERANDAH.

"WE are such old friends, my dear, I feel I can ask you: is that beautiful color of yours natural?" said one woman to another.

"Does it look natural?"

"My dear, it's perfect."

"Then why ask, sweetheart? If I told you I do not use rouge, you, being a woman, albeit a friend, would not believe me.

"If I told you I do rouge, I should destroy for you any possibility of an illusion on the subject. Which would not be the part of a friend. Illusions are too rare to risk. Keep all you can."

TRAFFIC IS HALTED BY FIERCE FIGHT OF BRIDGE TENDERS

Miami, Fla., August 7.—Trafic was tied up for more than an hour yesterday while two aged bridge tenders, J. A. McCrory and J. S. Marshall, on a bridge swung in mid-stream at Musa Isle, on the Miami canal, fought, one armed with an old shotgun and the other with an ax, over the question of the respective merits of the democratic and republican parties and the probable outcome of the November general election.

McCrory, a southerner and naturally a democrat opposed Marshall, who came to this section three years ago from Iowa, a rock-ribbed republican state, for his health. The two men have been living in a house near the bridge and were boon companions until the incident. Sheriff Louis A. Allen, summoned to the scene, found the two men glaring at each other and disarmed them. Marshall, who is a helper, then went back to the bridge while McCrory went into the house, declaring that Marshall could no longer live there because of his sentiments.

FORT MEADE JEWELER SUCCUMBS TO WOUNDS

Lakeland, Fla., August 7.—J. I. Walsh, Fort Meade jeweler, died in the hospital here at 4 o'clock this morning from pistol wounds received Sunday night when he and his employer, H. T. Middlebrook, were attacked by three unknown men in a rear room of Middlebrook's store.

When news of the wounded man's death reached Polk county authorities they declared they would redouble their efforts to apprehend the three men who, without warning or explanation, shot Walsh and Middlebrook. Middlebrook, who suffered only a slight shoulder wound, was able to be out of bed today.

Relatives of Walsh in Bridgeport, Conn., his former home, were notified this morning of his death. It is expected that the body will be shipped to Connecticut for burial. Walsh has no relatives in Florida except his wife, who is now living in Bartow and who has been suing him for divorce. Walsh came to Florida seven years ago and worked five years in Bartow before going to Fort Meade.

BY MILDRED BARBOUR

A Chance for Recovery.

The ensuing week was an agony of waiting to Marjorie.

Suppose when the great French surgeon arrived, he found Hollister's case hopeless, she thought? Would he live through the cruel disappointment? Wouldn't this hope, if it proved false, plunge him further into the black abyss from which he had only just begun to crawl upward?

Suppose they did operate—and he died?

She shut her eyes and prayed, though she knew, instinctively, that Hollister would far rather be dead than keep on living as he was.

They didn't talk about the forthcoming visit of the great surgeon at all, she and Hollister. He was very gay, but talked about impersonal things. She divined that his gayety was only a blind, a courageous attempt to keep others from learning his hopes and fears.

She did not guess that he was torn by two great overwhelming emotions. One was the passionate hope that he could be cured. The other was the black certainty that his cure would mean the loss of Marjorie's companionship.

If he was cured, able to face the world once more on his two feet, to step into the place of power which he had been forced to abandon, her duty would be done. She could go back then to the bright world from which she had come to comfort him. He would lose the Heaven he had lived in for the past months.

But, after all, he had had no right to keep her there, he told himself. He wouldn't have let her stay into another winter. He would have sent her back to the life her youth and beauty demanded, though it cost him his heart's blood.

The day came at last when the great French surgeon arrived in Selwyn's car with two New York physicians accompanying him. One of the latter was Dr. Maynard, the surgeon who had attended Hollister at the time of his accident the year before.

He exhibited no surprise at finding Marjorie there.

Hollister was smiling, but rather white, when she ushered the visitors into his room. His dark eyes were so passionately hopeful that she went back to the veranda, feeling her way through her tears.

The lawyer was waiting there. He put her in a chair and talked to her impersonally about affairs in town. Occasionally, when her glance wandered off over the pine-clad slopes of the valley, he looked at her sharply, speculatively. But apparently he got no answer to his unspoken question.

Dr. Maynard came out finally and joined them. He was smiling.

"There is hope. Dr. Marquette will operate."

"Oh!" breathed Marjorie thankfully, and then: "Will it be—dangerous?"

"All operations of such a nature are dangerous, Mrs. Hollister," the doctor replied truthfully, "we can only do the best that our skill permits. Dr. Marquette has been phenomenally successful. We have that to comfort us."

When the great surgeon and his associates had gone back to town to prepare for the forthcoming operation, Marjorie went in to Hollister.

He was sitting staring straight before him, his eyes alight with a great hope.

She went to him hesitantly, dropped suddenly on her knees beside his chair, and laid both her hands on his.

"Oh, Reed, aren't you happy?" she breathed.

For answer, he lifted her fingers to his lips, the first semblance of a caress he had ever dared since she had come to him.

"I am very grateful," he said, "and humble, too, for this chance is vouchsafed to few. Do you know what I am going to do, if—if things turn out all right? I am going to give all my effort, all the financial aid I can afford, to the curing of those unfortunate cripples who have no resources of their own. If Dr. Marquette, or some other great surgeon, will undertake the work of a wholesale clinic, I will assure it the necessary financial support."

"How splendid!" she murmured, and then, after a moment: "When—when is this operation of yours to take place?"

"Day after tomorrow—here."

"Here?" she echoed in surprise. "I thought they would want to take you to town."

He shook his head, smiling slightly. "I'm glad it is to be here. If—if—things go wrong, I'd rather—well, this is the finest place in the world to live in—I rather think it would be the best to die in."

"Don't!" she cried sharply. "Don't dare talk like that!"

He smiled a little whimsically, then he looked up at her suddenly.

"Would you care?" he asked quickly; then, before she could stammer a reply, he added, "Don't answer that, please! It wasn't a fair question. I have contempt for a sick person who tries to play on other people's sympathies."

On the following day, Marjorie received a telegram that infuriated her. (Copyright, 1924, for The Constitution.)

Vocational Students Produce Big Crops And Enrich State

Athens, Ga., August 7.—Vocational agricultural students in Georgia High schools enriched the state more than $200,000 this year by yield of farm products on projects they have worked, Paul W. Chapman, state supervisor, announces.

Teachers of vocational agriculture are attending a week's conference at the State College of Agriculture and today accepted an invitation of the Georgia State exposition at Macon to make an exhibit of products produced by vocational boys in connection with their high school courses, and to hold a state crop-judging and plant-identification contest at the Macon fair next October. The Georgia exposition offers $300 in prizes.

Plans for community fairs were discussed by W. H. Sorrels, of Bibb county; J. K. Callahan, Wrens; M. D. Mobley, Winterville; H. E. Woodruff, Braselton; D. D. Still, Monticello; H. L. Fry, Reed Creek, and many others, who have conducted successful community and county fairs. The session on Thursday afternoon was devoted to reporting outstanding work conducted by teachers last year.

An example of the service that high school teachers of vocational agriculture are rendering their communities in addition to giving systematic instruction to the farm boys in schools was brought out today by R. E. Miller, of Pavo, who reported that, as sales manager for farmers' organizations, he had sold $30,000 worth of melon and truck crops during May, June and July.

The Pavo Truck Growers' association, an organization of 167 Brooks and Thomas county farmers, placed their potatoes, beans, corn, squash, okra and cucumbers in the hands of Mr. Miller, teacher of vocational agriculture in the Pavo High school, and he disposed of them at a profit.

On May 13, Mr. Miller reported that they shipped a solid carload of snap beans, which brought $3 a hamper, or about $3.44 a bushel. The carload brought $1,500, and so far as the Pavo farmers have been able to learn, was the first carload of snap beans shipped from a country shipping point in the state.

The Pavo melon growers sold more than twenty cars of melons at an average price of $140 a car.

HEARST EDITOR DENIES ORDERS TO "GET" FALLON

New York, August 7.—Victor Watson, executive editor of William Randolph Hearst's New York American, took the witness stand Thursday at the trial of William J. Fallon for jury-bribing and denied that Hearst had ever ordered that Fallon "must be destroyed" because Fallon had information about Hearst's private life.

Fallon, a criminal lawyer who had a brilliant career of a few years on Broadway as the resourceful defender of Nickey Arnstein and other swindlers, is on trial in the federal court. Wednesday he contrived to get into the record indirect references to the birth certificates of two children of a nationally famous motion picture actress. He also worked in references to Hearst and Mrs. Hearst.

With entries in The Constitution's 1924 "Miss Atlanta" tournament coming to an official close at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, the tourney management Thursday sped the task of selecting 35 preliminary winners to appear before the judges at the Biltmore hotel next week.

Despite the fact that the close of entries is rapidly drawing to a close, no halt has been noted in the steady flow of new entrants to the studio on the sixth floor of The Constitution, and the management of the event Thursday night estimated that fully 500 pretty girls will have qualified before 1 o'clock Saturday.

Elimination Progressing.

Elimination, on a basis of photographs is now in progress, the management of the tournament working day and night in order to select the 35 most beautiful entrants in time to announce them in The Constitution of Sunday morning.

Meanwhile preparations are being made for the convenience and comfort of the lucky preliminary winners at the Biltmore, and the hotel management announces that all will be in readiness next week when the judging is scheduled.

A number of the 35 first winners have been decided upon and the management of the tourney announced Thursday night that one of the numerous girls who entered Thursday will be among the 35 to go before the judges.

Places Are Still Open.

Places are being left open in the list of 35 in order to care for possible winners who may enter today and tomorrow, and every girl who enters to the very last moment will stand the same chance enjoyed by girls who qualified on the first day of receiving entries.

No more studio appointments will be made by Wesley Hirshburg, but staff photographers of The Constitution will be on hand throughout today in the studio on the sixth floor of The Constitution building, and all pretty girls who have not yet qualified are invited to come in at their convenience and be photographed.

CAROLINA ASSEMBLY IN SPECIAL SESSION

Raleigh, N. C., August 7.—(By the Associated Press.)—Greeted by sweltering summer weather, the North Carolina general assembly today convened in extraordinary session to consider two matters which the governor of the state considers of primary importance.

Tonight the members had before them the governor's recommendation that they adopt and submit to a vote of the people the recommendation of the state ship and water commission, providing:

Creation of state port terminals at various points on the eastern coast of North Carolina.

Ask Big Bond Issue.

Authorization of a bond issue for $7,000,000 for port terminals, warehouses, docks, etc., on land donated by the cities.

Authorization of a bond issue for $1,500,000 to be used if necessary to establish a state-owned ship line.

Creation of a commission with the power to carry out the recommendations of the present commission, and with authority to issue and spend the bond issues as provided by law.

Authorization of the re-acquisition by the state of the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley railroad, built by the state and sold years ago and divided by the Southern Railway and the Atlantic Coast Line railroad.

Submit Amendment.

They also had the recommendation of the governor for repeal of the measure submitting to the people a constitutional amendment relating to the sinking fund for the state highway bonds, which provides that none of the gasoline and motor vehicle license taxes shall be placed in the sinking fund, and adoption of an amendment porviding for use of these taxes in the sinking fund. This amendment would be submitted to the people in November and the governor told the assembly in joint session at noon that the credit of the state was in danger of impairment unless they acted according to his recommendation.

New York, August 7.—After an early decline cotton prices today recovered partially on apprehensions that the drouth had not been fully relieved and on continued cheerfulness over prospects for a settlement of reparations. October contracts rallied from 27.52 to 28.18 and closed at 28.06, with the general market closing steady at net declines of 14 to 22 points.

Heavy selling broke out at the start on private reports of rains in north and west Texas and weakness in Liverpool. First prices were 51 to 62 points lower and the early decline extended to 26.94 for December and 26.85 for January, or 60 to 68 points net lower and a shade below the levels reached on the break of late last week. The volume of offerings tapered off a tthese figures and covering became more active after the publication of the official weather map showing less rain than expected in the southwest.

The western belt forecast, which called for partly cloudy weather, but held out no definite promise of further rains, was also a disappointment to early sellers, and the market showed considerable strength during the afternoon. Reports that Germany had accepted the allied proposals on defaults and penalties contributed to the late advance which carried December up to 27.55 or within a point of yesterday's closing quotation. The close was 10 or 15 points off from the best under realizing.

The average of estimates by members of the New York cotton exchange points to a condition report of 28.1 tomorrow. No exports were reported today. Exports so far this season were 17,185 bales. Port receipts 1,865. U. S. port stocks 220,660.

SPOTS IN NEW YORK.

New York, August 7.—Cotton quiet; middling, 31.10.

COVERING SEEN AT NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, August 7.—The cotton market today was spasmodically active, being characterized by heavy long liquidation in the early portion of the May and by equally heavy covering by shorts in the later portion of the session. It was a typical weather market, although during the last hours of trading favorable news from London as to the success of the conference over reparations in progress there caused a sharp rally and brought about a rapid recovery of all of the morning's loss.

Liverpool came in much lower than due, the market there being influenced by overnight advices of good rains in the southwest, that is ,in Texas. As a result the market had a weak start, prices easing off rapidly under liquidation until October traded down to 26.60 and December to 26.70, or 52 and 62 points below the closing levels of yesterday. The posting of the weather map showing only light rains in Texas and the 10 o'clock weather report also failing to show the general rains privately reported, caused active covering which ran prices up 45 to 58 points from the lows.

During the afternoon October traded up to 27.32 and December to 27.33, or 63 to 72 points up from the lows of the day. This rally caused the recovery of all the earlier loss and December showed a net gain of 1 point. The close showed net losses for the day of 5 to 9 points, owing to a slight reaction in the last minutes of trading.

SPOTS IN NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, August 7.—Spot cotton, quiet, 9 points down; sales on the spot, 15 bales; to arrive, none. Low middling, 24.98; middling, 28.23; good middling, 29.35. Receipts, 557; stock, 50,978.

News, Views And Reviews

Stock Letters.

FENNER & BEANE.

New York, August 7.—Activity in the stock market was again curtailed today making the third day of reactionary tendencies and slowing up in volume. Reactions did not extend throughout the list, however, as there were some stocks that were actually buoyant, D. L. & W. was one of these, reaching 137. We have mentioned this issue as having shown accumulation during the past few weeks.

LIVINGSTON & CO.

New York, August 7.—There was practically no news to influence prices and the turnover was not particularly heavy. Believe, however, trend is definitely upward and stocks are a purchase.

Cotton Letters.

POST & FLAGG.

New York, August 8.—No one knows what surprise may be in store for tomorrow, but it is obvious that the trade cannot buy at all freely at this level and still less on advances and that before much more water passes under the bridge a larger volume of hedge selling must be provided for. Speculative support requires constantly fresh stimulus and it is a question whether that will be supplied steadily.

FENNER & BEANE.

New York, August 7.—The market, after opening down on reported rains, ran into heavy short covering and bull crowds were quick to take advantage of fear of traders to sell short in face of tomorrow's bureau report. Under the weight of the early movement with prices at this level we continue to believe that advances of any consequence will b difficult to hold.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO.

New York, August 7.—If the weather does not break now and we have no general rains there is a likelihood that the drought will continue for another two weeks, for that usually is the case in Texas. A noticeable feature in the market was the lack of selling induced by these showers, as it was generally anticipated that any rain at all would bring very heavy liquidation. The market is holding steady in anticipation of a slightly bearish bureau report, and this afternoon found an evening up process going on. After the bureau report tomorrow we will be able to have a clearer idea as to just what to expect as to the future. Liverpool futures are due tomorrow: October, 16.02; December, 15.67.

C. P. ELLIS& CO.

New Orleans, August 7.—Remembering the experience of the last bureau report the scattered short interest has pretty well covered up over tomorrow's report, leaving the market technically weakened and in poor shape to withstand any important amount of selling.

New York, August 7.—Spirited trading in foreign bonds, sending most issues to new peak prices for the year as the allies and Germans reached complete accord on the default system of the Dawes plan, and sharp breaks in Liberty issues made today's bond market one of the most interesting in weeks.

Heavy selling of Liberty bonds during the day was followed by brisk bidding for the government issues in over-the-counter trading, when the federal reserve bank of New York, following the close of the market, announced another cut in the re-discount rate to 3 per cent.

Trading in foreign obligations, with French, Austrian, Serbian and other continental issues all establishing new high records, virtually monopolized the market's interest. Total sales exceeded $22,000,000 for the first time since the middle of June.

Taking advantage of favorable bond market conditions, the Argentine government sold $20,000,000 six-months 5 per cent treasury bills to refund $20,000,000 5 1-2 per cent short-term notes maturing August 25. Bankers placed the issue privately on a 3 7-8 per cent basis.

Liverpool 'Change Halts Trading in American Futures Beyond July, 1925

New York, August 7.—There will be no trading on the Liverpool exchange in contracts for future delivery of American cotton beyond July, 1925, the New York Cotton exchange was notified this afternoon.

The decision of the Liverpool Cotton association was made known in a communication from its secretary, A. C. Nickson, to Secretary Thomas Hale, of the New York Cotton exchange, which read:

"The directors have decided that until further notice there will be no trading in contracts for future delivery of American cotton beyond July, 1925."

This action is in line with cables received here early in the week to the effect that the Liverpool Cotton exchange was dissatisfied with certain phases of the new international cotton standards, which became effective on August 1, although agreeing with other European countries to adopt their use for one year. It was intimated then that the exchange would drop out of the agreement at the end of this period.

Cotton exchange officials here would make no comment pending a reply from Liverpool to a cable message sent by President E. E. Bartlett, Jr., for detailed information.

Low 1924	90.27	81.00

Total sales, 814,750.

New York, August 6.—Stock prices continued to lose ground today on fresh profit-taking and professional selling despite attempts to rally the list by staging bullish demonstrations in certain rails and industrial specialties. Trading was again on a reduced scale, total sales approximating about 815,000 shares.

Chief speculative interest today seemed to be centered in the bond and foreign exchange markets. Most of the foreign government loans advanced to new high levels for the year, while demand sterling registered a sensational gain of more than six cents to $4.51⅜, a new high record for the year.

A further reduction in the local federal reserve rediscount rate from 3½ to 3 per cent was not announced until after the market closed. News of the German acceptance of the allied terms on the manner in which defaults are to be declared under the Dawes plan accounted for the strength of the French bonds and foreign exchanges, but was without effect on the stock market.

Good buying was noted in the railroad group, Lackawanna rising nearly 5 points to 137¼, and Pere Marquette nearly 4 points to 65½, each at new high records for the year. Delaware & Hudson, Pittsburgh & West Virginia, Jersey Central, Nickel Plate and Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis also sold at the year's best prices, while Canadian Pacific, Norfolk & Western, Frisco preferred and Texas & Pacific gained a point or more. Buying of the so-called Van Sweringen issues probably was influenced by reports that an agreement had been reached for an exchange of stocks of five roads into the proposed new "Nickel Plate" system.

National Lead jumped more than 4 points to 157½ and then fell back to 154¼ on a denial of reports that the stock was to be split up. General Electric duplicated its record high at 281, but reacted later to 275½. Slass-Sheffield closed nearly a point higher, but the other steels were heavy, United States Steel dropping more than a point to 107¼ and Gulf States reacting 1½ points to 72½. Davison Chemical broke sharply.

Schulte Stores, Foundation company, Fleischmann, Texas Gulf Sulphur, American Smelting preferred, Corn Products preferred, United States Distributing preferred, and American and foreign power certificates all sold at the year's highest prices. Cuyamel Fruit and Federal Light and Traction broke through their previous lows. Wilson & Co. issues also were heavy.

Call money continued to rule at 2 per cent. Some business in 90-day time loans was reported at 2½ per cent, although lenders as a rule held out for 2¾. Sixty-day funds were available at 2 per cent and the longer maturities at 3½. The commercial paper market was quiet with rates unchanged.

All European exchange rates improved in sympathy with the advance in sterling. French francs ruled around 5½ cents.

NEW GAINS SEEN IN WHEAT PRICES

Chicago, August 7.—General buying of all grain received a decided stimulus today from reports that Germany had agreed to accept the Dawes plan. The wheat market closed strong at the day's top figures, 1 1-8 to 2 1-2 net higher, September 129 3-8 to 129 5-8 and December 133 to 33 1-8 with corn 1-2 to 1c up, oats 1-8 to 1-2 off, and provisions varying from 15c decline to an advance of 2c.

Helped by a rise in quotations at Liverpool and reports of progress at the reparations conference, wheat had an upward tendency with gossip that the peak of the winter wheat movement had been passed, counting also as strengthening factors. It was estimated that today's purchases for Europe would take 1,000,000 bushels or more. On the other hand, hedging sales were of considerable effect as a drag on values. Latest figures on the wheat crop proved to be about as had been generally expected.

Corn rallied with wheat at the last, but previously had lacked buying support. Surprise was expressed over the crop report as to corn, the total production officially forecast being about 40,000,000 bushels less than the average of private estimates here.

Oats felt the effect of selling based on correct belief that the government reports would be bearish.

Provisions rallied with grain.

Grain Letter.

FENNER & BEANE.

Chicago, August 7.—WHEAT: Displayed considerable firmness, but upturns ran into liquidating sales and buying restricted to some extent by the expectation that the government report to be posted after the close would be bearish. Foreigners were credited with good buying and it was believed there was a great deal of reinstating being done by eastern interests and locals. Weather more settled but cooler and there were indications of slight frost in parts of Saskatchewan. Late in the session, the wheat market had a sharp upturn on reports of the acceptance by Germany of the Dawes plan in full. We continue to advocate purchases on all dips.

CORN: Early bulges attracted scattered selling through commission houses, some of the local professionals gave support, but outside buying was limited. Weather somewhat more favorable.

OATS: Scattered liquidation through commission houses caused a decline which met with stop loss orders that added to the weakness.

RYE: Trade moderate with liquidation by longs who were transferring their interest to wheat. New buying was poor. The acceptance of the Dawes plan should prove quite bullish on rye.

PROVISIONS: Light trade with selling by tired holders. Packers bought on the decline. Hog market, 10 to 15 lower; top, 10.35.

Cut in Reserve Rate Will Boost Stocks, Says Barnum

BY R. L. BARNUM.

New York, August 7.—The cut in the Federal Reserve Bank of New York discount rate to three per cent was unexpected by Wall street Wednesday being the regular day for any changes in the rate. The reduction is calculated to send stock prices up still further.

Trading in stocks today was lighter than yesterday when the turnover for the first day in sixteen, not including Saturday's, ran below a million shares. Davison Chemical was the feature with a sharp decline on a published statement that one of the Standard Oil companies had made a test of the silica gel process for refining oil and had decided not to use it.

The silica gel company is owned by Davison Chemical. No detailed information was given out as to why Standard Oil had turned down the silica gel process.

There was very little trading in oils. Industrials held firm with the rails strong, Norfolk and Western being the feature.

Rights to subscribe to Replogle stock made a new low on the stock exchange, selling at plain eight cents. That makes a new low quotation for all time for any security listed on the exchange. Before the reorganization, Rock Island shares sold at 12 1-2 and the same quotation was named for Wabash shares before the reorganization of that company. When Wabash shares were quoted at 12 1-2 a holder was advised by his broker to sell.

Estimates were made here today that the unfilled order statement of the U. S. Steel corporation, to be issued at noon Saturday, would show a decline of around 100,000 tons for July against the loss of 365,584 tons reported for June, the decrease of 580,359 for May and the shrinkage of 574,360 for April. It was also predicted that the statement for August, to be published a month hence, would probably show an increase the first time since last February.

President Grace, returning from Europe, predicts no difficulty in floating the new German loan in this country provided subscribers are given good security. He does believe that if the loan is made the American Steel industry will feel keen competition from the German steel mills.

Because of the large number of securities included, the monthly price index of the New York Trust company is always interesting, today's covering July showing an advance of .56 of a point for 66 bonds in six classifications. In bonds the gain since January 1 is 3.89 points and in stocks 4.83 points.

Bonds classed under Liberty and Treasury issues show a gain of .46 of a point for July and 4.15 points for the seven months; foreign governments and foreign city bonds were up respectively .38 of a point and 3.26; railroad, .20 and 4.69; public utilities, 1.38 and 6.17; industrial, .47 and 1.22. For those stocks classified as railroad were up 4.2 points for July and down 11.20 for the seven months; motors, including accessories, were up .43 of a point for July and down 11.30 points for the seven months.

Cottonseed Oil.

New York, August 7.—Cottonseed oil declined 9 to 26 points early on reports of rains in the southwest and lower cotton. Later good buying by refiners and commission houses and shorts on the upturn in grains and favorable European political news firmed the market up and final bids showed net gains of 3 to 11 points. Sales 21,400 barrels. Prime crude 11.25 nominal; prime summer yellow, spot 14.00; September closed, 13.21; October, 12.07; December, 10.90; March, 11.07, all bid.

Moody On Public Utilities

"The stability of the public utility business is due entirely to its essential character. To this may be added consideration of the fact that the business is nearly on a cash basis, is properly non-competitive and involves no extensive inventories."

You will be interested in reading our new booklet, "Public Utilities For Sound Investment," containing a timely analysis of the public utility field, with further comment by the Moody Investors' Service Bureau. Write for a free copy now.

TONE IRREGULAR IN CURB MARKET

New York, August 7.—Irregular price fluctuations took place in today's curb market which was featured by flurries of active trading in a few special stocks. Oils were reactionary, losses of a point or more being recorded by Prairie Oil and Gas, Penn Mexico Fuel, Imperial of Canada and Standard Oil of Kansas.

An extreme break of four points in Silicia Gel voting trust certificates, based on rumors that the company's process had been turned down by one of the large oil companies, featured the industrial list. Lehigh Valley Coal certificates, the most active issue, improved fractionally while Glen Alden Coal moved up 1 3-8 on a small turn over. Radio shares were heavy, Dubilier breaking two points and Ware, one.

Speculative interest in the mining group was confined to a few penny stocks in which pools are believed to be operating.

DAILY STOCK FEATURE

Over Fenner & Beane's Private Leased Wire.

GENERAL PETROLEUM: General Petroleum is expected to earn more than $5 a share for its stock this year. The outlook for the maintenance of a large future production is excellent as drilling operations indicate the proving up of a large reserve in the Kettlemen district of California where Gentenral Petroleum owns a large tract of land heretofore unproven.

WOOLWORTH: Sales report of Woolworth company for July indicate renewed gain in retail merchandising after slight lull in June. Last month business ran nearly $2,000,000 ahead of July, 1923, while in June, 1924, increase was but $571,000.

SMALL INCREASE SEEN IN REPORT OF JULY FAILURES

New York, August 7.—Only a slight change occurred in the number of business failures in the United States last month, a total of 1,615 being reported to R. G. Dun & Co. This represents an increase of five-tenths per cent over the 1,607 defaults of June, though the July liabilities of $36,813,238 are about 8 per cent in excess of the $34,099,031 of the earlier month. The heavier indebtedness is acounted for by the larger amount involved by the failures of unusual size, those for $100,000 or more in each case numbering 54 and having liabilities of $19,715,819. Similar defaults in June numbered 46, for about $14,128,000. All commercial failures considered, the number for last month, if slightly above that for June, is below the totals for all other months this year and shows a decrease of 23 per cent from the high point reached last January. When comparison is made with the returns for July, last year, a sharp increase is shown, the defaults of that period numbering 1,231. That, however, marked the smallest aggregate for any month since November, 1920, the business mortality during the summer of last year, in point of number of failures, having been at an unusually low level. Yet the liabilities for July of 1923, despite the relatively small number of defaults, exceeded $35,700,000, the average of $29,018 per failure being considerably above the average of $22,795 for the same month of the present year.

As usual, the largest proportion of the July defaults occurred among traders, 1,124 such failures forming 69.6 per cent of the total number for that month. In June, similar defaults numbered 1,084, for a percentage of 67.5, and in July, 1923, the number was 828 and the ratio 67.3 per cent. Among manufacturers last month's failures numbered 416, or 25.8 per cent of the aggregate of all commercial defaults, these figures comparing with 439 manufacturing failures in June, for a percentage of 27.3, and 350 in July of last year, when the percentage was 28.4. In the class including agents, brokers, etc., the number of defaults last month was 75 and the ratio to the total of all commercial failures was 4.6 per cent, while 84 similar defaults occurred in June, for a percentage of 5.2, and 53 were reported in July, 1923, the ratio at that time being 4.3 per cent. It thus appears that, in point of number, last month's manufacturing failures made a relatively better showing than those of both June and of July, 1923, and the ratio of defaults among agents, brokers, etc., was lower than that of June. Among traders, however, the percentage of failures was higher than for both June and July, last year.

MONEY AT WORK

Brief But Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

TO ECONOMIZE
THE PRESIDENT OF A COMPANY
THE BUYERS AT A DISTANCE
THE SALES PEOPLE AT THE COUNTER
THE DELIVERY MEN
ALL MUST HELP

Is it good business to bother with small economies?

"What's the use of trying to save every little thing?" asked a worried business man the other day. "While I am looking after petty savings I lose good business that would have made me more money than I saved."

The fault in that man's business is not in his principle of economy but in his method of applying the principle.

The detailed accounting for small items is not the business of a high-priced executive nor of the man who should be going after business. The president of a bank does not account for typewriter ribbons nor does the sales manager of a business heck up on postage stamps.

But the trend toward economy must come from the top and must be the consistent practice of every man in the organization, from top to bottom. Every employee must feel that small economies are practiced—not at all because the firm is petty or niggardly, but because the firm is so sound and well managed that waste will not be tolerated.

Col. Hester Predicts Increase In Commercial Cotton Crop

New Orleans, August 7.—Colonel H. G. Hester, secretary of the New Orleans Cotton exchange, places the total commercial cotton crop of 1923-24 at 11,290,397 bales, an increase over 1922-23 of 7,591, and a decrease under that of 1921-22 of 261,726, according to the annual report issued here today.

Colonel Hester placed the commercial crop of Texas at 965,000 bales over last year. The crop of "other gulf states," embracing Louisiana, Mississippi, Arkansas, Tennessee, Oklahoma, Missouri, California, Kansas and New Mexico decreased 742,000, while the deliveries from the group of Atlantic states, including Alabama, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Kentucky and Virginia, decreased 216,000 bales.

The average grade of the crop was strict low middling to middling, the report says.

The average value per bale was higher than in any year since 1919-1920. The start in August was at the lowest and the market continued to advance until December, the peak month, with an improvement of $40 a bale. Unfortunately for domestic manufacturing interests, Colonel Hester says, the price of goods did not follow the advance in raw material, and with partial cessation of the demand, values sagged until the July average registered a loss of $20 a bale, half of the price improvement. April and May witnessed a partial recovery due to the fact that foreign spinners, reasoning the advantage of cheaper cotton, entered the market freely.

More Bales Go Abroad.

The situation abroad, said the report, though not satisfactory, has shown a distinct improvement. Great Britain took nearly 450,000 bales more than last year and there was exported to Germany, in round figures, 1,300,000 bales against 934,000 last year. The exports to foreign countries increased more than 954,000 bales. Of the commercial crop 51.4 per cent, an equivalent of nearly 53 per cent of the year's growth, Colonel Hester said, went to feed foreign spindles.

The report placed the average price of middling cotton during the year at 31.67 cents per pound, as compared with 24.06 last year, 17.78 the year before last, and 16.08 cents in 1920-21.

The value of the crop, including the seed, was placed at $1,895,143,040, against $1,574,299,839 last year.

The actual growth of the crop of 1923-24, the report said, was 10,985,000 bales, and the amount of cotton carried over on July 31 was 2,319,000 bales, against 2,573,000 last year, a decrease of 254,000 bales. The carryover included 230,000 bales of linters against 177,000 on July 31, 1923.

The commercial crop by states follows (in thousands of bales):

States.	1923-24	1922-23
Alabama	710	981
Arkansas	725	1,118
Florida	15	30
Georgia	790	1,035
Louisiana	394	368
Oklahoma	705	664
Mississippi	758	1,108
N. Carolina	1,262	1,068
S. Carolina	920	799
Tennessee	609	675
Texas	4,402	3,437
Total crop (bales)	11,290	11,283

Exports of cotton to foreign ports were given as 5,804,934 bales, against 4,850,795 last year and 6,322,470 the year before; an increase, compared with last year of 954,139 and a decrease under year before last of 517,536.

CONFESSED MURDERER OF FIVE HANGS TODAY

Ville Platte, La., August 7.—With word received here late today that Governor Fuqua would not interfere with the law's course, final preparations for the hanging of Euzebe Vidrine, confessed slayer of five men, according to Sheriff Charles Pucheau, shortly after noon tomorrow, were being made tonight.

The crime for which Vidrine will pay the extreme penalty was the murder of Robert Leo Wiggins, son of a former sheriff of Evangeline parish, on May 19. Young Wiggins was killed on a country road when he refused to give the condemned man a ride in his automobile.

Vidrine's first victim, according to Sheriff Pucheau, was Pierre Vidrine—no relation to the prisoner—aged farmer living near Ville Platte, who was shot in the back while he was at work in his field. The farmer's widow maintained Euzebe was the slayer and although he was tried for murder he won an acquittal from the jury. The second victim was Charles Garbo, tranfer man of Lafayette, shot and killed by a passenger whom he was driving from Lafayette to Crowley. Garbo was robbed after the slaying. The same night Garbo was killed, John Roy, a mulatto jitney driver, was slain by a passenger between Eunice and Crowley. Vidrine, who had admitted that killing also, was held for a time for investigation but released. The fourth slaying was that of Lee Duke, a jitney driver who operated a car between Orange and Beaumont, Texas. Vidrine, according to the sheriff, declares he shot and killed Duke while riding as a passenger and as usual robbed his victim.

Wiggins was killed several months ago near here when Vidrine said he stopped him on the highway and asked to be taken in Wiggins' car to Ville Platte. Wiggins declined to do so and Vidrine shot him.

Vidrine recently completed a book detailing the history of his life and telling of the crimes he had committed. The book, which is not to be made available to the public until after the execution, set for noon tomorrow, contains the story of the five murders he had committed, Sheriff Pucheau said.

Rivera To Keep Place at Helm Of Spanish State

Madrid, August 7.—General Primo de Rivera will remain at the head of the Spanish government. Following an interview with King Alfonso, De Rivera announced that he and his military directory, which has been governing Spain for nearly a year, would remain in power.

"The situation is unchanged. The directory will remain in power," the dictator told reporters after he had conferred with the king. "The atmosphere of distrust which I found upon my arrival at Madrid was easily dissipated."

It had been rumored that the king would demand that De Rivera relinquish power, but the dictator conferred lengthily with his military friends before he saw Alfonso and his statement to the press is interpreted as meaning that the king tried to force him out, but yielded to De Rivera's refusal to step down.

IDENTIFY SLAYERS OF BRITISH WOMAN AS "HIGHWAYMEN"

Washington, August 7.—The slayers of Mrs. Rosalie Evans, a British subject living in Mexico, have been identified as "common highwaymen," according to an announcement today by the Mexican embassy, which confirmed reports from Mexico City that they had been captured and placed in jail.

The text of the embassy statement said:

"The capture yesterday morning of Mrs. Rosalie Evans' assailants has been officially reported to the Mexican embassy. The slayers have been identified as common highwaymen who are responsible for previous similar attacks committed in the vicinity of the place where Mrs. Evans was killed.

"The guilty men are now in the city of Puebla, where they will be brought before the competent court.

"Captain Hallcombe, of the staff of the British legation, has been a witness of the active and effective efforts that have been made by Mexican authorities to clear up the crime."

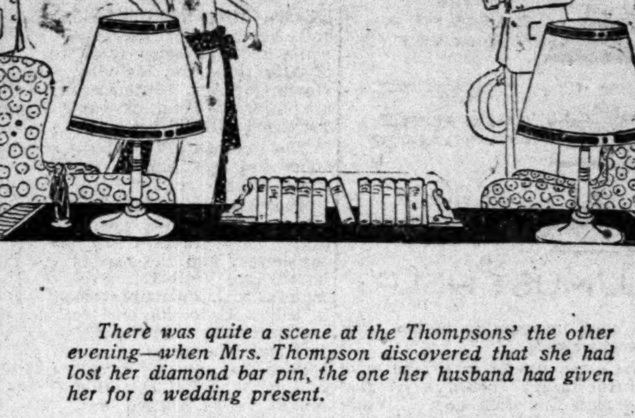
USE CONSTITUTION CLASSIFIED ADS

IT HAPPENS EVERY DAY



There was quite a scene at the Thompsons' the other evening—when Mrs. Thompson discovered that she had lost her diamond bar pin, the one her husband had given her for a wedding present.

Mr. Thompson probably had the hardest time of anybody, because he had both his wife and the lost pin on his hands, so to speak. Next day he said he had thought the hardest job would be to find the pin, but that really was easier than getting his wife calmed down.

First of all, he said, he gave Mrs. Thompson a liberal application of smelling salts and persuaded her to "lie down for a while."

Then he told her about all the people he could recall, who had lost things and had them returned. This didn't seem to be very convincing, he admitted.

And then he called MAin 5000.

And the next morning a man, with a Constitution—opened to the lost and found ads in the classified section—under his arm and Mrs. Thompson's pin in his pocket, called at the house—and the sun came out again!

That evening Mr. Thompson said "I told you so," and added under his breath—"but I didn't believe it myself!"

Georgia Solons Told of Perils To Constitution

Speaking before a joint session of the Georgia senate and house of representatives Thursday night, Harry F. Atwood, nationally famous authority on the constitution of the United States, delivered a scholarly address on "The Constitution and How To Maintain It."

Mr. Atwood, who is famous as a lawyer, author, lecturer and teacher, is professor of political economy at Columbia university and president of the Constitution Anniversary Association of Chicago. He spoke before the legislature after an invitation had been extended in a joint resolution introduced by Representative Lee J. Langley, of Floyd county. After the Thursday night session had come to order, Speaker Neill called on Representative Langley to present Mr. Atwood to the assembly.

Mr. Atwood described the constitution of the United States as the most important document in the history of the world and declared its effect on the history of mankind to have been greater than any other creation of the brain of man. He read extracts from letters written by George Washington two years before the signing of the constitution, and others written three years afterward, showing that in the five-year period conditions in America changed from chaos comparable only to that in Russia at her worst to a condition of orderly government, national credit and social stability.

Laments Encroachments.

The speaker lamented the encroachment of the theories of democracy into American governmental affairs, saying that the signers of the constitution formed a system of representative government through selected servants of the people and regarded the ideas of democracy as mob rule and a forerunner of chaos. The very word "democracy" in those days, he said, was held in the same disrepute as the word "bolshevism" is today.

He said that the last quarter century had seen a serious departure from the ideas embodied in the constitution, in that it had encouraged and developed the ideas of direct government by the people, instead of representative government. He pointed out the perils of initiative, referendum and recall and the direct primary system, and likened these methods with a system of baseball umpiring where the teams would be chosen by direct primary of the bleachers before every game, and where the umpire made his decisions, not according to the play but according to his own interpretation of the wishes of the bleachers.

Cites Trial of Christ.

He cited the trial of Christ as an example of the evils of democratic rule, saying that it was the mob that seized Christ. This, he said, was the exercise of the popular initiative. Then he said the mob carried Christ before Pilate, the judiciary. Pilate asked "Who is this man," and they replied, "He is a Galilean." Pilate then said Christ came under the jurisdiction of Herod, but Herod sent Him back and reported he found Him innocent.

Then Pilate heard the evidence and likewise acquitted Him. "I find no fault in Him." "But then," said Mr. Atwood, "the referendum and recall began to work, with the result that Christ was crucified and Barabbas set free."

Only by holding fast to the constitution can the United States hope to live and grow, said the speaker. If this nation does not retrace its steps of the past 25 years and revive its respect for the constitution and conduct its government in strict accord with that document, Mr. Atwood said that it would witness soon the setting of its sun of empire and pass into the limbo of forgotten things, a nation which has had its little day of greatness and has fallen back to ruin and decay with the others which have passed before.

HEAT WAVE IN EAST BROKEN BY SHOWERS

Washington, August 7.—The heat wave which blanketed eastern sections of the country for the last three days was pronounced by the weather bureau tonight as definitely broken, after a day which started out with temperatures that threatened to equal those of yesterday. Local thundershowers over a wide area ushered in cooler airs from the northwest, and the weatherman predicted the thermometer would stay down to more moderate levels during the next two days.

A maximum official temperature here today of 96 degrees, compared with 101.6 degrees yesterday, was said by the weather bureau to be a difference of temperatures for the two days that held pretty generally throughout the sections where the heat wave has been most pronounced.

THUNDERSTORM BREAKS NEW YORK HEAT WAVE.

New York, August 7.—A thunderstorm lasting about fifteen minutes and followed by showers this evening broke the heat wave here. The rain sent the thermometer from 93, its highest point, reached at 5 o'clock, down to 87.

Three dead and scores prostrated was the day's toll of the heat wave.

THREE DEAD OF HEAT PROSTRATION AT PITTSBURG.

Pittsburg, Pa, August 7.—Three persons died from heat prostration today, despite a drop of 20 degrees in the temperature. A shower brought relief, bringing the temperature to 70 degrees.

14 BOSTON RESIDENTS PROSTRATED BY HEAT.

Boston, August 7.—The hottest August 7 in Boston since 1876 today prostrated fourteen persons here, and reports of deaths and illness attributed to the heat came from many cities in the state. For two hours this afternoon the mercury clung to its high point of the summer, 97 degrees. A brisk shower in the early evening was able to tumble the temperature only nine degrees.

TERRIFIC WINDSTORM SWEEPS CONNECTICUT.

JEFFERSON'S LIFE SUBJECT OF TALKS AT TEN CLUB MEET

The life and achievements of Thomas Jefferson were discussed at the August meeting of the Ten club, held Thursday night at the home of Dr. M. L. Brittain, 142 West North avenue. A feature was the reading of a paper by W. W. Orr chronicling Jefferson's life history, and this was followed by a general discussion.

The discussion was the third of a series of ten in which lives of great Americans are to be reviewed, George Washington and Benjamin Franklin having been the subjects at two previous meetings. At the September meeting, to be held at the home of Mell R. Wilkinson, the life of Andrew Jackson will be discussed.

In addition to Dr. Brittain and Mr. Orr, members of the club who attended the meeting were Dr. John E. White, F. J. Paxon, H. M. Willet, Judge S. H. Sibley, Mell R. Wilkinson and Judge Marcus W. Beck. D. G. Bickers, of the Savannah News, and J. R. McCain, president of Agnes Scott college, were especially invited guests, and Mr. Bickers invited members of the club to meet with the Congress club, of Savannah, in the near future.

Choked by Grief, Wade and Ogden Join Air Pals

(Copyright, 1924, in United States and Canada, by the North American Newspaper Alliance.)

BY FREDERICK R. NEELY, Staff Correspondent of The Washington Star.

On Board U. S. S. Richmond, Reykjavik Harbor, Iceland, August 7.—(Via Wireless.)—Choked with grief over the disaster that has temporarily put them out of the round-the-world flight, Lieutenant Leigh Wade and Sergeant H. H. Ogden greeted Lieutenant Lowell Smith, their commander, in this quaint little Icelandic capital for the first time since he saw them drop helpless into an unfrequented sea, several hundred miles from the Faroe Islands. Surrounded by the crowds that packed the harborfront avenue, and greeted as heroes, Lieutenant Smith and Lieutenant Erik Nelson waited on the shore until a motor trawler from the Richmond landed Wade and Ogden.

Breaking from the admiring hundreds who showered them with congratulations, the two remaining American fliers rushed to greet the two who have been temporarily ruled out of the race. Smith had barely time to stammer a word of sympathy to Wade when the latter, unable longer to conceal his feelings, burst into tears.

As Ogden saw the grief of his commander, he, too, seemed on the point of breaking down. Ever since the accident that resulted in the destruction of their ship, Ogden has maintained a cheerful attitude, but he bore up at the meeting under perceptible difficulty. With the greatest difficulty the comrade who had led him five-sixths of the way around the world quieted Lieutenant Wade and then informed him of the plan to put another ship at his command at Indian Harbor, Labrador, so that he might continue the journey through to completion.

In a cable to Major General Patrick, chief of the air service, Smith urged that the world flight insignia and the figure "3" be painted on the sides of the substitute Douglas cruiser, which is now preparing for its flight to Indian Harbor.

where do you buy yours?
When buying paints do you step in the nearest store and select colors—without regard to name—or insist on your favorite brand?
In no other product, perhaps, is quality more essential, or more economical, than in the paints, stains, varnish and wall finish used on or in your home.
Tripod paints have no superior.
